Diary of a Vagabond

By Dorothy Barker

It's like having stones in the bath, dearie, the beauty shop operator counsel me as she adjusted a tin-pound sand bag on my stomach and prepared to set to the table-manicure action.

That was weeks ago when I was still contemplating the CBR-conducted tour to Churchill. Mercifully, to be followed by the Canadian Weekly News paper Convention in Vancouver, I knew I couldn't afford to then remember a single calorie unless I shed at least ten pounds. Despite the fact that a well known physician of health and hygiene had [illegible] reducing machines as being completely useless I had the audacity to ask my neighbour's radio station to help me charge. Needless to say, I was stretched out on a mattress of one inches above the floor, with my head and shoulders in [illegible] and my feet resting on a chair. I felt the sun on my face and I remembered one of those [illegible] I bought the goddess, but the [illegible] forgetting I had to transport them in a cardboard suitcase filled with tin cans of water on a two-hour trip. They survived so I concluded myself that I thought I was mighty glad I am not addicted to sea urchins.

The sweet torture ended about a week before I remembered on the wonderful adventure. Now as I stood in the Winnipeg station surrounded by baggage a [illegible] a red cap and a taxi driver I had a deliciously reckless feeling I planted that as soon as I registered at The Fort Garry Hotel I would seek out the little Ukrainian restaurant where I had been told one could still order an honest to goodness Winnipeg Gold Eye.

Don't ever let anyone tell you that Winnipeg Gold Eyes are just glorified kippers. They are a delicacy beyond description and when you get hunks of home-made bread and [illegible] butter to add to the taste treat you know why the legend of the fish has spread even beyond our shores.

I ignored the gray looking mashed potatoes and canned peas floating around in a cloudy green sea of salt water that were served with it I simply gave thanks that the cafe was still in business.

Why this little assignment on tenderness had discarded for no rave ability to cook in preference for the ghastly Canadian gastronomic custom of dashing up [illegible] mashed potatoes and can [illegible] peas with almost every meal and the stumped I tried to be thankful he still knew better than anyone I had ever found how to steam a Gold Eye and that calorie reserve stored up that would conveniently allow me to gorge on a whole basket of crusty white bread.

As I ate I remembered that when I was a nipper of about nine, we arrived in Winnipeg to make our home for two years. It was a terribly cold, blustering morning and a wind howled around the corners of the station like a coyote baying for its mate. The Winnipeg I saw now had only a few familiar landmarks. The famous corner of Portage and Main, didn't look quite as formidable as it had on that day when my mother hailed a taxi to get three children and herself across the widest street in Canada because she couldn't fight the gale and hang on to us at the same time. On this sultry August day that childhood memory seemed like a dream.

Later I was assured by the taxi driver it was no dream, for this "Gateway to the West" still has its gales and temperatures

FREE SPINAL EXAMINATION FOR ALL SCHOOL CHILDREN

The majority of Canadian school children have their health affected by poor posture according to research figures. Many of them will have their future health permanently damaged. A perfectly balanced spine is essential to normal healthy functions and a spinal check up is an essential health measure.

Back-to-School Spinal Check-up Week is a free public service offered by the Alberta Chiropractic Association to all school children from kindergarten through high school. Here is all you do to have your children participate:

1. Make an appointment with your local doctor of chiropractic. (You'll find his address in the Yellow Pages.)

2. Plan to accompany any but high school youngsters when they keep the appointment.

Because the spine is the life-line of the human body, early detection of spinal abnormalities can prevent serious ailments later on. You can help your child to better health and a healthier future — simply make an appointment with a chiropractor here.

Sees Little Chance Of Fall Sitting

By Ken Bissett

Edmonton — Chances of a special fall session of the Legislature all but flew out the window last week.

Premier Manning made it at most official when he told reporters attending his press conference that the possibilities of a special House session are "almost nil. The proposed fall sitting would have been held to deal with the government's industrial tax plan.

As we had suggested here earlier, government thinking now is that by the time provincial government students are completed the next regular session will be thirty days at least and a fall session would hardly be worthwhile.

Asked if industrial tax legislation definitely will be introduced during the next session the premier said the department is on the analysis of evidence now being collected. Personally he said, he is keeping an open mind.

Whether this last statement has any hidden significance or not is anyone's guess. The cabinet and others covering the last session of the House were impressed the government had decided definitely in favor of re-distributing industrial tax revenue among municipalities

Provincial government statistics released last week showed farmers still are feeling the pinch of reduced earnings from grain and livestock. For the first seven months of the year, the report showed, farm income was down by more than $10,000,000. Total earnings from grain and livestock were $333,700,000 as to $ 2,410 and the value of [illegible] the January - July period this year against $251 776 00 of the same time in 1959.

Grain income dropped to $126 000 000 from last year's $120 512 000. Livestock receipts drop ped to $117,000,000 from $136 [illegible] 000.

Provincial statisticians say the drop in farm income is due to [illegible] to last fall's crop losses. This year, generally good crops could brighten the picture considerably, as long as [illegible] harvesting weather holds out.

The drop in farm income is reflected, naturally enough, in other areas of the provincial economy.

Retail trade in the province declined by 3.2 per cent to $[illegible] 362,000 during the first six months of the year. Wholesale business followed about the same pattern with a drop of 1.3 per cent to $454,985,426 for the period.

The heaviest blow was absorbed by furniture appliance and radio dealers who reported re ceipts down by a whop ping 12.1 per cent. Motor vehicle dealers were almost as bad off with business down 9.8 per cent.

Sales of new motor vehicles were off even more They drop ped 12.9 per cent to 23 129 units. The value of units sold was down 12.6 per cent at $75 666 000.

In other areas of the economy the value of building permits to date was down 10 per cent to the province's 18 cities and down 15 per cent in [illegible] municipalities.

The number of contract s awarded was down 34.4 per cent and the value of con- [illegible]

Many Towns Participate In Paving Program

Good progress is being made throughout the province in the construction of new streets and roads to place even more subdivisions in those municipalities especially in the vicinity of schools, hospitals churches and other community buildings.

This program is unique in Canada the Minister of Highways stated and is providing facilities that will service our immediate needs; people for many years to come.

THIS MENTAL HEALTH KICK

When we turned on the TV last night there was another of those boring dissertations on mental health.

My son said, 'Dad, what's this mental health kick that's going on.' That's all you hear these days.

I told him his question was a good one and that it would take a book length for us to answer it. But in the meanwhile as near as I can figure out the simplified but reasonably accurate answer would be that in the conflict between the Freudians on the one hand and the Freudians on the other, most of the talking is being done by the latter's supporters.

Bill looked blank. What is the name of Mental Health to the Protestant ethic?" he asked.

The Protestant ethic is the idea that man is endowed with free will and that each of us stands accountable for his acts before God. In other words, each of this kind are expected to be self-reliant and self-responsible and, therefore, must be free. You cannot hold an individual responsible for his acts unless he is free to choose his course of action. You cannot believe in the Protestant ethic and believe in determinism or conditioned reflexes, whichever you call it.

Minor Hockey Registration:
WHERE: Community Centre
WHEN: Saturday, October 8
TIME: 10:00 to 12:00 noon
FEE: $2.00
All girls and boys registering for figure skating or hockey will be required to pay a $2.00 registration fee. This fee will cover the time for figure skating in tourism, practice time in both arenas and hockey games. It does not cover general skating or figure skating instructional fees. Each girl and boy registering will receive a membership card. The fee is required to partially offset the cost of the longer season and the fact that figure skating and hockey players will receive more practice time with two arenas in operation.

No Smoking Regulations:
The No Smoking rule will be strictly enforced in the Community Centre. Besides fire hazard, smoke in the main building has been found to be objectionable to hockey players. All players are asked to co-operate by confining their smoking to the waiting room provided.

Figure Skating:
The executive of the figure skating club will be reviewing their plans for the coming season within the next few weeks. This group of hard working ladies are experiencing their usual difficulty in securing a first class instructor but judging from the past, the problem will be solved and a happier year can be expected.

Official Opening:
The official opening of the Community Centre is tentatively set for Friday evening, October 24th. The members of the Stettler Booster Club are busy lining up a first class program that will include senior hockey, figure skating, district brown belt, checkerboard room, father and son hockey game and the official ceremonies. This should be a great event deserves the whole hearted support of the town and district, so let's show our appreciation by filling the centre with a cash out crowd.

George Bengtson of Edmonton was killed at 5:30 p.m. Saturday when the car in which he was riding left the road 14½ miles south of Stettler and hit an approach.

The men were going hunting when the accident occurred.

Ask Co-operation Of Stockmen In Eradication Of Brucellosis

The first co-operation of stock growers in the County of Stettler is requested in order to facilitate the smooth and efficient operation of the brucellosis eradication program according to E. W. Walker district agricultural representative.

Mr Walker said The blood testing of adult cattle is the natural second phase of the whole plan which began several years ago when farmers of the County elected to have a compulsory vaccination program.

Mr Walker has written the following for the information of the stockmen Calfhood vaccination plays an important role in reducing Brucellosis infection to a point where a test and slaughter program can be introduced to eliminate the disease Cattlemen, however must realize that vaccination will not eradicate brucellosis Research trials and extensive field investigations have shown that on an average vaccination provides about 65-70 per cent protection to animals. When a vaccinated herd with no clinical abortion has positive animals it has been found that in most cases the infection is in the older and that the male can also Lve Brucella organisms. Milk from such cows can readily spread the disease to other cattle and to humans.

For this reason it is obvious that to completely eliminate the disease a well organized programme of testing and removal of infected animals from the herd as well as a rigid checking of all additions before they are allowed contact with your home herd is essential

Blood samples will be taken from all cattle except calves under five months and vaccination less than three years old providing proof of vaccination can be produced. Samples will be taken by veterinarians appointed by the Provincial Government. The animals must be held until released by the veterinarian and equipment should be so handled that the animal's head and neck may be extended through the front of the chute and held firmly to one side.

Monday Is Thanksgiving Holiday

Monday, October 13 is the annual Thanksgiving holiday and all stores and places of business will be closed.

THE GOLFERS CORNER

Dot DiCola Chosen President Stettler Lady Golfers

Ladies day was well attended last Thursday and after an enjoyable afternoon of golf, followed by a tasty supper, the gals held their election of officers for the coming season Dot DiCola was chosen president. Willie Fetherridge vice-president and Flo Armstrong, sec. treasurer. The other committees were left unchanged as they have been doing a real fine job and big things will be looked for from this executive as they are all keen golfers and good organizers Audrey Zender turned in the best score of the week and possibly for the year with a five over par 46. Audrey was even par at the end of number 6 but had a little trouble with that long old number 7, but that hole gives lots of the men trouble as well and has wrecked a lot of good scores.

The men don't seem to be doing quite as much golfing in the past week possibly the short evenings have something to do with it The best scores we found in the box was a 37 by Bob Scoble and a 38 by Cy Conlon.

Before we forget I would like to remind all the lady golfers if at all possible to turn out for Ladies Day this Thursday October 2 as invitations have been sent out to Drumheller and Lacombe ladies for an afternoon of golf and a little social afterwards Golf will start at 1 30 and tea will be served at approximately 5 p.m Any of the gals that can't get out for the golfing will really be welcome for lunch.

Eighteen classes will be held and will take place next Thursday in the gymnasium at 8:15 and each Thursday in the Playroom at the same time

Miss Judy Pedlar, who is attending Henderson Secretarial School, Red Deer, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs H A Pedlar.

1900 Enjoy Flyer - Stampeder Exhibition at Community Centre

Slightly more than 1900 fans saw Edmonton Flyers defeat Calgary Stampeders 7 to 2 at Stettler Community Centre Monday night and for the most part enjoyed the contest between the top professional teams

It was obvious that the players were not in top physical shape, and this was especially true of the Stampeders who had been on ice for only 12 days. However they showed flashes of brilliance one would expect of professionals and put up a pleasing exhibition.

Mayor Walter Klopfer faced off the opening puck.

The game was arranged by Frank Costigan, coach of Stettler Imperials.

Eighteen classes will be held and will take place next Thursday in the gymnasium at 8:15 and each Thursday in the Playroom at the same time

How your child can have fun learning to prevent fire... There's fun in the Hartford Junior Fire Marshal Program. There are red helmets, badges, honor rolls—even home inspection forms for the youngsters' use and a pass as real firemen do.

But the real value of the Junior Fire Marshal Program is educational. Your child learns fire safety principles that may someday save a life . . . and participates in a program that helps make your community a safer place in which to live.

We're pleased to cooperate with the Hartford Fire Insurance Company in sponsoring the Junior Fire Marshal Program in our local schools.

Daring Robbery Main News Item From Legislative Building

Edmonton — Biggest news s- [illegible] been in some out of the Legislative Building in the capital last week was a daring $57 000 robbery.

Four bonds who had obviously cased the job with meticulous attention to detail broke into the [illegible] and made off with $57 000 [illegible] made from the office of the provincial credit union.

When you stop to think about it the Legislative Building is a [illegible] fairly easy place to rob. There are only a couple or so men on duty at night and the building is not a part of the city which is visited too frequently by police on their regular patrols.

Small wonder then that the point in pulling off a robbery in the building because [illegible] office aren't in the habit of keeping large amounts of cash [illegible] The robbers obviously knew the night they picked was the 15th night of the month when the credit union office would be loaded with cash. At the end of every month the credit union manager [illegible] up on money to [illegible] pay cheques for civil servants. The money was left in a [illegible] safe in the office.

The cornerstone in the building is that leaving the money in the safe was a real mistake especially for the [illegible] supervisor in the nearby Highways Building was robbed of $17 000 just a month ago. The credit union money could have been locked up in one of several big vaults in the building.

The jobs making the rounds of government employees last week was that none could serve [illegible] colleagues after [illegible] reclassification he decided to make up for it all at once.

Like Mussolini in Alberta's [illegible] Liberal MLA But you wouldn't have guessed it last week when his hometown of Lac La Biche turned on its new $215 000 municipal airport gala [illegible]

Miller, who owns quite a bit [illegible] about his connections there, he does about every politico involved Premier Manning and Provincial Treasurer Ted Hugh seem to be guests of the town for the occasion.

They both him up on it, and at the head table for some 200 townspeople attended a banquet to congratulate themselves on having the first community to finance its own [illegible] through sale of revenue bonds.

Party politics were forgotten. Mike paid tribute to the premier and the treasurer saying that without their co-operation Lac La Biche would not have its gas system. And the premier paid tribute to Mike telling the audience how hard he worked on getting government co-operation for the project.

Later Premier Manning turned the valve and Mr Hinman [illegible] off a gas flame to mark the official turning on.

It was a big day for Lac La Biche Town Council declared a civic holiday. [illegible] of children turned up at school in the afternoon to meet the premier and the provincial treasurer.

Most of the 150-mile drive to Lac La Biche is on gravel but the road had never been at best shape. Don't know whether the premier's visit had anything to do with it but the grader were out two abreast putting the road into condition.

Across the length and breadth of Alberta this week farmers are busy harvesting their 1960 grain crops. And the consensus among most is that is a good crop.

In the Edmonton area the average yield is running around 30 bushels to the acre. In the Calgary and Lethbridge regions the yield varies from 19 to 30 bushels. Peace River district reports yields of 20 to 25 bushels. The only dark spot is in east-central Alberta, where dry weather has reduced the yield to around eight bushels per acre.

The total wheat yield is estimated at 181 000 000 bushels down 6 000 000 from last year. The average yield for the whole province is estimated at 26 bushels to the acre compared with the 10-year average of 19 b. Estimated yields of other grains are oats 113 000 000 bushels; barley 105 000 000 (less [illegible] 5 000 000); and rye 1 300 000

Next week October 9 to 15 is Fire Prevention Week. Stettler Fire Brigade is asking both ... to assist in fire ... by ... fire ... and ... part in the ... prevention ... campaign.

By world ... standards Canada's fire losses are a national disgrace.

More than one billion dollars is the sum of property destroyed in the last 10 years. This is an appalling, unnecessary waste for a country the size of ... in our history. On the average ... 5,555 persons have died and thousands of others have been scarred and disfigured for life.

The tragedy is that most fires ... caused by human carelessness.

Public education is the best way ... combat the menace. Statistics ... the home ... many deaths involve women and children. Items that would have been spared had the simplest rules of safety been observed.

In the room, the hazards our Fire Brigade is fighting are carelessness and thoughtlessness. Who, for instance, ... striking a match stops to think it is capable of destroying the community. Or who, inserting a 30-amp. in his ... an overworked electrical circuit ... sober that a family may be trapped out? That the birth of public education can save it slowly abroad in the ... land of the firefighters.

Don't give fire a place ... eta.

Attracting Industry

Lacombe is going to ... million dollar meat packing plant. Negotiations have apparently been going on for a month between ... and the ... company, and now ... the plant is practical ... assured its steady ... will ... doubtedly be a boost to the thriving Central Alberta town. Like Stettler ... is too dependent on the basic industry of agriculture. However ... in recent years Stettler has been ... are favored than Lacombe ... because of the large oil and natural gas ... in our area. In addition to the Stettler ... the busiest auction mart in Central Alberta and thus has attracted ... as a distribution ... to the town.

Nevertheless Stettler needs ... dary industries to help its economy. We cannot help but feel that some ... come at time goes on ... especially ... that it has been proven that there is an adequate underground ... water supply. However we hope we are not impertinent when we urge the Town Council and Board of Trade to ... always place the attraction of industry in a position of prime importance.

Another J & P

It was about 12 years ago that Mr. Stan Petherbridge opened his J & P Food Store at Stettler. Since then he has built up a chain of food markets in Central Alberta and last week he opened his seventh ... this time at Hanna.

This must constitute one of Central Alberta's most notable success stories.

Mr. Petherbridge is to be congratulated on his initiative. It proves what private enterprise can accomplish when it is backed up with ability, energy and guts.

We would like to point out that Mr. Petherbridge has always had time to devote to his community, although he above supervises his food store chain

Sugar and Spice

(By BILL SMILEY)

Canadian males, in general are agreed on one thing. They real judgement when they hear that the Rockies ... long from the musical Fair Lady, which asks the question: Why Can't a Woman be Like a Man?

They credit reasonable chaps that they are what a pleasant place the world would be if women could by some miracle be transformed into sensible, kindly creatures of ... and dare ... easy going people like men.

Canadian females are just as mutual on a gripe to which my wife gave vent the other evening for privilege of the husband, and seventh time ... they is it she hinted, that Canadian men never treat a woman as a human being.

A woman, she says goes to a party with her husband. She has a new dress, a new hair-do, and reeks of Treachery or Pure Vice or something similar by which she has shot $5 Themselves after she arrives she is sitting with a circle of other women, dabbing at lashes and ... dryers and drapes. All the men are not in the kitchen drinking happily or huddled at the other end of the living room hogging over politics and football.

The only communication between the sexes during the evening, claims my Old Woman occurs when one of the men hollers across the ... "Hey, Helen! What time did we get married?" In an effort to prove his point about which your Orinoco was the Grey Cup.

One other point of contact is made between the segregated groups, says My Girl, when the business across the head. Wearing among the flailing arms of the men to pour the golden ... receives less attention than the golden ... when she serves a waiter or a beverage room, she avers.

The way she sees it, the sexes should mingle freely. The women should stand about decoratively looking slightly nebulous. The men should come a-stedy pretty close. To them should come a steady procession of men, who indulge in ... flirtatious of men, who indulge in flirtatious ... and ... religion, in the customs of art, politics and religion, in the process bestowing on these mysterious and desirable creatures an occasional deep, hungry look, or a whimsical frustrated lift of eyebrow.

Well sir, fellows, you'll be glad to know that I didn't just sit there and swallow all this stuff without coming back with some pretty good ones of my own. First of all, I pointed out that this is a young country. It is only a couple of generations since the men did all their drinking in the bar-room and already they've got inside into the kitchen and they don't even spit on the stove.

I also suggest that Canadian men are hag-ridden. All they hear from their wives when they come home from work is about how there's something wrong with the washing machine and that darn mixer ... only left two quarts and the kids have been yelling today for ... you got to do something about them, and the church is after me again for you and I don't see how you can ... me to keep this house up without a cleaning woman and if you think you're getting a cleaning on Saturday ...

Not a sensible kindly human expression in the entire conference. Not a trace of a feminine wile, a dab of perfume a black negligee or a soft look. Not a suggestion that she's glad to have him home. Not a hint that he might have had a few things go wrong today at work. Not the slightest admission that she might be a bit of an old bat. Not even one lousy cold beer in the ice box because she split the last one with the other female martyr from next door, the afternoon.

Thirdly I understood that we Canadian males are not to be compared, even by the most wilfully ... to the ... princes the intellectuals and the waiters of Europe. I'd like to see one of them fix a kid's bike put on the storm windows, or stand calmly up to his bosom in icy water, fishing ... trout for eight hours without getting a bite. We are as I mentioned, not even compared to those hand-kissers.

Another thing. Time after time, I have tried to engage a Canadian woman in a mind-type conversation ... "You're looking particularly delicious tonight, my dear." I purr. How she giggles. "Dinner is doing fine now. Is homework for her age." Or ... "Well, you've certainly been busy at the ... church meeting or ... "Oh, this is just an old thing I pushed up in Rama's," she chuckles.

Trying to get a Canadian woman into a deep intellectual conversation is almost as easy as trying to convince a millionaire that easy as trying to convince a millionaire that he won't take it with him. But don't be discouraged, girls. We're coming along fast. Every so often you'll see a couple of us rare when you enter the room. But don't be annoyed if we manage to do it without looking at you, and without missing a single adjective in our description of the golf game we turned in last Sunday.

Food Suggestions For The Dairy Herd

A little extra feed now will return to the milk flow of the dairy herd and furthermore will increase to winter feeding Alberta's Dairy Specialist Dairy Cattle Improvement It pays to feed some of your production now no longer needs a maintenance ration to serve on

As the winter season approaches, management of the herd presents some problems Importance and research have shown that roughage is the most important single food During the winter dairying period milk cow will need three tons of hay to meet her requirements When sufficient high quality roughage is not available hay is supplied some grown will meet the concentrate requirements of any dairy herd

Give the cows as much roughage as they will eat, stay in the Diane, and don't feed any green feed that the producer less than ten or twelve pounds of milk per day When a cow gives more than twelve pounds of milk per day she should get one pound of grain for every three to four pounds of milk over this amount Corn silage or second hays are best additional protein should be added to the grain mixture This can be done by adding linseed oil meal or a similar protein rich supplement.

Pertinent dairy information and several grain mixtures are contained in a dairy barn plan published by the University of Alberta The leaflet can be obtained from district agriculturist or may be written to the Information Office, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Fire Prevention Week October 9 to 15

Next week October 9 to 15 is Fire Prevention Week Stettler Fire Brigade is going to tackle a big job of publicity, ultimate during this period to get everybody on the part it plays and the part the public plays in fire prevention.

By world standards Canada's fire losses are a national disgrace.

No European nation ever remotely approaches us per head of population, in our resident consuming tendency to burn up ourselves and our possessions.

More than one billion dollars is the sum of property destroyed in the last 10 years. This is an appalling economic waste for something any other decade in our history (10 to 20 years ago) a fifth person have died and thousands of others have been scarred and disfigured for life.

The tragedy is that most fires caused by human carelessness.

Public education is the best way to combat the menace especially in the home where most deaths, serious wounds and children burns that might have been spared had the simplest rules of safety been observed.

In the mass, the hazards to our Fire Brigade in fighting are carelessness and thoughtlessness. Who, for instance, striking a match stops to think it is capable of destroying the community? Or who, inserting a 30 amperer fuse in an overcharged electrical circuit considers that a fastish may be wiped out?

That the lives of public educators can survive if slowly prevail in the belief of the Brightsters.

Don't give fire a place to star.

Canadian males, in general are agreed on one thing They rod judiciously when they hear that delightful song from the musical My Fair Lady that asks the question

Why Can't a Woman be Like a Man"
They realize feminine chaps that they are, what a pleasant placed world it would be if women could by some miracle be transformed into sensible, kindly decent, regular jolly good natured easy going people like men

Canadian females are just as mutual on a point which my wife over voted the other evening, for perhaps the one hundred and eleventh time Why is it, she fussed, that Canadian men never treat a woman as a human being"

Wuddimean" I asked in my court by Canadian male fashion She told me It seems that Canadian men lack courtesy things gallantry good manners and a good sound love

A woman, she says, goes to a party with her husband She has a new dress a new hair-do and rocks of Treachery or Pure Vow or something similar for which she has shot $8 Three minutes after she gets she is sitting with a circle of other women, dabbing at babies and bathrooms, dryers and drapes All the men are out in the kitchen drinking happily or huddled at the other end of the living room, haggling over politics and football

The only communication between the sexes during the evening closes my Old Woman, occurs when one of the men hollers across the abyss "Hey, Mable! What year did we get married" In an effort to prove his point about which year Ottawa won the Grey Cup

One other point of contact is made between the segregated groups, says My Girl, when the hostess serves the food Hovering among the flashing arms of the men to pass the pickles, she reserves less attention than a waiter in a beverage room she avers.

The way she sees it, the sexes should mingle freely The women should stand about decoratively, looking slightly seductive To them should come a steady procession of men, who indulge in fierce discussions of art, politics and religion, in the process bestowing on those mysterious and desirable creatures an occasional deep, longing look, or a whimsical frustrated lift of eyebrow

Well sir, fellows, you'll be glad to know that I didn't just sit there and pontificate all this stuff without coming back with some pretty good ones of my own First of all, I pointed out that this is a young country It is only a couple of generations since the men did all their drinking out in the barroom and the women, they've got inside with the kitchen and they don't even spit on the floor

Not a sensible kindly human expression in the entire out-going lack among all the feminine stile a dab of perfume, a bluch negligee, or a soft look But a suggestion that she's glad to have him home Not a hint that he might have had a few things to say himself after a day of labor, maybe admission that she might be a bit of an old battle-axe and even one lousy cook Never in the sex-bout, because she split the last one with the other female mortar from next door, this afternoon

Thusly I observed that we Canadian males are not to be conquered, even by the most wildly romantic woman, to the princess, the intellectuals and the waiters of Europe I'd like to see one of them fix a kid's bike put on the storm windows, or stand calmly up to his bosom in icy water, fishing number tens, for eight hours with rod and getting a bite We are, as I mentioned, iron men compared to those hand-kissers

Another thing Time after time I have tried to engage a Canadian woman in a contextual-type conversation "You're looking particularly delicious tonight, my dear" I purr "How she giggles "Diane is doing far too much housework for her age" Or "Well, you've certainly been busy at the garden today" she utters to "Oh, this is just an old thing I picked up in Eaton's," she blushes

Trying to get a Canadian woman into a sexy prostitutising conversation is about as easy as trying to convince a millionaire that he can't take it with him But don't be discouraged, girls We're coming along fast Every so often, you'll see a couple of us rise when you enter the room But don't be annoyed if we manage to do it without looking at you, and without wearing a single adjective in our description of the golf game we turned in last Sunday —TBS

Now Battleford News Optimist

Water is a key ingredient in the de-velopment of any community. North Battleford down the years has never really lacked a water shortage but the population must soon pass 4 billion mark and the present water supply is inadequate for the future. The Chamber of Commerce has been active in the matter and has been pressing for the development of a potential supply of water from the Battle River.

Mayor Ole Anderson, North Battleford City Council approached the Canadian National Railways about the use of water from their pumping station serving the Saskatchewan Hospital They about one third of the plant's capacity is at present being used and it was recommended to the City of North Battleford it in a position to make better use of the plant on the long run than the hospital

Thus the stage was set by the City for an approach to the government The Government of Saskatchewan recognized the serious advantage of an alternate water source and the probable long-term savings which would accrue through greater use of the plant These recognition of these points allowed them to make an extremely generous offer to the city to take over the plant upon the payment of one dollar

It is not every day that a city is given an opportunity to solve its water supply problem so easily and so reasonably

"Don't Give Fire a Place to Start"

Mayor Joins Chief's Appeal

By proclamation of the Mayor Walter Kloepfer all citizens are urged to co-operate with the Fire Department in ridding themselves and the community of combustibles removed kindly to cause or spread fire.

The proclamation is issued in celebration of Fire Prevention Week.

"Our fire loss record speaks for itself But it is only a yardstick for improvement in the future," said the Mayor signing the authority for the issue of the proclamation.

The Mayor complimented the Fire Department on the energy shown in arrangements for holding the fire prevention story in the community

SHADE
FEAR
IGNORANCE
(of the situation)

If any of these three words represent the state of mind of a householder with respect to fire safety and the voluntary home inspection program of the community, they should be forgotten

This is the earnest message today from Fire Chief Jim Abry, who announced details of the campaign for Fire Prevention Week.

The Fire Chief elaborated his "philosophy of prevention" by which he hopes that the community will co-operate in rooting out "careless causes" of fire in the home, to make our town one of the "fire safest" places in Canada, for city and population.

Can Succeed

"We can succeed," declared the Chief, "if we have the help of every man, woman and child in spreading the idea that fire prevention is a personal matter It needs only the acceptance by each individual of responsibility to the elimination of simple fire hazards."

The Chief came back to his three key words — shame, fear, ignorance — which, he said, usually applied in "reluctant cases."

"If you'd so like to enter an untidy house seldom burns So why wait until the fire fighter calls to clean out rubbish, old papers and the like? And as to fear of coal or fancied consequences, no one is going to be 'put on the spot' as far as we are concerned Of course, if our visit uncovers something terribly dangerous — especially to the lives of others in the home or next door—responsibility should be met by both the householder and by ourselves Surely no one can quarrel with that and so to ignorance of fire and its causes, why not treat the fire fighter like you would a doctor, as a friend required that an ounce of prevention is a pound of cure And to this day of age of fancy gadgets new chemicals and such renown her that the Fire fighter has lots himself to learn So let's say that not only for Fire Prevention Week but for every day and week of the year

Welcome Reception

The Chief told of the remarkable co-operation given by citizens when uniformed members of his department made courtesy calls at their homes, to suggest ways and means where-by the family might without inconvenience, expense or other involvement rid themselves of those hazards. Instanced besides trash and rubbish, were improper electrical fusing and faulty heating equipment.

"There's nothing fancy in successful fire prevention Like most else in life, it's mainly a lot of little things," the Chief said

It is applied to the soil surface before seeding and worked in to a depth of two or three inches. Asked by the scientists are how long Avadex remains active in the soil and over what period damage might be expected to susceptible crops.

Preliminary tests at Lacombe have shown little leaching of the chemical over the period of a [illegible] does breakdown in the soil appear rapid. Soil treated with Avadex in the spring of 1964 and brought into the greenhouse in the fall still gave barely good control of planted wild oats. Avoid Unnecessary Hunting Accidents

Alberta hunters treat guns with respect for others to look at Although many shots are fired, a pointing accident is considered. It is nevertheless the duty of the Alberta Safety Council to remind hunters that by exercising a few simple precautions accidents can be avoided.

Don't shoot at a rustling bush. Wait until you can distinctly see the object at which you are aiming. Don't shoot at game near the road. Don't shoot at a bird. There may be a person or an animal on the other side and a line of fire. Always make sure you know what is in front and behind your target. Never shoot over a man's head, every bullet has a destination.

Don't climb a fence without first unloading your gun. If you are alone put the gun on the other side of the fence, then get yourself safely across. Where practical, always unload the gun before you. Be certain you should hold the gun, not by the others go through and then hand the gun to its rightful owner. Never point a gun at anyone, even jokingly. Don't rely on safety catches, mechanical devices and such, but entirely relied upon.

Two New Counties Set Up In Alberta

(By Ken Mantz)

Edmonton — Last fall when two major grocery chain firms gave controlled retail trading stamps into Alberta for the first time the provincial government crouched on its quickly.

A memorial order was passed under the Licensing of Trades and Business Act outlawing trading stamps. Under that act any retailer who fails to comply with orders and regulations is liable to lose his license. So the two chain stores lost no time in withdrawing their stamps otherwise.

Nothing much more was heard about trading stamps until mid-August when a grocer named Keller appeared on the scene in Edmonton and took out a summons against the Attorney-General's department, asking that previously had been operated by the Independent Grocers Alliance IGA it are considering introducing trading stamps.

Keller's case has been set up in Alberta. But not with out the usual crop of anglesh from school trustees who seem to feel self-education of the county every as a reflection on their abilities as administrators.

The new counties are the County of Smoky Lake No. 13 and the County of Lacombe No. 14.

In both cases the municipal district councils passed resolutions asking the government to establish the areas as counties. And in both cases the local school division boards opposed the move.

Smoky Lake was probably the most vociferous with at least six school trustees charging the government had forced the school ratepayers of the district into a county against their wishes.

But under the Alberta County Act a request for county status must come from either the MD council of the school division board and it needn't be a joint request from both.

School trustees are inclined to resist formation of a County because it means school divisions are reduced by a committee of the county council. Many educators also oppose the idea because in a county the school regulation is subject to ratification by the council.

The need for "Wife" Insurance

How would it be the family together if my wife were to die when the children are still young? It is a disturbing problem, one that is causing many young men to stop and think.

A busy father can't possibly play the dual role of breadwinner and housemother. Relatives are rarely in a position to provide a permanent solution. A mother's love and affection can't be replaced. But capable help to keep the home going can be obtained if there is enough money to pay for it.

Most young fathers couldn't meet the expense out of current income. The ideal solution is life insurance on the wife to provide for the "washing, washing and washing" while the children are still dependent. For competent counsel in this very important part of family security planning, ask the man from Manufacturers Life.

ENGLISH FOREIGN DELIVERY time and Cost of Duty paid at Canada's Port of Entry

Remarkable record for a new car, isn't it? But then, the Falcon is a rather remarkable car.

It has honest room for six, combined with handy size and dimensions that make it terrific for driving in traffic, a pleasure to park. It delivers up to 25 miles to a gallon, with 85 lively horsepower designed for Canadian roads and loads. (There's an optional 101 horsepower engine available in the '61 Falcon if you want even snappier performance.) The Falcon runs so smoothly and quietly you sometimes forget the engine is on. Trunk room is generous, visibility practically unlimited. And as for style, it all modestly, it really is a beauty!

433,440 Falcon owners (one for every minute of every working day) live all around the world. One of them lives in your neighbourhood. Why not have a chat with him yourself?

Food Testing.

Agricultural Beef and Barley Committee, Alberta, provides for testing of both male and female entries of barley and beef cattle during the past few years. A few have taken part in the Steer Carcass Competition, which is held in conjunction with the Provincial Winter Fair each year. Entries are early fall weaning calves, which are fed and finished to the choice grade. Dairy farmers are invited to enter steers that have been weaned and early October and fed through the winter with grain and hay. Interest in feeding these calves has been stimulated by the offering of a Premium of $5 per cwt. for the highest grade carcass in the entry of steers.

Barley Competition.

Barley competitions are held annually in the province. Entries are received from all parts of the province and are judged on the basis of quality and yield per acre. Prizes are awarded in each of the seven districts and also for the highest yield per acre in the province. Entries are received from Mid August to early September. Dairy farmers are invited to enter samples of barley that have been weaned and early October and fed through the winter with grain and hay. For genuine eating pleasure no fruit can equal the Canadian apple. In variety it outdoes the seasons' feasts of plenty, and color, sustaining aroma, flavor, tastiness and delicate flesh texture blends unique. Each variety is the ideal eating or cooking apple for its own particular use. Canada's apple crop is the finest in the world.

Natural, unaided skills and developments of great distinction have been made in the apple industry. New varieties of distinctive merit developed from seedlings for establishing superb orchard and storage methods have improved existing fruits and added to many benefits.

Nature puts a wider variety of use than any other fruit. They can be served with any course from soup to dessert hot or cold and are available in many forms — fresh, canned, frozen, juiced, dried.

Buying —

Buy apples by grade whenever possible.

Buy apples by variety according to cooking and eating quality.

Buy the largest amount that can be used economically.

Grading —

Most apples are shipped from the orchard to packer who grades them to standard packed and marketed in accordance with Federal Governmental standards.

During grading apples are sized. This means that each package of one grade contains apples of specified size range. The largest apples not necessarily being in the highest grade. While there may be slight differences between varieties of the same grade, all apples packed in any container are of the same size.

Grades of apples in order of quality are: Canada Extra Fancy, Canada Fancy, Canada Commercial or C.

In each of these grades the apples must be of one variety, mainly hand packed clean, sound, sized to specific packed and have a specified minimum color for the variety and grade. In general the better the grade the lower are the insect damage permitted. Other than the grades are based on the degree of freedom from various defects such as bruises, insect injury, skin punctures, lowering of other blemishes.

Storing —

There are numerous ways of serving apples. I have a very good booklet available free of charge from either of my offices upon request. I am including one of the recipes contained in this booklet.

Tangy Apple Mates

2 tart-sweet tart apples
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons molasses
½ cup tomato catsup
Few grains salt

Wash apples, do not peel. Cut in half crosswise and scoop out core from bottom. Place halves, cut side up, in a shallow baking pan. Blend together sugar, molasses, catsup and salt. Spoon mixture over apples. Bake

Farms Need Science Of The Weather

In recent months a relatively unfamiliar term, agrometeorology has come into prominence in Canada. All it means in simple terms is the application of the science of the atmosphere, or meteorology, to the science of agriculture. To this end a good deal of thought and planning is now being put forward by a permanent National Committee on Agrometeorology which met for the first time in January of this year.

In no field, of course is meteorology more important than in agriculture influencing as the weather does seed time and harvest insect development, plant disease, weed control, land cultivation, soil chemistry, irrigation and, in fact, almost every thing connected with the industry. For some years largely because of the growing importance of aviation during World War II the main emphasis in meteorology was in this area. What is being planned now is simply an attempt to shift part of the emphasis back to agriculture where weather has always been of such importance.

The Committee on Agrometeorology has a big task ahead of it, concerned as it will be with the availability of data in published form for farmers and all connected with agriculture weather conditions — to mention only a few of the areas in which it will be active.

As far as weather conditions in concerned, a great deal more has still to be learned about rain and hail are formed and of what approach, if any, can be used successfully either to reduce rainfall or to lessen the damage from hail. Research of this kind is apt to take some time and it may well be several years before any real conclusions are reached about some of these matters.

In the immediate future, therefore, it is the longer range weather forecasts as well as the special advisory services for agriculture along the lines of those which have proved so useful in other fields which will, perhaps, be of special value to Canadian farmers.—Research Dept., Steele Grain Co. Ltd.

Crime In Your Community

Vincent Rodney in the subject area said, "not discussing pay, full of the current booklet prepared by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police under the general auspices of Crime in Your Community.

The booklet is the fifth in the series which was instituted many years ago in the belief that the volume of crime in certain categories could be greatly reduced by acquainting the owners of business establishments and householders with certain simple measures by which they might safeguard their property, their goods and themselves from disturbance before the intervention of the police became necessary.

Made up of illustrations in all aspects with brief explanatory captions, the booklet is directed at the most lucrative targets of the armed robber, such as banks and business establishments but discourages any notion on the part of the private citizen that he is immune from this type of crime.

The booklet recommends the instruction of employees in points of physical identification and the exercise of constant vigilance on the part of all personnel to enable them to detect the loiterer the suspicious looking character the bogus workman or the potential hold-up man. It outlines certain precautions by which robbery may be averted or at least made more difficult such as safeguarding

Veterans Return To Dieppe Group To Hold Meeting

At a meeting of the Stettler and Dieppe Veterans groups are urgently requested to attend a meeting in the Club Room of the Stettler Memorial Hall on Friday, October 28th at 8:15 p.m. In addition to those who are already members of this group any other interested persons are cordially invited to be present at the meeting.

This group have announced that their plans for the pilgrimage in August of 1961 are materializing to the point where arrangements are under way with the Federal Government. The Provincial Government as well as the Mayor of the Town of Dieppe in France and plans are already underway for a dedicated ceremony at that time. The Group in Stettler already have twenty five signed members who were actual veterans of the Calgary Tank Regiment. Of this number it is expected that approximately ten will be making the flight with their wives in order to take advantage of an extremely low fare with Canadian Pacific Airlines, amounting to a round trip fare of $250.00 per person return that they will require about 115 persons. To accomplish this, the executive are turning to all people in the district who may be interested in making such a trip and are asking them to contact Secretary Treasurer Dorothy Hall of Hall of Fall Agencies or R. H. Spicer, the Group's Chairman in Stettler. Whereas the flight is proposed from Edmonton by Lockheed Electra Jet aircraft any persons other than Veterans wishing to take part in the trip and not under the 10th Anniversary Ceremonies of the Dieppe Raid in France they would have approximately 15 days in the Old Country on a regular holiday and would return with the remainder of the Group leaving London on September 1st and arriving in Edmonton on September 2nd.

It is hoped that the Town of Stettler as well as such organizations as the Board of Trade will realize the importance and significance of such a pilgrimage and in that it is being raised the Stettler Return to Dieppe Group and will eventually [illegible] it is hoped that sufficient people will be contacted from Stettler and District in order to keep this a Stettler affair but feeling the group will have to look to other centers such as Calgary to fill its ranks and would in the way have their individually. A two week stay or flight to England at the restaurant at the low figure of $250.00 is not beyond the means of anyone and with the Trust Savings Account the Group have set up in Stettler they have made it possible for any interested persons to save towards their charter flight pass. Any monies forwarded to this Trust will be moved in the per cent a note and to enter on between circumstances in 1962 that would prevent participation all monies with interest will be returned to the donor.

Please call in the meeting on Friday October 28th and let us explain to you or write or phone R. H. Spicer in Stettler. The box number is 457 and the phone is 2-2166 for residence and 2-4173 during business hours.

A $250,000 experiment may help solve Metro Toronto, Ont., traffic tangle and save millions for the taxpayers. Electronic robots with computers, radar traffic detectors and even "eyes in the sky" helicopters have been studying the traffic flow at main intersections for the past six months. Results have exceeded the wildest expectations of Metro traffic engineers. Officials hope Metro will adopt the system next year. At a cost of more than $2,000,000 it would control the 370 traffic lights in the Metro area and eliminate 1,000 jobs. But the number expected to be in use in three years. Notes From The D. A.

By E W Wallace, District Agriculturist, Stettler, Alberta.)

FACTORS AFFECTING SEED QUALITY

One of the most important factors affecting the quality of malting barley brought in at country elevators this year is the high percentage of thin kernels which are being rejected by the Board of Grain Commissioners in this country.

[illegible] says, "Watch out for children especially if they're driving."

Work like sixty in '53 and you won't have to work like sixty after you're 60.

The quality of brewing stocks depends less on the breed and improved kernel plumpness and the amount of thin kernels have been reduced for the quantities received. The appliers especially to the lower levels of livestock which are being considered in this country.

Scholarships Go Begging

We find it strange that scholarships offered by our own school board to grade 12 matriculation students, of Stettler School should go begging.

This was the case this year with the U. L. Willis Memorial Scholarships The school board offers five of these an nually. They are for $100 each generous enough as would think to be worth the time to write out a simple application However the applications have to be received on or before August 31

August 31 came and with one applica tion for having entered it came from Miss Carol Sorensen. No student of her class and she was awarded a scholar ship.

A number of other applications were received after August 31 some as late as October from students already at tending universities The school board very sensibly we think waved the dead line and granted the remaining four scholarships It was sensible too in saving the warming that it would not do so again

A situation like this makes one wonder if there were richer scholarships best to hand students simply because they did not ask for them

The question arises Why did the students of Stettler fail to apply for scholarships easily within their reach Most of the blame seems to rest with the students themselves as they were endorsed by the principal's office in June of all scholarships available by them

We have one suggestion for the future At the end of the school term the School Board should write a letter containing all particulars of the U. L. Willis Memorial Scholarships to the parents of all grade 12 students We hope that then there would be no shortage of applications

'Twas Ever Thus

Perusing editorials appearing in other papers or magazines is a matter of interest and one that we read this week was particularly interesting It said

It is a gloomy moment in history Not in the life time of any man who reads his paper has there been so much grave and deep apprehension never has the future seemed so dark and incalcul able

In France the political cauldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty England and the English Empire are being sorely tried and tempested in a social and economic struggle with fur most at home and upraising of her terms on millions in her far flung empire

The United States is beset with racial industrial and commercial chaos drifting, we know not whither

"It's a solemn moment, and no man can feel indifference, which, happily no man pretends to feel in the issue of events Of our own troubles no man can make light

That yearly well presents the world situation as it is today But it was pub lished in Harper's Magazine 100 years ago

Cries come and go and our guess is that the cycle of events will present much the same situation 100 years hence Only the actors will be different

Notes And Sayings

To my mind increasing population is a more terrible sickness from which a country can suffer than the diseases with which medical sciences is presently concerned When you have unwanted children who you cannot feed or clothe or educate you smash the soul

Well, the school board here i had me on the carpet yet for that last column which urged the abolition of Religious Instruction from the curriculum Maybe it's just because they haven't had a meeting in the meantime Before they do, I might as well unload all the other beefs I have about the system.

Its major flaw is that it costs money Municipal councils meet with increasing regularity that the economy of Endeville is being wrecked by those boondoggling school board Educators observe with equal monotony that we spend entirely too much on buildings, and not on schooling

Most of us who have children don't kick too much After all, if you have garbage, you expect that the men will pick it up So added your taxes But when a former retiree and moves to town, it hurts when he finds that half his tax bill is made up of school tion costs He forgets, of course, that his grandchildren, who live in the city are being educated at tremendous cost and hold the title to a very poor old farm which he is trying to hang onto for hours on the old age pension and the income from her husband's $60 monthly service pension.

Another thing wrong is the tremendous waste Every day skilled teachers are found climbing the walls after trying to insert in some Neanderthal brain the rudiments of knowledge Apparently there are to be no bowers of wood or drawers of water in this brave, new Canada In this democracy of ours, it seems that you can't scrub a floor or fill a gas tank unless you are able to identify an intransitive verb You are not able to carry a plank from here to there un less you are 14 and have learned more mathematics than I know when I was fly ing a $50,000 aircraft in the service of his late Majesty, Geo VI. You can't even have a baby until you've made a vocal collection of taken about options.

Another sore point with us is the cure of training given to teachers They are not vocational enough They are taught neither how nor counseled either They are given no idea of how to deal with children, or why they are there, or they supposed to do when they get there. Some of them should, of ours, it seems that you can't scrub a floor or fill a gas tank unless you are able to identify an intransitive verb You are not able to carry a plank from here to there un less you are 14 and have learned more mathematics than I know when I was fly ing a $50,000 aircraft in the service of his late Majesty, Geo VI. THANKSGIVING 1960

by Lilian A. Moore, Provincial Librarian

A year ago I thought I couldn't be that I would be able to write another thirty months but my mental faculties have been spared and hence it is at any rate and delight to send greetings to you once more in thanks of health and to all the readers of South the good papers.

I wonder how many of the readers know as I do that there is a certain amount of food and appreciation of God and His goodness. How a strong and which we hope and believe always get back into the soil and will enrich the soil of earth's surface and so substitute another. Tips On Cooking Wild Birds

An even temperature of 350 degrees F. is recommended by Miss Marshall for roasting a wild duck. Twenty to 25 minutes should be allowed per pound depending upon personal tastes. The roasting pan should be tightly covered until the last 15 minutes, when the lid should be removed to allow the bird to brown.

Pheasants, although well suited to most chicken recipes, tend to be dry and tasteless when cooked properly. Always cook them in a covered roaster so that the moisture will be retained. Miss Marshall says that one moist heat method of cooking is recommended for pheasants.

Those who have a pressure cooker will find cooking game birds no problem. Simply brown them in a skillet and cook them for 15 minutes in the pressure cooker. The meat will come out tender and juicy.

Further information on cooking birds, directions for freezing and recipes can be obtained from the Home Economics Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

In 5 years ...what?

Five years may see a big change in your responsibilities. Five years may see a big change in your life insurance needs. For those very reasons, Sun Life of Canada offers its new ADJUSTABLE POLICY, the policy that gives you four options at the end of five years so that you can decide what type of life insurance coverage best suits you at that time.

For example, will you still be insurable? One of the options offers you increased coverage with no further medical evidence . . . or . . . will you want a larger income for your retirement years? Another option allows you to change your policy to an endowment at age 65 . . . or . . . will you want to reduce your premium outlay without reducing your protection? Then you can change your policy to a lower premium, whole life policy . . . Or you also have the option of keeping your original policy — which will be fully paid for at age 65 — in effect. This plan may meet your personal and family insurance needs for a lifetime.

With its four valuable options, Sun Life's Adjustable Policy looks to your future and considers:

- your financial circumstances
- your family's protection
- your retirement income
- your insurability

Let the Sun Life agent in your neighborhood put you and your family on the right road to security. Why not ask him today for full details of this flexible new policy?

Province Ended Last Fiscal Year in Good Financial Health

By Ken Mason)

Edmonton — Hardly had the government begun thanking a local calling a tendering, as Dolbury rating then it was faced with the necessity of holding a second one the fall or early winter.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gladys Bolton, 58, Social Credit member for Medicine Hat constituency died last Friday in Edmonton's University Hospital. She had been in the hospital since the end of August.

Later the same morning the cabinet passed an order calling a by-election for Didsbury on November 30 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Social Credit J. J. Lymburn just about a month earlier.

Nomination day for Didsbury is November 16. At least three parties — Liberal, Conservative and Social Credit — have announced their intentions of contesting the vote.

It probably will be a few weeks before the government announces a by-election date for Medicine Hat, but under the Election Act a vote must be held in a time to give the riding representation during the next session of the Legislature.

Provincial Auditor Keith Huck-vale last week released the province's public accounts for the fiscal year, and they showed Alberta ended the year once again in glowing financial health.

A $64,000,000 surplus which had been forecast by Provincial Treasurer Ted Hannan turned out to be $42,881,647 surplus. Main reason for the happy turnabout situation was an increase in revenues from the sale of oil and gas leases and reservations. They brought in $24,141,625, which was $16,141,625 more than had been expected.

The total actual revenue for the year was $236,816 compared with the original estimate of $204,240,326. Total actual expenditures were $220,156,251 against the government's estimate of $236,682,324.

Largest single revenue item listed was fees, including oil and gas revenues which total $156,852,240. The federal provincial tax agreement brought in $55,543,252. On the spending side the largest single expenditure was $97,247,054 spent by the welfare department. Education cost the province $62,203,700.

From the provincial health department comes word that within a year or two Alberta may swing over to the use of an oral vaccine in poll form for its program of immunization against poliomyelitis.

Experiments to date seem to indicate the oral vaccine — which is made from a modified live virus — provides more effective protection. If this proves to be the case, there's little doubt Alberta will change over especially will like this change.

All four gear ratios have been modified to take advantage of the new engine's output. You can thread your way through heavy traffic or give it his head on the highway. In any gear, the new Volkswagen's a lot more fun to drive.

There's more luggage space in the new car too. 10 cubic feet in all. A full 5 up front and another 5 behind the back seat. Some of the 30 improvements in the De Luxe Volkswagen are also in the Custom model.

There's so much to say about the new car, why not get it first-hand. Take her out tonight, she's waiting, bright and shining, at your VW dealer.

Take her out tonight!

Before the new Volkswagen yet? Here's inside of her.

More and more people are having the time of their life driving the new VW. There's 10% more power. The new Volkswagen leaps away at lights as if it was going to a fire. You can put your foot down before you like, in any gear you like, and really take off. The engine torque is increased too. There's more power to call on in every gear — passing is safer and faster. And now that first gear is synchronized, the Volkswagen's easier than ever to drive. You can shift straight down to first gear without stopping the car. This eliminates a lot of unnecessary stopping and starting. Women drivers

What are Guaranteed Non-Forfeiture Benefits?

This is the technical name for a very important feature of your permanent Life Insurance. It guarantees that you can use the cash value of insurance in your policy to meet changing needs.

For example, William Jones is 65 and just retired. He wants to stop paying premiums but still needs protection for his wife in his pension plan with her. Solution? He takes a "Paid-up" policy for a slightly smaller amount providing protection for life but with no more deposits.

Or Arthur Smith finds himself at retirement with no dependants and a smallish pension. He also wants to stop paying premiums and he would like more income for life. Solution? He converts his cash values to his policies into income guaranteed to last as long as he lives.

You too will be glad you have permanent Life Insurance because of these and other flexible benefits. See the Man from Manufacturers today for a full description of their usefulness.

ELLIS — PRESTON

St Paul's Anglican Church, Big Valley, was the scene of lovely wedding on September 17th for the marriage of Verda Theresa Preston, only daughter of Mr and Mrs Fred Preston of High Prairie and Thomas Glen Edmund Wilson, only son of Mr Tom Wilson of Stettler.

The Rev. Father Goodrich performed the marriage vows.

I would like to give a calm, dispassionate resume of the deer situation as I see it in Alberta I refer to Saskatchewan often as it is because I know it best and have lived there nearly all my life I have seen what I am going to describe happen first as a sceptic and later as a convert In 1945 deer hunting was allowed for the first time in the southern part of the province we a hunter only basis In the following year the buck law was abandoned and I went all the ways to Regina to tell Ernie Patrick that he was running Deer hunting for all time and that I would never shoot a deer Then I might say is a hangover from several times much like the sacred cow in India How wrong I was

In about 1950 we had two deer season in our area and now have a three-deer season in about one-third of the province with one small part enjoying a five deer season and of these two must be does

February 1960 issue of Fish and Game Magazine gives the population of deer in Alberta at 175 000 mule deer and 90 000 whitetails Our total bag of both species was 13 000 This is a ridiculous figure when it is compared with a kill of 30 per cent is needed to keep the herds in good health and prosperous This makes allowance for pot hunters too In Saskatchewan in the same year 75 000 deer were killed was an estimated 75 000 I

Textile, Clothing Industries Show Rapid Growth in Alberta

Alberta's textile industry has shown rapid growth in the past few years.

The largest manufacturer of synthetic is the Chemical plant on the eastern edge of twin-city Edmonton. This plant converts petroleum to products with a wide range of chemical industries and intermediates among our provincial products. Cotton is also used in the mass production of textile fabrics to give the finishing finish drape and appearance to synthetic cloth. Even wool is used in the manufacture of textiles in Alberta. Further expansion on synthetic textile manufacturers is also to be expected as the petro-chemical industry expands and new products are developed.

Parcels To Britain Must Be Declared

Customs declared mus must be properly completed on Christmas parcels for Britain or they may be delayed in delivery according to Postmaster Arthur Lees.

Mr Lewis said that information has been received from Britain postal authorities that during the 1954 Christmas season a large number of parcels were received bearing customs declaration forms not properly completed. Because of this these parcels had to be opened and examined before delivery. This extra handling resulted in considerable delay.

Mr Lees warns readers that declaration forms must be completed in order to indicate the exact number, weight or quantity, and value of each article enclosed. Terms such as "Christmas Gifts" "Presents" and the like are not sufficient. "If a parcel is worth anything it is worth writing a little care in preparation," the postmaster said.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She was attired in a floor length gown of white nylon net over taffeta. The fitted bodice was accented with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. The bouffant skirt fell into a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a bead and pearl tiara and she carried a bouquet of red roses, white carnations and white stephanotis.

Miss Marlene Lane was her sister's bridesmaid. She wore a floor length gown of pink nylon net over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's brother Clayton Rosemberg was best man. He wore a grey suit with white accessories.

The reception for seventy guests was held in the Bryanna Hall and was catered by the ladies of the church.

Understandably the province need reserved the right to decide where and when new hospitals shall be built. Thus if a municipality requires urban or rural hospital group wants to build a hospital it must get the government's OK.

The only thing that suffers is the local autonomy in hospital administration and this doesn't seem to have resulted in many complaints. The government has tried to maintain some semblance of autonomy by having local committees go through the motions of hospital management, but

THE EDITORIAL PAGE . . Independent But Not Neutral

Disarmament Plan

It is universally accepted now that a new bent on world peace by the nations. Modern war can therefore settle nothing, although the obvious chief protagonists, Russia and the United States especially the former seems to cling to the belief that they can obtain some advantage over the other by war. It may be true to say that Russia believes that the threat of war will bring some large concessions and unwilling to risk war on any point the U S stands ready to make instant retaliation. Thus the uneasy deadlock with all its terrible fears hangs over the world.

Since all nations neutrals as well as belligerents, are threatened with extinction Mr. Howard Green's latest proposal at United Nations is important He suggests that a group of ten or twelve central nations should represent all nations on getting disarmament talks again underway. It is a refreshing change to be able to find something the Canadian Government has done in recent weeks that deserves praise.

Heretofore negotiations regarding the banning of nuclear arms has been left almost entirely up to the "nuclear club" of which Russia and the U S are the chief members. The neutral countries cannot impose disarmament on these giants, but if the U N would adopt Mr Green s proposal, they are bound to listen because both are very much aware of world opinion

Books For Children

One gets pretty much fed up with the general weeks that are set aside to promote this and that but next week has been designated "Young Canada Book Week and it deserves our attention and support

Here in Stettler the Municipal Library will mark the week with a display of books at the Home and School meeting The Lethbridge Language Laboratory will also give a demonstration on the modern method of teaching language at the same meeting, which is quite topical for this week

Learning and skill and excellence of minds are, as never before, needed to support and develop our country which is complicated, interwoven and world-wide Ignorance is neither a protection nor a justification. We must understand, and even more important our children must understand what is happening in Africa, what is coming to pass in China the effects of atomic radiation, how the food resources of the world are being used We are in peril if we do not know and overpower the time is short

In their struggle for domination, the Iron Curtain countries Russia Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia do not underrate books They are more plentiful and cheaper than any other source of pleasure and education We must also offer our children the same, or better opportunity for knowledge understanding and pleasure

Young Canada's Book Week, under the patronage of Her Excellency Mme Vanier, crystalizes the place and importance of books in the lives of children, young people and the adults they will become

This week is the spur to action by adults to provide the children in their community with worthwhile books, at home, at school at the library

Sugar and Spice

(By BELL KARLEY)

It made my cheek boil to see Toronto crime gang-lord Morrison Dickson when that lovely creature graced Hogtown recently with her theatrical presence. They made the brilliant discovery that Morrison can't sing and smeared her with juvenile questions about being a grandmother.

Of course she can't sing, and never could but she can't even make the skin crawl on the back of your neck with that husky snort And, grandmother or not, there is more sex appeal in one hair from above the ear than a hoosiering cherubimess, one twist of that heart breaker smile, than in all your off-key sing, hip wiggling pouter pigeons of half her age.

Perhaps I'm a little warped on the subject of Miss Dietrich like was the first woman in my life the first member of the opposite sex who made me realize there was more than one sex I was ten years old at the time.

Don't tell me you can't fall in love at ten. Perhaps that is the only age at which your love is completely selfless, utterly pure and absolutely understanding I didn't even expect her to marry me I knew she would not marry me ten year old kid All I wanted to do was think about her, and nurse my pain to myself . . . .

It happened at a movie I was a young devil for going to matinees in those days they had them twice a week, after school, as well as the usual Saturday show

I had been suspended with everything from the children's aid to the reformatory, I had been kicked several times, my mother had given personal orders to the theatre manager that I was not to be allowed in, and still I went to the matinee every time I could find enough empty bottles to raise the price I'd never been about 6 40 p.m. my nose glew from the movie s buttons against the outer glow I would have shot by on my butt

At my rate I fell for Dietrich in a movie called Morocco, about the Foreign Legion, in which she appeared with Gary Cooper I didn't realize it at the time, but Miss Dietrich had the role of a woman of ill repute I thought she just worked in this bar, camp fo a singer or something

She sang, in that whisky tenor of hers, and I was enchanted She smiled, that ruefful, knowing smile, and I turned to mush, as she washed, that naughty wink, and I twisted my hands until my fingers crushed She smoked, with that mysterious elegance, and my heart beat painfully within me

I thought I would burst with pride and devotion when the picture ended with her forsaking her job at the casino to follow Gary into the desert The last shot showed her, barefoot in the sand dragging a goat as she struck off after the Legion, with the other women camp-followers I can't describe the gallantry with which she threw back her head and gave a splendid, brave smile as the reset wind struck in her face How can I convey the misery with which I realized she thought so much of that big lug Cooper

For about three months, I was literally sick with love My mother thought I had some dimness because I wouldn't eat She was convinced of it when I stopped going to matinees How can a boy of 10 fall in love desperately in love with a movie actress?

Then I had a good many affairs after that There was a neighbor girl who used to catch me and kiss me on the cheek every time we played Run Sheep Run That ended when she pushed me out of a haymow one day in June and I broke my ankle There there was a brief episode with the French teacher whom I won in high school This came to a climax when I kissed her up in an apple tree, one gladsome day in spring I thought I'd never get out of that apple tree

And there was a Brazilian girl I met at college She couldn't speak any English By the time I'd taught her the language and she could say "park bench" and "kiss me, daddy with the best of them I'd atoned so many betrayals I hadn't a hope of passing my year so I patriotically joined the air force

There were lots of girls after that in England, France, Belgium Some of these affairs were smart, some bitter I even asked one of them to marry me, but I was too late She'd just accepted a proposal from an older Canadian who had a big quarry place in Canada It was big, and it was in the country 300 acres of stone and swamp

There, of course, and I know you think I'm just putting this in for self-protection, and how right you are, there was the little love of my life when I met the old Dietrich sure and started hewing my way through the domestic jungle Some then the only other girl I've kissed, except the odd one on New Year's Eve, has been my wife's daughter

I guess, all told, I've been in love about 12 or 20 times. But it never again had the impact of that first, overmoving, searing sickness over Dietrich And that's why Marlene, if the crude rumorsfo of those Toronto critics bothered you, feel free to call on me My order may have cooled and I may not be quite as pure as I was 30 years ago, and you may have become a grandmother in the meantime, but by George, you're still the most beautiful, glamorous, mysterious woman I ever fell in love with. I wish you were MY grandmother —T.R.S.

Beneath The Red Cross Flag

(By Nancy Cleaver)

The first Red Cross flag came from Denmark to the Battlefield of Solferino in Italy in 1859. Today it is the flag of Switzerland, the country where the Red Cross movement had its birth.

Canada was made its Supreme Master Knight of St. John of Jerusalem, of which Red Cross is the humanitarian auxiliary.

Mademoiselle Countess decided to substitute a red tassoon on a white ground instead of red on white. Dunant became a special hospital for over Nuns a hundred days after the battle of the Red Cross throughout the world the Red Cross battle Knots and instead of

It remains matched that carriage of life when nations resort to force and that the wounded and dying must have medical attention

There is little doubt that if there should be an atomic war there will be little opportunity to be either just or merciful death will be too widespread annihilation will be too thorough If Canada had been bombed in the last war perhaps we would be marching on Ottawa on 100 000 marched on Trafalgar Square London on Good Friday to protest the use of nuclear weapons Can we go along with Canadian bombs being equipped with red bases constructed on Canadian soil for U S planes weapons?

When we look at the Red Cross flag, we remember Henri Dunant s horror of suffering on the battlefield and his dream of International co-operation The desire to be a Good Samaritan, the dream of world brotherhood and peace are still important to us and to our children We can support the Red Cross with our money gifts and we can encourage our public school son or daughter to be one of Canada s one million three hundred thousand Junior Red Cross members.

This is the world s largest youth movement with over 47 million members in 74 countries Its objectives are to promote health serve others at home and overseas, and increase understanding among the young people of the world One of the most attractive juvenile Canadian publications is The Canadian Red Cross Junior titled Wellsley At Toronto which at The for a year s subscription. is a real bargain.

Have You Considered ?

(By S P Freeman)

that it is not enough merely to have opinions We must act If democracy is to survive it must continue Those of the great democracies who have fought down through the ages have died in the defence of their principles We are still fighting even though the present war is over

In the other hand if we are to win the cold war the war of ideals and of freedom the war of values we must go back to do a very real job from home having ignored and failed our responsibilities with which to meet aggression in the battle.

If a person was shocked to see his neighbor on a certain piece of ground he would not unless he was very foolish have an opinion as to whether the ground was solid enough for that purpose He would probe the ground for himself deep to see whether the solid ground was there Likewise in the realm of ideas we must probe the foundations of our beliefs and opinions in the problem itself

Now anyone might say what s the use of it for he might say an old Proverb Prove what a truth What is there to argue that is solid and that is proved. At this point we feel bound to warn you that if you want facts you must be prepared to dig for them to study and to search and to read and to think which has come to become evolved It will not be easy as a result you will have an opinion about the matter It will be of more real value to you But the result will be real dividends to you and satisfaction

The basic need of any home life education whether public or in the community is to provide the individual citizen a to supply that person with the knowledge and skill to find and use facts for intelligent decision Furthermore the basic aim of that system should be to equip the person for success of a mature adult will be of real and lasting benefit to her and future generations of citizens. Good worth citizens are those people who are worth using from the point of view of the needs of society and who are other people want to associate with

Education can not have a quick fix and its success or failure can not be measured in terms of the immediate activity of citizens and their reaction to the problems of the day which have to respond to the issues of the moment. The other role of the school is to develop in the child the ability to think for himself and to develop the ability to make decisions and to be willing to take responsibility for those decisions and to be willing to accept the consequences of those decisions. The ability to think for himself and to make decisions is one of all other ways to bring such a well educated and responsible citizen to be of real value to himself and to his community and to the world.

Facts on the other hand are based upon the accepted information and experiences of many people down the ages Such knowledge is based upon somewhat superficial and not all principals considered to be true and are not upon hearsay. Sometimes the events upon present issues in these our Mind of information and the manner of presentation of the material. Facts are the foundation stone. We have been told that we have been living in a fact finding age that have known no period of peaceful progress and freedom as we have had We have prospered when in the same time maintaining good relationships with the intonations Facts are both the use of which bring enduring results with happiness and prosperity to the present and generations to come by positions of responsibility and we find and must use the FACTS ARE INDISPENSIBLE TOOLS

WEEKLY MEDITATION

By Rev [illegible]

Hello It s time to drop into your home again for our weekly meditation Epsom in of Meditations I think the Indepen dent deserves a vote of thanks for carrying the weekly feature don t you?

Friday will bring us to another Armistice Day when we will stop and pay tribute to the soldiers who fought so valiantly in both world wars Wreaths will be placed as a memorial to the boys who gave their lives on the battlefield that victory might be won We are indebted to all those who fought for their country that we might enjoy freedom

Today Jesus Christ is calling for volunteers, not to fight for our country but to be soldiers of the cross Christian soldiers are needed to carry the message of the cross to all the people of the world This message is a very important one as it not only affects us but also the Holy Spirit to remind us that there is redemption for souls and that it is completed for volunteer as a full born soldier of the cross

His commission is that there are two requirements that must be met before we will be accepted as a volunteer in the Lord s army First we must know Jesus Christ as your own personal Saviour Secondly you must be fully separated from the sins and pleasures of the world and wholly surrendered to the Lord I pray that you will enlist as soldier in the Lord s army

The Lord is willing I would see you next week

story writers, but that article written headed to be clear to listeners and readers

I guess its a chance [illegible] a bit. I make he said I d like more money but then it doesn t cost as much to live up here and I m pretty free and then there s the hunting and fishing

I think the encounter wound up with some slight envy on both sides, although the shade of green might have been just a tinge deeper than he

If a person could make as much money up near them Deepfoot hunting grounds however I ll bet my last dime that at least half the population of Edmonton—the hunters anyhow — would be up there somewhere There how long would these prairie chickens and deer last? They d probably move south, while the big guy moved up here Anyway Emerson was certainly right about the laws of compensation.

Before the new Volkswagen yet? She's loads of fun.

More and more people are having the time of their life driving the new VW. There's 10% more power. The new Volkswagen leapt away at lights as if it was going to a fire. You can put your foot down anytime you like, in any gear you like, and really take off. The engine torque is increased too. There's more power to call on at every gear — passing is safer and faster. And now that first gear is synchronized, the Volkswagen's easier than ever to drive. You can shift straight down to first gear without stopping the car. This eliminates a lot of unnecessary shopping and starting. Women drivers especially will like this change.

All four gear ratios have been modified to take advantage of the new engine's output. You can thread your way through heavy traffic or give it its head on the highway in any gear, the new Volkswagen's a lot more fun to drive.

There's more luggage space in the new car too, 10 cubic feet in all. A full 5 up front and another 5 behind the back seat. Some of the 30 improvements in the De Luxe Volkswagen are also in the Custom model.

There's so much to say about the new car, why not get a first hand Take her out tonight she's waiting, bright and shining, at your VW dealer.

Stone Above Cake Belongs

Good tools chosen for their job make cake baking easier and more successful

Here is a list of basic cake baking aids standard measuring cup and spoons wooden mixing spoon mixing bowls both large and small scissors for cutting paper dried fruits flour sifter rubber scraper steel spatula.

Rotary egg beater Wire whips for angel food were cake mixer or hour two. Oven thermometer or regulated oven.

Ingredients Really there is just one big over all secret to know about choosing ingredients It is as simple as this make the recipe Use the exact ingredients called for

The recipe is just like any bad scientific formula and for the best results you must use the type and proportion of ingredients called for.

In the case of eggs they will beat up more easily when at room temperature and give a finer grained lighter cake Shortening eggs from refrigerator several hours before using

The superiority of accurate standard measurements can not be over stressed Perhaps if you have had experience of baking you can by experience but for a dependable successful product you should measure all ingredients

Oven It is important to have the oven at an even correct heat A controlled oven should be inspected and checked occasionally to make sure that the thermostat is accurate

If your oven has no heat control you will find it helpful to use a portable oven thermometer This thermometer shows just how hot the oven is and you can adjust the flow of heat to maintain the right baking temperature before and while your cake bakes

Start heating the oven for enough in advance to have a steady heat of the right temperature by the time the cake is ready to go in

Usually the heat is most even in the centre of the oven To have evenly baked cake set the pan in the middle of the oven or place one rack slightly below one slightly above the middle of the oven Bigger pans and place them so that the air can circulate freely Do not overcrowd the oven or place pans too close to the oven walls

When cake is done When the oven temperature as well as the time part is exactly that specified in the recipe your baking should be done in the time given As a safeguard always test the cake before removing from the oven

Practical tests are — 1 Cake should have risen to its full height and have a delicately browned crust 2 When pressed lightly with finger the top surface of the cake should spring back and leave no imprint 3 When cake tester or toothpick is inserted near centre of the cake it should come out clean dry without doughiness 4 Cake except sponge cake) should have shrunk or pulled away slightly from the sides of the pan

Cooking Butter Cake Remove baked cake from oven and set pans on cake rack to cool 5 to 10 minutes. This allows the fragile and delicate cells to become more rigid Then turn cake out on rack, remove paper from the bottom and with cold friends the cake should finish cooling are now operating on at least an 8 hour shift and many are on a period basis. Ben Bennett, Supervisor of Regional Programs with the Department of Agriculture points out that people for farmers are increasing at a reasonably good tempo. They are receiving more and more the value of planting weed free and uniformly large seed stock.

Following as a list of managers of the new plants:

Bawlf — Lawrence Lloyd Hagel. Provost — Yvonne Phillippart Bellevue — Lorne Meyer. Rycroft, Berwyn — Leonard Stettler. Melrose — Walter Bernhardt. Delia — Miss Esther Schroeder and Walter Gunther has just taken over the Bawlf plant. Don Le Petite and Leroy Norris are the new plant managers at St. Paul and Ukalta respectively.

Mr. Goddard advises farmers to take advantage of the usual low fall rates for grain cleaning and to make their bookings early. Early bookings will avoid disappointment and enable them to take advantage of the extra services offered but not sure to get during the spring rush.

Mix Well!

When using Avadex for wild oat control make sure that it is well mixed with the soil advises H. E. Priebe, Senior Agronomist at the 102 Lacombe Experimental Farm. On stubble particularly double tillage must be used.

During both of 1956 Avadex applied on stubble at Lacombe did not give quite the responses expected. Incomplete incorporation of the chemical was suspected and following a number of experiments this year on summerfallow where more study was undertaken.

It had been thought that seeds germinating at and below the treated layer would be killed by the chemical when the plants tried to reach the surface. Unfortunately this not altogether true. Some plants died, but others grew through the chemical treated soil to emerge and thrive.

Wild oat seeds were sown at different depths in some of the experiments, some at normal depth, some at one inch and some at two or three. Days were allowed for germination of the seeds and the untreated and then those covered with two inches of treated soil. This was done before the seedlings emerged.

Wild oats germinating in the treated soil were completely killed and that at rates of Avadex application as low as one-half pound per acre. Some of the plants showed above the surface but died at a very short time following emergence. When the mixing equipment is used and gave through the two inches of treated soil survived was about fifty per cent performance. At the lighter rates.

Results of Avadex application to three grain crops this year are as follows: 1 pound and 1½ pounds to the acre. Mr Priebe mentions however that ½ pound rate in the greenhouse shows promise over the 1 pound rate in the field. Under controlled conditions much more uniform mixing occurs and half of the chemical is required.

So that the Avadex as well as seed is in the soil Mr Priebe advises. Under field conditions two operations with the tiller are advisable on stubble. Less than three times more would seem warranted. More than this could mean dilution of the chemical through too deep cultivation. A single tillage on fallow is usually sufficient.

Canadian Union College Students Speak to Adventists

Conducting the morning worship service at the Stettler Seventh-day Adventist Church on Saturday morning was Mr Bob Marvin, a senior student of Canadian Union College. The theme of his first day in the Sixth Week of Prayer conducted in all Adventist Churches throughout the world Mr Malcolm's theme of his address was Our World Challenge. Quoting from an article written by Mr E E Fuller, president of the world conference of Adventists Mr Malcolm said that The world today was surely facing a crisis. Like the evidence and the attitudes of the old ones on every hand World conditions and trends constitute a weighty challenge to every Christian. All Mr. Fuller has reports the increased followers of Christ movement project of the Seventh-day Adventist Church must realize that this is the day of battle and that they are called here again grow over the Easter month. This advance has been realized through the members' unceasing active practice of their part in the battle. From the college [illegible] to the Gaetano Rose, [illegible] Mr Malcolm was enthused with the [illegible] Mr Malcolm's theme of the Lord's work. Proud again of [illegible]

Winter Protection For Roses

As the first step in proper protection of roses Mr McCalla recommends pruning the bushes early immediately after flowering is over or right before. Then give them a good soaking and cover them with mounds of soil about 12 inches high. Prune any weak canes that do not appear completely sturdy and vigorous. Also remove any canes that appear to be diseased or infected with insects.

Mr McCalla also recommends that the mounds of soil be removed and watered if the ground is dry. Then cover the bushes with the Alberta Department of Agriculture recommended mixture of 1/3 peat moss and 2/3 soil. Finally, cover the mounds with a mulch of straw or some comparable material to keep the soil from drying out.

It is not the actual cold weather that kills the roses but the drying and freezing and thawing out of the dwarf canes in the early spring. Only the best form of protection, covering of soil, will prevent effort should be made to keep a good covering on the bushes. This precaution covering not be too valuable and some covering is not enough and will not prevent the loss of canes that are dead in the spring.

HERE! THE TRUCKS THAT RIDE SMOOTHER, WORK HARDER, LAST LONGER!

Just a year ago, Chevy came up with a version low independent front suspension and has already put some 300,000 Chevrolet trucks with it out on jobs.

The ride that results from Chevy's suspension design is making life a lot easier for drivers. (Just ask them!) It's taking better care of loads, the fragile kind that used to cost somebody money if they were bounced around. Chevy's ride also enables truck owners to revise their buying habits and work their trucks longer before they trade. This follows naturally. The trucks take less of a beating. There's less stress on sheet metal. Less shake to tires. Less pounding to wear out parts before their time. The upshot of it is you either save money or earn more of it, or both. And you couldn't ask a truck to do more than that. See your dealer.

Dogs At Large

Sometimes the gals of our Town Council wonder. Mac hasn't. Have you heard of the dog in Ponoka who was in the habit of taking a walk with intelligent dogs.

Shelties like most dogs like to accompany their master on his rounds. Sometimes at large, and sometimes on leash. Well, this dog would accompany his master to the store. Apparently he was allowed to enter. Apparently he was allowed to enter. The Dominion Meat Market was one of the places he visited. The Dominion Meat Market is owned by Mr. Bob Cameron and Mr. Bob Cameron is a brother-in-law of Mr. Bob Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cameron and their daughter Irene week-ended in Edmonton. Irene and attended the wedding of Mr. Brooker's youngest daughter. [illegible] Brooker formerly lived in Mirror. Todd of Stettler.

Mr and Mrs. Gordon Morrow had as their guests recently Mrs. Morrow's brother-in-law Paul Carney and family from Stettler.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Petersen spent the week-end with Mrs. Petersen's parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lund and Gladys.

EARTH'S MOST POWERFUL CREATURE

That's right. Appearances to the contrary, man is the most powerful creature on the face of the earth.

Man—of all creatures—put his brain to work instead of his muscles, shaping energy sources to his own use and betterment.

In Canada we've put our energy sources to work so well we enjoy one of the world's highest standards of living. Take oil for example. Because it has been made available at reasonable prices wherever it is needed, Canadians use more than 1,000,000 gallons an hour. And speaking of reasonable prices, Imperial Oil gets less for a gallon of gasoline today than it did ten years ago.

What every young man should know

... about life insurance. Most young men will find they need substantially more life insurance than they purchased in their first few years as a family provider. But what if your health strikes early? Would it mean a young man in these circumstances would never again qualify for more life insurance? Or if he did qualify, could he afford a high extra premium?

Today there is a new answer to these questions. Thanks to our new "Guaranteed Insurability" a young man can take an option on buying more insurance at regular rates at specific dates in the future . . . regardless of changes in health or occupation. The cost? It's only a slight extra added to the basic premiums for a new policy.

Find out today from the Man from Manufacturers how this new Guaranteed Insurability policy rider can help you fill a gap in your plans for security.

A Jay Hawk Reminder —

Here's a special request to Canadian Mothers. Help to prevent motor accidents by taking care of your children, on long motor trips. Keep them busy reading or admiring the scenery, or playing quiet games. Above all make sure they don't distract the driver. Keep them from playing with door handles and ash-trays.

The Stettler High School Auditorium was filled to capacity for the presentation of the best season of all operas. Otto Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor" by the Canadian Opera Company. It was the first concert of the new season by the Stettler Operatic Association and the large crowd left the auditorium convinced that it had already received full value for the price of tickets for the entire series.

The opera was under the direction of Mario Berardi of CBC fame and it brought to Stettler some of Canada's best operatic talent, including Jan Rubes, Lhasander Grey and Basil Pruden.

The company presented a new English version of the opera by Joseph Blatt Jr. into a light colorful, thoroughly enjoyable production.

The Merry Wives of Windsor" is based on Shakespeare's light hearted play and was first presented in 1849 and gave its composer lasting fame. He has done it well otherwise have died with him for he was best known as a conductor.

The opera all roles were sung was light and bounding except for the tender stretch in the Windsor Forest scene.

Other attractions of the Operatic Association's series are Lloyd's Puppets, Thursday, December 28; John Carter (tenor) Saturday January 16, and Bel Canto and Henry (violin and piano) Tuesday March 7.

Police Ask Co-operation During Safe Driving Week

The R C M Police request the co-operation of all motorists during Safe Driving week, December 1st to December 7th inclusive. They appeal to those motorists who are pedestrians who refuse to heed the advice and pleas for safety and safe-walking or to believe that such advice is directed towards them. Those persons can and do make real taken which result in traffic deaths and injuries.

From January 1st to September 30th, 1960 in the Alberta areas policed by the R C M Police 167 accidents occurred with 190 persons being killed. Of these accidents 72 or 39 per cent involved only one vehicle and all of these accidents were preventable. There are still far too many single car accidents caused by inattentive driving. Speed and high speed are encouraged for road conditions and the curves. The number of rear end collisions is growing which is again a cause by inattention on the part of the drivers.

Police officials are sure they will get a drop in accidents during this period, which is an increase of 12 deaths over the 1959 of 12 pedestrians killed, showing an appreciable increase over the year of death of the first nine months of 1960. Eighty accidents out of the accidents occurred in the daylight hours with 69 occurring in the dark hours. In the dark winter months are now with us it is expected that the percentage of accidents by night will increase. Five persons were killed while operating tractors on the highway. Tractor operators must appreciate that the tractor is a dangerous vehicle to operate on the highways, particularly at night.

All drivers are requested to check their lighting and other equipment regularly. Make it a habit.

Police enforcement activities will be increased in this Safe-Driving week and all citizens could assist by having an accident free week.

His

Two for the price of one. He bought two Volkswagens instead of one conventional car, and solved all their transportation problems.

The down payments, the monthly payments and the running costs are just the same as if he had bought one big car, and repairs are fewer and further between.

Now, he drives to work, drives to the golf course, drives anyplace he wants to go. And his conscience is clear, because she has a car of her own.

He loves the Volkswagen's sporty gear box, front-track cornering and snap acceleration.

How clever he was to think of buying a pair. He beams when he remembers. He enjoys the idea even more.

Hers

She never has to schedule and coax to get the car. She does her errands just when it is to her. She feels safer when she's driving, because she knows she has complete control over the car. She parks while her friends drive around looking for a big enough space.

And she thinks her VW is such a clever car. It never needs oil between changes, and it has an gasoline gauge. Long way. (She is a average under normal driving conditions.) She runs her VW out of her housekeeping money.

She smiles when she recalls her getting the great idea of buying two Volkswagens. (She gave him the catalogue.)

If there's a car problem in your family, see your Volkswagen dealer. He will show you why two can drive as cheaply as one.

Here's What Education Is

Editor's Note: The following is a condensation of a recent talk to Grades 12 Canary editor of students and the guid-based reason for grade and grade of mid-term.

He would find room, in one case, a frightening lethargy, a bewildering concern about pay, a fretfulness, and elementary

He would find young men and women who, if they have any ideas at all, have only a dim understanding of what they want to do. He would see people who are unwilling to accept responsibility, and who are unwilling to pay the price of responsibility. He would see people who are unwilling to pay the price of responsibility, and who are unwilling to pay the price of responsibility.

Only fresh cut flowers can say so much in so many ways on so many occasions. But there's so much difference in flowers (and where you buy them!) as there is in your reasons for choosing them. You'll be wise to shop at a florist's, where you know the flowers are fresher, look lovelier, and will last a lot longer, too. And the "Grown in Alberta" tag on your florist shop bouquet also says a lot for your good taste and good shopping sense.

Fewer rat infestations in the province were reported during Alberta's control campaign this year, but the total number of rats caught destroyed the original saving any serious loss to agriculture or geology, but it's more. The information comes from Dr. Frank Bell, director of the control campaign, and is based on reports received from municipalities and districts.

Lived In River Cave 50 Years

Isaac Rae, 76, resided in the cave at Lethbridge for 50 years, died Monday, before the 25 years of residence in the cave. Mr. Rae, a native of Scotland, had built and furnished the cave himself with salvaged materials found in the local coulee. Isaac's only well known occupation was that of a rancher. Cave dwelling, he said, was a way of life with nature where the voice knew that its master and to read the language of birds, which he understood and learned to imitate.

Life in the cave was without any of the conveniences of modern living. The cave would be dark and damp in the winter, but Isaac had learned to make himself comfortable. He used to the darkness and would go hunting or fishing during the night. He was well liked by the people of Lethbridge, who would visit him and bring him supplies and reading material. He was a well informed man and would make the 10-mile trip to Lethbridge to stock up on groceries and gather news items of the day.

In the earlier years, he spent most of the winters in the cave, but lately he went to Lethbridge during the most severe months. There, living by pension, he could be California where he took a room and a bed to get some of the Western climate.

A Message From The Directors

You are cordially invited to join with us in the ownership of a new Acceptance Company and to participate in what we believe will be a sound and profitable business venture

The ever increasing volume of business activity in Alberta will require added sources of consumer credit. In the past, large instalment sales finance companies have grown and prospered on what has been proven to be an extremely profitable field of business endeavor. We believe that these profits should be kept and distributed at home.

We feel that an Alberta company, home owned and knowing the requirements of her people at first hand is better equipped to serve these needs than are other credit companies.

Our purpose will be to make credit available to Alberta farmers, businessmen and consumers through authorized dealers of foreseeable merchandise. In doing so, we will be filling an important need in the economic growth and stability of our province. We feel that we can do this through a sound, forward looking acceptance company that will reflect credit to ourselves, and return profits to its investors.

Agricultural Outlook For 1961

Major public utility projects and increased expenditures for the development and distribution of natural gas will add to capital requirements.

The gross farm cash income for 1961 is expected to be somewhat lower than the record level of 1960. Prices received by farmers are expected to average slightly lower than in 1960 and the volume of farm marketings is not likely to increase significantly. Prices paid by farmers for goods and services are expected to remain relatively stable.

Total net farm income in 1961 is expected to be somewhat lower than in 1960 when it was $1,200,000,000. Realized net farm income is the amount left after deducting operating expenses from gross farm cash income. It is the return to farmers for their own labour and management and for their investment in land, buildings, machinery and livestock.

Farm operating expenses in 1961 are expected to be slightly higher than in 1960 when they totalled $1,600,000,000. Increases are anticipated in expenditures for wages, interest, property taxes, repairs to buildings and machinery, and for fuel, oil and electricity. Expenditures for fertilizer, feed, seed, building materials, machinery and motor vehicles are expected to remain relatively stable.

Depreciation charges on farm buildings, machinery and motor vehicles are expected to be slightly higher than in 1960 when they totalled $400,000,000. Depreciation charges on livestock are expected to be slightly lower than in 1960 when they totalled $100,000,000.

Net income per farm in 1961 is expected to be somewhat lower than in 1960 when it averaged $3,600. Net income per farm worker is expected to be slightly lower than in 1960 when it averaged $1,800.

Realized net farm income in the Prairie Provinces in 1961 is expected to be somewhat lower than in 1960 when it totalled $1,000,000,000. Net income per farm in the Prairie Provinces is expected to be somewhat lower than in 1960 when it averaged $4,000. Net income per farm worker is expected to be slightly lower than in 1960 when it averaged $2,000.

SANTA CLAUS IS COMING TO TOWN

Oh you a letter will post
Better not shout
Better not cry
I'm telling you why
Santa Claus is coming to town

He's making a list
Checking it twice
Gonna find out
Who's naughty or nice
Santa Claus is coming to town

He sees you when you're sleeping
He knows if you're awake
He knows if you've been bad or good
So be good for goodness sake

Oh you better watch out
Better not cry
Better not pout
I'm telling you why

May the joy of Christmas surround you and yours!

A well attended public meeting will be held at 8:30, Thursday evening in the school auditorium to try and reject a decision the School Board to have the grade 12 students [illegible] to Castor to receive their high school education. It is felt that if the grade 12 class goes next year eventually the grade 10 and 11 will follow and possibly also the grade nine leaving us with a second rate school unable to obtain the services of a top rate teaching staff. Therefore all parents of high school students and future high school students are asked to attend to voice their opinion as parents [illegible] answers and interested citizens.

Congratulations to the lucky winners at the Elks bingo on Saturday evening. They were [illegible]

Violet Turner, Mrs. Gus Anderson, Debbie Taylor, Merry Stilling and Mrs. Henry Turns.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson were hosts on Wednesday evening to the STT Club Christmas Party. Eight ladies were in attendance and a good time was reported. A delicious lunch completed the evening.

A belated hearty welcome goes to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Berry who took up residence next to Pat Bailey's a few weeks ago.

Miss Mary Stewart, who has been spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stewart, was a hospital patient last week.

The annual Christmas Party is to be held at the auditorium on the afternoon of December 22, while the United Church will hold its Christmas Pageant and Carol singing at 7:00 on Thursday evening.

Your correspondent extends to all her readers and friends a most sincere wish for a Happy Christmas.

JINGLE BELLS

Dashing thro' the snow
In a one horse open sleigh
O'er the fields we go
Laughing all the way
Bells on bobtail ring
Making spirits bright
What fun it is to ride and sing
A sleighing song tonight

Chorus

Jingle bells, jingle bells
Jingle all the way
Oh what fun it is to ride
In a one horse open sleigh

A day or two ago
I thought I'd take a ride
And soon Miss Fanny Bright
Was seated by my side
The horse was fresh and lively
His feet did prance and bound
When I got in the sleigh
And took the reins around

Chorus

Now the ground is white
Go it while you're young
Take the girls tonight
And sing this sleighing song
Just get a one horse sleigh
And take a load for free
And you will find the place
Where you'd like to be

A FAMILY CHRISTMAS

We hear many complaints before the modern generation about the modern generation's lack of that old-time Christmas spirit. Maybe there is some truth in it, but we doubt it. The present generation is not to blame for the way Christmas has changed. The change has been brought about by the parents themselves.

In those days they were not able to spend much money on their children. Even if they wanted to, they just didn't have it. Instead they made the most of what they had. Every penny counted. Every penny was carefully saved. Every penny was carefully spent. Every penny was carefully thought about. All the time and energy that went into making Christmas were enjoyable ones. There was pleasure in the anticipation and pleasure in the realization.

Old Spice

I would be hard indeed to find a better advantage of today's more modern methods and developments could possibly improve upon the traditional spices of Christmas. A little of that old time flavor is apparent in baking some of the delicacies. A touch of spice, a touch of nutmeg, a touch of cinnamon and a touch of ginger, all combined and used in moderation, will produce delicacies that will be enjoyed by all. Spices are a part of Christmas and no matter how much modernism we may have, a touch of spice is necessary for delicacies to be used to our full enjoyment.

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In the hope that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her kerchief and I in my cap
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap,
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window
I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters
and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast
of the new fallen snow
Gave a lustre of midday
to objects below
When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer
With a little old driver so lively and quick
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
"Now Dasher! Now Dancer! Now Prancer and Vixen
On Comet! On Cupid! On Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch to the top of the wall
Now dash away dash away
dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly
When they meet with an obstacle
mount to the sky
So up to the housetop the coursers they flew
With the sleigh full of toys and St. Nicholas too
And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof
As I drew in my head and was turning around
Down the chimney St.
Nicholas came with a bound
He was dressed all in fur
from his head to his foot
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack
His eyes how they twinkled!
His dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses,
his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth
was drawn up like a bow
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow
He had a broad face and a little round belly
That shook when he laughed like a bowlful of jelly
He was chubby and plump
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself
A wink of his eye
and a twist of his head
Soon gave me to know
I had nothing to dread
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work
And filled all the stockings
then turned with a jerk
And laying a finger aside of his nose
And giving a nod up the chimney he rose
He sprang to his sleigh to his team gave a whistle
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle
But I heard him exclaim ere he drove out of sight
Happy Christmas to all and to all a good-night

Time To Reflect

In the midst of it all, with the hustle and bustle of last minute preparations for those little folks with toys scattered all about the house, in the tumult and the din of it all, there should be one moment for quiet meditation for reflection, and for thanksgiving and for the gifts, not the well-wishes of the givers, but instead for another Christmas—least we forget the real purpose of it all.

A Blessed Christmas

Christmas Question

Hastings Coulee News Items

For some reason most of us have come to look upon the final days of the year as the ideal time for consummation of romances and for the setting up of a new set of ideals. Would our Christmas seem Christmas without a better tone than Christmas Eve all of us to ask this question of ourselves. Thousands Visit Holy Land

Jerusalem and the Holy Land at this time of year. Thousands of tourists of Christmas from through the world. They come by every modern of transportation to visit the shrines and Holy places so important to the Christian world.

In Bethlehem they find the Church of the Nativity (built and some of the north of Christ's which is cared for by members of many sects.

From the Mount of Olives, where Jesus prayed, they look over Jerusalem, ancient now as its great Temple and the Holy Sepulchre and the great wall of that. It rises on the Hill Zion, Rock which tradition says is the place where Solomon built his temple, and Jehoshaphat, Hezekiah, another generation, and the Tombs of the kings of Judah and all.

DAD'S GIFT

By Bertha R Hushlow

The Lucy sisters—Lucy Gale and Lucy Lane. They didn't look alike. They weren't related. They weren't even living in the same house. But they were inseparable friends for Lucy's seventeenth years.

Lucy Gale lived with her widowed father and Lucy Lane lived with her widowed mother. Besides house jobs and school assignments, shopping and lunches had with them a list of gifts to be bought for many people. Lucy Gale had a list of gifts to be bought for many people. Notes From The D. A.

By T. W. Walker,
District Agriculturist
(Stettler Alberta)

Now Years Greetings

The beginning of the new year is a time when we look back on what has happened during the past year and look forward to the future. Success or failure is measured by many standards. Some of these years in which there was a good deal to be thankful for. Although in some areas it was touched by severe drought conditions, it was generally speaking one of the best harvest years in many of the last years. Most of us in the area were brought into a prosperous condition by the products which remained at a relatively high level. Sales of grain to overseas markets continued at a high level. Prices of grain moved in our favour.

Major agricultural industries in the Stettler district are those of the cattle industry and dairying. Both branches of live stock sales proved to be a great asset to the district. These achievements are tangible proof of progress in the district.

On the future the trend is with the raising importance of livestock continued in 1960. It is likely that the livelihood of the district will be more cattle than ever before.

What does the year 1961 hold for farmers in the North of area. One would need to be more than human to see into the future. However it seems fair to assume that there will be an increased supply of almost all agricultural products in 1961. The increased supply may result in a downward pressure on the prices of at least some agricultural products. Economic conditions throughout the nation will have a great bearing on what actually does happen.

The trend is forming over the past few years has indicated that more attention needs to be directed to farm business management if a farmer is to have a good living left after all expenses are paid. With this thought in mind the Alberta Department of Agriculture is directing more and more attention to helping farmers decide what they should do in order to operate their farm business on the most profitable way. The Department now has a Farm Business Branch which works with the Extension Service. Help is given on an individual or group basis when requested.

Whatever the year 1961 holds in store for us this is the time of the year when in the interests of Agriculture would like to wish everyone a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Fluoridated Milk Not The Answer

The following editorial appeared in a recent edition of the Magazine Health official publication of the Health Leagues of Canada It was written by Dr Gordon Bates General Director of the League

In a recent editorial in a great Canadian metropolitan paper with a tradition of leadership in good causes heard it there a declaration to the effect that fluoridated milk might provide the solution to the problem of prevention of carious teeth Since this metropolitan daily has previously opposed the fluoridation of water and has refused to print letters in favour of fluoridation of water this editorial is obviously an admission of defeat It acknowledges that fluoridation may be of some value - that it is absolutely certain that universal fluoridation of community water supplies would reduce one of the serious menaces to human health, namely decay of teeth. There is no such proof in the value of fluoridated milk. Just why the intelligent people who choose to drink fluoridated milk should receive special favours in this respect seems to be outside the thinking of this particular paper

Sound teeth are the right of all children, rich or poor - one water is a necessary element in the diet of everyone the fluoridation of communal water supplies would afford everybody.

This newspaper uses the ridiculous argument and repeats it so often that it officially proclaims that fluoridation is compulsory medication This statement is simply failure to confuse an established principle in something which Curve Flavour will not cure but it will prevent Dental caries result from a deficiency in human nutrition, and any other opposite is simple evidence of muddled thinking

It is low but that a great newspaper capable of creating public opinion should lead in a crusade advocated by prejudice and ignorance Fluoridation of communal water supplies is the only remedy to the problem of one of the last great mass infections left, namely, infections coming from carious teeth. To the argument that fluoridation of milk supplies is the answer, the reply is unfortunately and unsuccessful

We look ahead to all the days of the New Year... new days, ready for us to use as we will. And we pray that all may find the inspiration to use each day to the fullest ... building a better life, on ever greater foundry, a world at peace.

Treasurer Ernest Hillman said last week that the budget will be presented early in the session which opens January 26.

Hillman remarked that the budget will be prepared with an eye to the future. He said that the province has been living beyond its means in recent years and that it will be necessary to curtail expenditures.

Ponoka Meters Take Only $100 Weekly

Ponoka Herald

Ponoka, with 6,000 population, has two coin-operated parking meters in use, which puts the Ponoka Police Department in the unique position of having the most parking meters per capita of any city in Canada.

Ponoka's two meters have been in operation since about the first of December, and Police Chief Jack Dolan has been pleased with the performance of the meters and the parking situation generally.

Average weekly collections from the meters have been around $100. Half of this goes to the meter manufacturer until the units installed here are paid for.

Traffic counts and parking facilities have been causing the town fathers a great deal of concern for some time. The meters will not reduce the total parking problem, but they do provide more turnover, so that the $4,700 which the meters are paid for in three years should keep them.

[illegible] in Ponoka

Ponoka is at present paying approximately $15,000 per year for the use of the C.P.R. property along Railway Street for free parking space. The lease of these parking areas is supposed to be $1,285 per year. The railway pays to the town $1,000 for the right-of-way and lease. Another $2,000 goes as wages for traffic attendants on the police force.

One of the suggestions of the survey results was that something like $85 was paid into them before the regulations

TO THINK IT MIGHT HAVE ENDED LIKE THIS

Fatalities can lead a tragedy of the mind, body, spirit, tongue and stomach. Fortunately, ours had brains . . . and a will . . . or we might have ended up on the wrong side of the ghost.

In the early days Jean succeeded, with earth's other creatures—and made a meal of each other, soon to develop energy from fossil fuels to power our cars and keep our homes warm.

Competition has helped Canada's oldest company to remain one of the world's highest living standards. Take the way it works in the oil industry. Imperial Oil and hundreds of other companies compete for the oil Canadians use. As a result, oil is available in practically every community where it is needed . . . and Canada has been found to oil for more than 20 billion barrels.

Alberta's Economy Stronger Than Other Provinces

By Ken Mason

EDMONTON

The year 1960 has gone by the record books as one of record and recession.

Most of them in Alberta as well as in other provinces but there's a difference. In Alberta the recession is regarded only slightly. And what's more important benefited a bad if needed from.

It receded from a boom period of Alberta economic history.

But result was that while things were not as good in Alberta as they have been in recent years, they were still mighty good in comparison with conditions in other provinces.

The pace of industrial development remained practically unchanged during the year. Labor income was higher than in previous year and employment continued near 1959 levels although there was more unemployment, personal income was bigger.

Farm income was practically on a par with that of the last two years although farm costs went up too — and there was an increase in mineral production to 30 percent of manufacturing firms in the province were still and of more than $600 000 000

Alberta's economy in has over at the past year provides a good illustration of the way in which diversification of industry is benefitting the province. Fifteen years ago farming accounted for more than 50 per cent of the province's wealth producing activity. Today agriculture manufacturing and construction share almost equally as wealth producers. The result is that when one industry slows down temporarily the others soften the overall effect on the economy.

How do things look for the coming year? According to all the experts the outlook is very bright.

There's little sign of any startling increases or slumps to come but there's no sign of any decreases either. Manufacturing output worth nearly 1 500 000 000 grow under construction last year and when they go into production the value of manufacturing will easily top a billion dollars for the first time in Alberta's history.

Probably Alberta's biggest cushion against recession is the expanding large-scale export of natural gas to the U S. During

MR. EDWARD M. WHITESIDE

Edward Martin Whiteside was born at Ottawa Ontario on April 13th 1865. He later moved with his family to New Brunswick where he lived for several years and also spent a short time at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

In 1892, Mr. Whiteside came west to Calgary, Alberta. He filed on a homestead at the Pine Lake district in 1893. A year later on March 29th, 1894 he was united in marriage to Annie Isabella Johnson Mr. Whiteside farmed and ranched at Pine Lake until 1898 when he moved to the Lourdes Lake or Erskine district south of Stettler being one of the first settlers in the district.

Mr Whiteside was actively engaged in farming and ranching until his retirement in 1939. He continued to reside on the farm until six months ago, when he moved to the Stettler Charnoz Convalescent Hospital where he passed quietly away on Tuesday, December 20th at the age of 95 years.

Mr Whiteside was one of the earliest pioneers of the Stettler district and had done much to develop the area. He had taken a keen interest in community and school affairs and was also a member of the first Stettler Agricultural Society.

LOW SUGAR PRICES THREATEN ONTARIO INDUSTRY

Mounting Wheat Surplus Predicted By Experts

OTTAWA — A mounting documents message 1961 storms eyes, such as the European Common Market increased Russian wheat surplus and the bean farm hold crops on approx. ross Market increased Russian wheat at a recent address to the markets, the same heard on this competition in world stocks public industry were forecast to year with little change in grain Total Canadian exports have day by government agricultural exports. Prices for cattle and average 300 000 000 b u s h e l s and this would seem to represent the minimum that can be achieved in the years ahead.

The predictions are included in a weekly papers prepared by the Canadian Wheat Board economists for today's other livestock and animal prod uct opening of the federal provincial ag ricultural conference.

Continued in the same theme the report said that in 1970 there were reasons for lower hog prices into next year further declines in exports of oats and barley by exporters in the current 1970 crop year the prospect of China, Russia, has been kept out of European markets by E.E.C. subsidized production and continuing our abuses of their products.

The same reports build out that 1970 saw a little increase in the world demand for agricultural products During the next year to 10 months, demand may be decisively influenced by inventory policies in the export countries.

Some governments are applying supply management programs limiting increase or decreasing acres on the balance of payments. This could discourage agricultural imports especially for the western purposes.

No improvement in export prices is expected since the supply of meats foodstuffs and of non-agricultural raw materials continues to be more than ample.

Of the domestic crops the will be restricted by new milling

The total will be that total farm cash income next year may be a little higher than in 1969 But this may be offset by increases in operating and depreciation charges.

The documents present this picture of the future for various grain markets in U.S. subsidized countries.

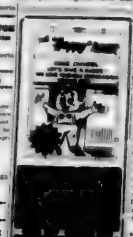
Cure For Snoring

Snoring — One of the most common of sleep complaints is the violent snoring of a person nearby. However if any comfort suffers from this, it is comforting to know that something is being done to solve the problem.

According to authorities from the Health League of Canada a doctor in Britain has developed a series of experiments which may very easily cure and a cure for snoring.

The experiments perform on the nerve before being are designed to help the nerves and tongue muscles, and then it is hoped to lighten them that



Dr. Finch said the exercises were designed by a man he described as a dot-eaganhed pho sician who studied he common complaint. Those are just three exercises at present and they take only a few minutes to perform.

"All that remains of holding something such as a pencil or a between the teeth and the lips. In the fingers are pressed with under the forearm on the front of the and then the tongue is pushed forward firmly against the lower teeth. The third exercise is a concentration if you sing a set 5 minutes merely of open ed the mouth and sing any Ah-song you like, either silent audible. Practice every day for three or four months. This holds up the nerves and tightens the muscles of the tongue."

Dr. Finch said his colleagues had not produce a cure for snoring but their collaborating on this and the exercises will help many the longer nevertheless if the sleeper breathes through the mouth.

NO BUYERS FOR THE PONY

The 40-year-old owner of the Toronto Thoroughbred Breeders Assn., T. J. Clark, came to a humiliating end recently. A total of 10 prospective buyers have refused to bag her 15 hp pony. The owner reason

Ontario-B Lawrence Development council team would set Lake her a gift for its Shrewsbury mascot mascot. So in a last resort the Toronto Dolphin Co. bought the pony for $1 for demolition during the speech.

A New Year's Message

By Mrs. Lillian Myers
Sponsor:

Christian, with its beating and merry making every and none we vote, to the beginning of a New Year Although the sun and moon keep their steady and unchanging course and the clock measures out inconvenience, each year we humans instinctively pause in our tracks of this journey of time as it were of our elders and our lives

The New Year is a time for retrospect of retrospect and of

We look back over the past that has gone so swiftly We see the perspective of time the sun fallen we made the wrongs we have done the good we might have done But we also see with our conquered some sired real spot still unconquered made in the realm of our spiritual and mental life our life we see the background of God's providence and care of us and our days. The thousand evidences of the life that is broader than the mere life of man a mould And as we raise our Ebenezer and say Hitherto hath the Lord helped us

We look forward If we dare and take stock of our need What do we see? Ah! we see all the loneliness and the heartbreak around us We see the spirit of evil and we are up-making our lives trying to help others and to live alive though has reverse than we have We see monstrous evil, selfishness and every other kind of evil that is around us We spirit that is still encouraging and helping We see the noble aspiration, the high and holy desire to be good, and we say "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit in me

But we look forward there is no standing still—we are on some journey, and on somewhere page a balance or a challenge for which all our past and our present is a preparation. We can make a best of new resolutions, and the making of them may be good, even if the best resolves are not broken in a few days We may make but one, and that the resolve to be a little better every day, so every way to everything That is comprehensive enough, and it will take all our powers in order to be worthily achieved.

We know not what the future holds for us We do know that we have not passed this way heretofore and that we need a guide We also know that we are weak creatures, and that we need a guide We know more than that our knowledge is only a child's road. The road that is so familiar to us I personal thing, but sometimes so rough, and so steep But still it is a road, and as we travel it we find and it, a more welcome and a Father's guiding, and we can wander with sincere hearts

This, this is the God we adore, Our faithful unchanging friend, Who loves is so great as the

And no other knows measure or end
For Jesus the first and the last
Whose spirit shall guide us safe home

We'll praise Him for all that is past
And trust Him for all that's to come

HYMN

Standing at the portal of the opening year
Words of comfort meet us hoping every fear
Spoken through the silence of our Father's voice

Tender strong and faithful nothing is to near

He will never fail us He will not forsake
His eternal covenant He will never break
Resting on His promise what have we to fear?
God is all sufficient for the coming year

Chorus
Onward then and fear not
Children of the day
For His word shall never never pass away

The Livestock Business

In recent years the livestock branch of the agricultural industry has provided a substantial source of income for the farmers in the Eastern Irrigation District. There has been a good market for beef cattle, and feeds have been well. Weed control in cattle business aren't like the peak of the cattle cycle, and for all one there is ideals to be a decline is grass probably for a year or so The long-time out look appears to be reasonably good

The population of Canada is increasing and already has the 18,000,000 mark Twenty years ago the population was 11,500,000 A synthetic fabric found beef and in the number of people increase the market

The United States population is also increasing steadily at about 2,250,000 and there again the people are fond beef eaters. It is reasonable to anticipate a good market for Alberta cattle in the United States in the years ahead

Irrigation districts are particularly adapted to cattle feeding as fodder crops can be produced abundantly. A mixed land of your after year Livestock production also helps to keep the land in good condition and produces a valuable product of a reasonably high percentage of

Getting The People Out

It is sad that desperate means have to be taken to get people away from their easy chairs and TV sets to attend ordinary but vital activities of the town.

We have a new Community Centre which was built at considerable cost to all residents of the town, but never more than one-third of the seats have been filled this winter and the promoters of minor hockey are getting in to a financial jam. So Mr. E. E. Gibson the town's prominent plumber is after the public some extraordinary color treatment in conjunction with the hockey game on January 21. He is going to try to fill the seats at that one occasion at least and he believes that once the people of Stettler have seen the interior of their stately concession most patrons they can expect to come back again. So besides the hockey attraction between two good teams there will be band music a novelty orchestra, curling competitions, cheer leaders and dancing girls straight from the bottle—entrails will be served by the fans themselves in the confines of parked cars.

Nobody can guess what else Mr Gib son will come up with now that his versatile mind is at work on "Blank Slate Stadium Night."

Here is another example of what community leaders must do to gain the interest of people Mr Dick Hunt press dent of the Home and School Association, is inviting members by using the proposal that pupils should attend school in uniforms. This shocker was to be discussed last night and we will bet that the town's arrested teenagers are not that the hall was crowded with parents ready to fight against such absurdity. A subtle man that Mr Hunt

In the face of such ingenuity Tom Council should be convinced that it must come up with something pretty good for the annual ratepayers' meeting which will be held next month. It could for instance casually let it be known that it has developed a new secret weapon against dogs, or that it has found a cure for th nuisance from their centre on Main Street to make way for a new store

Curling As A Recreation

Artificial ice ensures that the curling season will not be over until April, and enthusiasts, like Henry Krueger and Chas Bateman, will probably still be playing in May

Curling is different from other sports, with its long existence of over 400 years that practically everybody takes part in it as a sole love from batsmen As far as hockey baseball football and tennis are concerned, there are few players and hundreds of thousands of spectators but the situation is reversed in curling which is a real non-professional sport involving both sexes, all ages and all classes and creeds.

It seems strange that more curlers don't take part in golf Golf has one advantage over curling as it does not depend on sight men to women turning up to make a game possible Like love itself, golf requires only a twosome to make it interesting and it does not need two shifts like curling to turn

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

There are two days in every week about which it is useless to worry. One is yesterday with its mistakes and cares, its faults and blunders.

The other is tomorrow It too, is beyond our control Tomorrow's sun will rise either in splendour or behind a mask of clouds but it will rise.

That leaves today and usually our present trials are easier to bear than yesterday's blunders or tomorrow's fears or dread of what tomorrow may bring. Let us therefore, journey but one day at a time

Sugar and Spice

(By BILL SMILEY)

Well, here we go into another twelve months of the ever-recurring, ever-new, ever-beautiful, tragic and joyous process known as living. I've seen forty of these boxes of truths and tenth opened, and I hope I see forty more And the same to you.

I don't remember much about my first New Year's, 1921. It was spent in a small village in Quebec I was staying with my parents at the time, as I was six months old. Since then I've spent them in all sorts of times two years. The most one knows was still on, and my Dad had bought his first car, a Chev with side-curtains He treated that car, and every one after it, like a particularly intractable horse, which would respond only if you yelled hard enough and swore at it with enough feeling.

Ten years later, we stopped into 1931 with the sentiments of a man about to jump into a barrel of broken glass in his face But The Great Depression had begun. Business was terrible The mortgage prevailed, like a great beast, always there, shivering, when my Dad looked at his calendar He parents held long, late-at-night conversations, and he knew they bring bad news, uneasy, they had sinister undertones.

The hunger of the beast would not be denied, and in the end, the mortgage and most everything else on my dad had worked so hard for more than twenty years. What a prospect! Dad must have been fifty-some old, his children in food and clothes, and the whole world in a depression. Jobs were scarce, and competition for every job in sight.

* * * *

But the Great Depression had failed to weaken with my mother She was a heavy lighter and smiled and chortled her way in the next decade she took on the Great Depression and forbad it single handed My dad worked at anything he could get My mother and home baking, took in boarders, and in the afternoons, trudged the streets, selling a line of cosmetics to her friends. Somehow, we staggered through the depression, kept off the relief rolls, and never missed a meal.

Remember New Year's of 1941? That wasn't exactly an occasion of great rejoicing, either The Germans had overrun Europe, England and the Commonwealth fought on, back to the wall. My parents had three sons, and were ready to be pulled down by the dogs of war Three times, they were to receive one of those dreaded telegrams.

The first read "Critically injured." But eldest brother couldn't keep light, had a tremendous constitution, and pulled through with the loss of one eye. The second read "Missing in action." But a curious and concerned youngest brother's head by no trash, and after two days drifting in a rubber dinghy off the coast of France, he was picked up by Air-Sea Rescue. The third read "Missing in action." But middle brother had climbed safely out of a crash-landing in Holland, and a few months later was interviewed through that he was alive and a prisoner.

What did New Year's of 1961 bring? Nothing spectacular for yours truly. The Cold War was on, but the important things in life were a wife, a small son, and what turned out to be a small daughter well on its way There was also a mortgage of monstrous proportions to gnaw at. We survived for the next decade, and showed it back to a homecoming, losing a few teeth in the process.

Midnight, 31 1961 Both my parents have died, quietly and mercifully, in the best tradition. But the process goes on. Another mortgage, always exciting There's a new son, in new surroundings. There is a boy whose voice is changing to that of a man, and talking about the same things as his father's. There is a girl with auburn hair and a cheeky face who tapped the home call in Grade 3 There are new faces now, an emerging up all over the country There is a new baby in Europe, and no other just coming back from South America.

The hair is a little thinner, the glasses a little thicker, and the day after a New Year's Eve party something to be contemplated with real horror, but there's plenty of life in the old boy yet, and I am hardly ready to see what's going to happen to the world, and to us, before succumbing to the "Happy New Year," and I realize that we are about to enter into 1971. —TSE

By D. [illegible] Barber

[illegible]

Then parcel I speak of was a bulky creation held together by fifty or more Swiss Chow gumwound seals and tied with cords and yards of red tinsel string Hanging from it was a crayon image of the great Scout himself created by eight year-old Susan and in wobbly letters at both high was written "Thou Art Bonnie But from Brownie Scout Janet. The parcel contained bright pastel pencil and note 'Oh'.

I had hardly snapped the seals when I was urged to model my gift by a chorus of excited children I cannot recall at no matter that the garment hung off my form like a pair of aquamarine flapjacks, hugged my arm pits and folded in shrubbery nylon drapes around my knees and bum-to-daisy This was apparel I had craved according to them They had requested for almost twelve months that I remarked, as I watched the girls dress in a year ago. I wished I had a pair of hockey sticks and a puck and a goal net, and a mother and they had saved their pennies for the gift

This is the kind of love thought that makes it easy to face the cruel and cold lunge of this New Year What more could anyone wish for, than that they might always remain. In the opinion of their small children, young enough to retain [illegible]

Have You Considered ?

By O. P. Finstrom

[illegible] that budgeting of time is an important. This may seem to be a small matter In reality however just as our money goes further and accomplishes more when we set up a proper budget so time does our time People who do not budget their time are usually end up irresponsibly if their income is not large. With most bills them they can pay more overtime than they can bear and nothing extensive accomplished. So also do people who do not carefully budget their time.

There was a time when a man's living cost his family a of course, depend ed upon how much he had for his job of work. The reason for this in most cases a obvious in that, until the Industrial Revolution the greater number of people were on rather degree at least those employers With the present situation most people are employed by someone else Furthermore since a man's pretense to his work is now to a larger extent impersonal and his usefulness to his employer is unpersonal too in greater or less degree depending upon the number of employees, an increasing number of workers are free leading during a portion of the d. night for have come to believe through working with people in labour unions of late. This is the beginning of the system of organized labor and any day being a slacker is relatively easy

If but will be honest and concede the fact that we can go on and say that it be cannot habitual for a growing number of people to take it more or less left, or in other words to be dishonest workmen Then habit, time spending has no relation to wastage of precious time Any dishonest workmen time This latter is true partly due to the fact that we are living in which the greater number of people are employed by someone else and that in any given operation are relying on a group composed of executives and shop foremen for their direction they have a tendency to lose their initiative Since they are told what to do when they are on the job, and often do nothing except what they are told, they tend to do the same when they are off the job that is nothing

It is not hard to find people who have little or nothing to show for the expenditure of their time either on or off the job in much the same way it is easy to find people who have little or nothing to show for their money

I am convinced that just as at the [illegible] day of reckoning we will be held to account for the use of our time For time is of extreme value in the vast scheme of things you and I are only allotted but a little of it in our short life span We are free to use it or misuse it as we like We may get away with it all our life But just as we look back over the year just past so also will we one day look back over the "little" past passed and wonder what we have done with our time Fortune have favorable and last sometimes men are given opportunity to regain their material things But we have no record of a time wrong given two idleness in which to live We have no knowledge of a man being given two identical minutes to spend Time once gone is gone forever Each minute each second is unique in itself Time runs out and once spent can never be spent again

Another thing that needs to be said at this discussion is that due to the much shorter working week and the shorter days of the average worker today most people have much more leisure time than they have ever had before That is not to say that like a time vampire at that day the above fact people have more time a which to LIVE For many people having so much time on their hands they have made life much more complex than before Some man is by nature a selfish creature he simply becomes more confused as to what to do with his free time fewer most people are self seeking and more self seeking in every way of self destruction the matter of budgeting time [illegible] most [illegible]

How then do we budget time? First of all by having a purpose in mind for the use of our time In the light of the above paragraph then do we budget our time only for the use of ourself and our family? No! That is the way of self destruction If time we should devote to budget time of our time for the use of others do we plunge blindly into the service of the nearest service club or lodge or church organization? That would be equally foolish Let us look where there is the greatest need Let us also look where there is the greatest opportunity to make our time count for something as the vast reforms of things But let us know that He who gave us each time so also going to hold us to account for the use of it

LET US BUDGET OUR TIME

Like the thieves who rob the blind and the cripple, those who steal from the poor are the lowest class of criminal. There is no penalty of course too severe for the degenerate who stole from the Red Cross. The department announced this week that no less than four collectors have been fined for Fight Muscular Dyst; only were stolen from the pockets of these business establishments over the holiday.

Besides were stolen from Bryan's Store, the Curling Rink and two others pilfered at the Red Head Service and at the Corner Cafe Collections are undertaken by the local fire department every year on behalf of the crippled children through the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It is hoped that these responsible are civic dress themselves because it is a disservice that a grown person would do such a thing. The department only hopes that wherever the respo...sible ones are finally revealed the money so badly as the children who have been robbed will be refunded and could have used this same money for some little thing that would make their Christmas more cheerful.

A reward of money will be offered for the return of the money and the identity of those responsible. Truth Always Hurts

A policeman running for office was enraged at certain comments made about him at the local newspaper. He burst into the editorial room and exclaimed, "You printed that you were drunk last night, and in your paper and you know it

The editor looked at him calmly and coolly and replied, "I'm not the reporter for complaint—what do you think your wife would have been placed would be if we told the truth about you."

WEEKLY MEDITATION

(The Rest Door Advocate)

God Has Taken Revenge

Emperor Haile Selassie shows that the hand that has ruled Ethiopia for thirty years has as powerful a grip as ever He may well be the last of the long line of rulers who believe that the iron hand should never be concealed in a velvet glove

His people so learned him; it seems that they did not dare to raise their voice against him until he was thousands of miles away in Europe. Then they were free to seize the reins of government, for how else to put a stop to the evil that seemed

Within a few hours, one of the leaders of the short-lived, but bloody revolution had been shot and his body displayed in the principal square of Addis Ababa, the capital, as an example of any more considering such action in future A new way of life that has been too slow adapting to Twentieth Century conditions

How he has endured that for so long is attributed as leaders of the brief coup with connected Lieut Gen Mengistu Neway and a joint cousin of the Emperor and Chancellor of Exchequer Mr Makonnen Habte Wold like wild animals and their blood shed in many places. "God has taken revenge on these traitors to the throne," he said, "and he will take yet more revenge" The other five were hanged as leaders of the revolution have already been killed

There is no mercy in the vengeance with connected Lion of Judah He breaks no opposition, observes his enemies out of his way with gunshot and hangman's rope He is a ruler of a benevolent race, clinging to power with a strength unknown in more civilized countries. A taste of democracy would be a rare delicacy for Ethiopia

Unemployment Fund

(Lethbridge Herald)

Paid workers with steady jobs are the best contributors to the Unemployment Insurance Fund Were this not so the fund would be more depleted than it is in this time when jobs would be classified as steadily employed totaled 4,645,000, in 1960 the total was 4,681,000 and as of November 1960 the figure was 4,695,000.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has endeavored to take credit for the country being presently the largest number of persons employed in its history. This is giving credit for something which came about through little effort on the part of the government The growth in employment in Canada is just a part of the natural growth of the nation, which could be more accelerated further by the government. The Prime Minister can thank his lucky stars for the natural growth of employment that the Canadian economy produced and would be sensible than if he did. In 1950 the fund reached its highest point, 1,951,000,000. It reached its lowest point in July, 1956, 1,000,000,000. At present the fund is [illegible]

Foreign Gospel

One of the best means of carrying on the foreign work is through the sending out of missionaries from the home base. Stettler District has been privileged to have many missionaries from this district go out to the foreign fields. Some of these have been supported entirely by the district, others have been supported in part by the district. Some have been supported entirely by individuals or churches. Some have been supported by the Mission Board. Some have been supported by a combination of the above. Some have been supported by the Mission Board and the district. OBITUARY

ALCIDE ELSARD

Alcide Elsard was born on November 21, 1888 in Beauharnois, Quebec. On February 1, 1909 he married Miss Emily Wodbury and with the new Dominion Magazine was laid to rest on May 27, 1952. This union was blessed with nine children, three sons and six daughters, of which one died and two daughters predeceased their father.

In 1910 they immigrated to the United States of America and settled in North Dakota. The next year they moved to Saskatchewan, where they lived for a few years.

Subsequently with the late Mr. Alcide accepted Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour and throughout the remainder of his life he was unswerving dedicated to the Lord. He affiliated himself with the Congregational Church but sought to establish Pentecostal congregations in the communities in which he resided. In 1942 he and his wife joined the Evangelical Church and the next year assisted in the founding of the church.

After the passing of his beloved wife he lived alone for several years but because of the infirmities of age he moved to the home of his son, Albert Early in November he requested that he be permitted to take residence in the recently completed home for the Aged in Stettler In the latter part of November

FIRE DESTROYS CNE MANUFACTURERS' BUILDING

The 10-year-old Manufacturers building at the Canadian National Exhibition was destroyed in a spectacular $5,000,000 blaze. Firemen had to keep far their lives as walls collapsed and flames shot 300 feet into the air. A spokesman for the CNE said plans would be made immediately to replace the building and it was hoped a new building would be completed for the 1951 exhibition. Although the cause of the fire had not been determined during this issue.

Looking for Bargains?

Why not do your sleuthing in your own home town?

When you add up everything, such as sometimes road hazards, speed, parking and jostling crowds, and add the time lost in the "bargain" you get in the "big city," you'll probably find it wasn't such a good deal after all.

Think about it. Quality, style and values are pretty good right in our own town, and remember that your support of local business helps build a better town.

THE SURPLUS THAT BECAME A DEFICIT

Donalda Ladies Aid Financially "Adopt" Korean Girl

The members of the Ladies Aid of the Donalda United Church financially adopted a Korean girl at one of their meetings. The ladies will contribute $10 a month to help Jin Lum, a six year old Korean girl through Foster Parents Plan, Inc. P.O. Box 63, Station M, Montreal. The Foster Parents Plan has promised to contribute $10 a month toward the support of a needy child and a photograph of the child and a correspondence through the Plan office is translated both from Korean to English and from English to Korean. The exchange helps the gap between Foster Parent and child and gives the young one the feeling of security and love he needs.

The baby budget of Premier Manning made no calls on Alberta's financially strong economy. But tax reasons unchanged. The only income relief is to university students at bottom low. Instead of the $12 million surplus he forecast last March the finance minister showed he estimated to be a $205 million deficit.

Five More Counties Formed Jan. 1

Five municipal districts in Alberta became counties effective January 1 according to municipal affairs department officials.

The counties are Bonnyville, Lac La Biche, Sturgeon, Wheatland in the Strathmore area east of Calgary and Mountain View in the Olds-Didsbury region.

The counties have been established by provincial order-in-council. Under the system school districts boundry come to read and officials will be administered as zoned by county committees.

School districts boards in Smoky Lake and Lamoreux had objected to the move but the municipal councils passed resolutions supporting county status. The Alberta County Act states only one body is required to ask for establishment of a county.

The department also announced of the boards of Lakewood and Bellingham in the Cardston area will form a village status on January 1.

Salary Dispute Settled

The ATA and Stettler School Board have finally come to agreement on the 1960-61 teachers' salary schedule as both sides of the dispute have accepted the recommendations of the conciliator from the Board of Industrial Relations. As would be expected the conciliator has awarded some increases in the schedule which the board had held fast to since March, 1960 and which was identical to the schedule suggested by the Central Alberta Trustees Association. He thought that the maximum salary in the fourth year should be raised from $7,200 to $7,400 and that sick leave should be accumulative to 125 days instead of 100.

The new schedule is considerably below the one asked for by the A.T.A. for negotiation and it is considerably above the schedule agreed to by County of Stettler and the teachers.

The Stettler School Board and the ATA will now start negotiating the 1961-62 schedule. It means that it is a never ending game.

We hope that we have not left the impression that we are opposed to good salaries for teachers. We are very much in favor of good salaries for good teachers but we also believe that there are some in the teaching professions whose worth does not warrant annual increases in pay.

We noted somewhere recently that the average wage of teachers in Canada is slightly less than $4,000 per year. Not very much when you consider that dentists and lawyers annual average earnings are in excess of $10,000.

However mounting education costs are placing an unspeakable burden on property owners and sooner or later the government of Alberta will have to devise a new tax for education alone.

This Is A Local Campaign

It seems to be the fate of many important national campaigns that they tend to die out at the local level. This is unfortunate but in many cases not surprising. There are so many appeals for help these days that it is understandable that we pass some of them by. An appeal to help 50,000 people in some far off land has not the impact of an appeal to assist just a few persons right here in our own community.

It is this fact that makes the local aspect of the Red Cross Winter Emergency Campaign so important because although what you do may have some bearing on Canada's economy even more important still it is apt to have a direct effect on the livelihood of your friends down the street.

Governments at all levels, national organizations and businessmen all contribute to the success of the "Do It Now" campaign, but its ultimate success here in our community depends on you.

As a householder you can arrange to have all types of inside work, such as renovation, decoration, repairs, and other maintenance work around your home done during the winter months including tune up of lawnmowers and outboard motors, dry cleaning etc.

As a member of a service club, church or other community organization you can urge your group to schedule any construction repairs or decorating and any other type of work to the winter months.

These are some of the things that you can do to provide winter employment for men and women in our community and the newspaper believes that you find it it to your advantage to do them during the winter. Skilled tradesmen are available and you will get a better job done. And speaking of money Government backed Home and Farm Improvement loans, handled by our local banks, make it easy to do it "Now It Row" and pay later.

This is one campaign that should not "die out" at the local level. The benefits affect not someone miles away, but the citizens that make up our community.

This is a local campaign.

(By BILL SHELBY)

One of my Grade II students is intensely interested in unidentified flying objects, and visitors from outer space. I think he expects me to nod when he holds one up to it. On the contrary, I asserted him there was nothing supernatural about them, and mentioned one such visitor I'd had myself. He agreed the word, and, I think I know, all the kids in the class were clamoring to hear the story.

There was no choice but to read it to them, just as I had put it down two years ago. Some of you may remember it. In case you can't tangle with the Thanksgiving-eve issue of the Stettler Independent three and here out a considering column. So here it is:

It was about 10 p.m. My wife was out to a meeting. The kids were off to sleep. I was finished at a picture in the paper concluding evidence that the human race is descended from Mary Jayne Mansfield, symbolizing a dress cut to prove that the young lady's bust is indeed larger than her built, or whichever it's supposed to be. I must admit I was enjoying myself, in a disgusted sort of way.

Suddenly I had a creepy feeling that someone was reading over my shoulder. I whirled around and there he was. Next thing I knew, I was up on top of the mantel, quavering "Hoor you?"

It wasn't that he was a short sandy-red and four feet high that startled me. Nor that he was a peculiar green all over. Nor that he had only one eye, and that of drop purple, set right at the end of his short, square nose.

What really shook me, and continued to alarm me throughout the ensuing exchange, was that he had something that slightly resembled a stalk of celery growing out of his navel, and that every few minutes he'd snap off a piece, sprinkle some salt on it, and, shoving it into his mouth, stretch was, of course, located in his left armpit, crunch happily on it.

Then he spoke. At least, I'm not sure whether he spoke like many have used some type of mental telepathy or thought transference. At any rate, we carried on a conversation.

"Don't be alarmed," he mentioned. "You told me a lot about your settlement, and you're about to engage in they terms." Groans about that, I'm afraid, but I was trying to get some sarcasm into my shaky reminder. "Thanks very much, I'm sure."

"They returned," he went on, relative indifferently, completely of another planet, obviously, "I'll be there was my point in taking over this third-rate planet, so instead, trying to do something about it," he notices. For as I'm concerned, you're not worth the trouble we'd have with you. I'm not the editor of the investigating committee." Crunch, crunch.

"Hey, wait a minute!" I protested, albeit feebly. "We're not so bad as all that. We may have our little faults, but after all, we're all human and . . ." But I stopped talking and shook in my boots when he eyes eye turned red and angry-looking.

"Human, eh?" he snorted "Oh, you're a queer lot, you humans. You preach brotherly love and every 20 or 30 years you murder each other by millions. You boast of human kindness, but you hold your grain for the right price while millions of humans starve. Your best brains are totally engrossed in making two things—more horrible weapons and more money. Your churches are monuments to a lost cause. Your women are scantily dressed. Your welfare is poisoning liquor, nicotine, coffee. Your heroes are professional actresses and third-hooded athletes."

I guess he was getting pretty worked up, because just then the top flew off his bottle, painted bright red and decorated and I must have fainted in terror because my wife found me on the floor in front of the fireplace in a deep swoon. When I tried to tell her about it, she went straight to the kitchen and checked the contents of the medicinal bottle of brandy. There wasn't a drop out of it, so she said it must have been the venison pie and the cream cheese crust that I'd made for dinner.

But I knew better. I stopped trying to know why I had let the kids drop celery all over the living room.

WEEKLY MEDITATION

(Rev. A. L. A. McCurdy)

WHAT IS PRAYER?

Harry Emerson Fosdick in his little book, The Meaning of Prayer writes: Bishop Johnson once asked what is the straightest argument for prayer was ever replied. So the best argument for prayer is to get out and try it. Let us say it is not by reason, but by experimentation. We must stress the fact that prayer is not a theory, a matter of opinion. It is a living fact. Let us not be afraid to say that prayer is not a theory, a matter of opinion. It is a living fact. Let us not be afraid to say that prayer is not a theory, a matter of opinion. It is a living fact. Let us not be afraid to say that prayer is not a theory, a matter of opinion.

Granted this is true it is also true that when prayer is grounded on a sound structure of Christian belief it becomes magic or wishful thinking. There is a way of knowing how many people are given up the practice of prayer because it seemed to them hocum but the main fact must be very large. There is no possibility of prayer unless it can be sensible sense.

Prayer is not just a repetition of words such as repeatedly saying the Lord's prayer Jesus tells us that we shall not be heard for much speaking. A well known definition of prayer is found in the words of a familiar hymn

Prayer is not just a supposition of words
Uttered or supposed

This is true as long as the soul's desire is about the right things. A man might very well have a sincere desire for another man's job or for another man's wife. This soul desire could not be regarded as Christian prayer One of the best definitions of prayer is written in the old Westminster Shorter Catechism Prayer is an offering up of our desires unto God, for things agreeable to his will, in the name of Christ, with confession of our sins, and thankful acknowledgement of His mercies.

This puts the attention of prayer where it belongs—on God. Prayer is not man's attempt to take God do man's will but man's attempt to get in the part of man to do God's will. George Harrison in his excellent book Prayer and the Common Life writes:

Prayer is not a vague general interest in goodness or in practice and from the beginning that only God knows as God's gift become part of our own life. . . . Instead of the soul's being dragged God with the desire that all experiences may be interpreted or adjusted to us as God would have them.

The more Christ-like our belief or whole prayer is grounded on a sound structure of Christian belief it becomes magic or wishful thinking. There is a way of knowing how many people are given up the practice of prayer because it seemed to them hocum but the main fact must be very large. There is no possibility of prayer unless it can be sensible sense.

Prayer is not just a repetition of words such as repeatedly saying the Lord's prayer Jesus tells us that we shall not be heard for much speaking. A well known definition of prayer is found in the words of a familiar hymn

Prayer is not just a supposition of words
Uttered or supposed

Whether shall I go from thy Spirit
Or whither shall I flee from thy presence?
If I ascend to heaven thou art there
If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there
If I take the wings of the morning
And dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea
Even there my hand shall lead me
And thy right hand shall hold me.
(Psalm 139:7 - 10)

In opening our hands souls and hearts to receive the spirit of God prayer then becomes the means of directing the inner life of the spirit—in order that our will may become one with God's will. This is the secret of Jesus life of perfect trust and obedience. His was a life directed through prayer and He becomes our supreme example of the naturalness of prayer and of its power. He "by will be done" illustrates that its highest characteristic is that it is centered on God

Have You Considered ?

By S P Penmore

Join into my lodge or club or church. Have been again my interests would probably be served. Don't want to call big his good or mine? Do I want to get him into my normal set for his sake, or mine? Or do I have a more noble motive? Do I want to help him for his own sake or do I want to make myself or my club, lodge or church? In other words are my motives selfish or unselfish?

Or perhaps he is a potential. I am on committee or convener of my club. Perhaps he is a little shaver. Do I want to invite him for business reasons? Do I want to offer him the right hand of brotherhood for his own sake? What is the kind of person he might be like? Is it careful in this consideration lest my reasons be hurt by an unfortunate choice of friends? Or am I willing to take a risk? Assuming only that what I do is right in all prayer and good? How would I feel about this if we were to change places?

Perhaps we need simplify the matter more by agreeing that all motives could be roughly grouped into two categories, selfish and unselfish. Then we could go over and examine our motives with a clear mind and with honesty of purpose. We might then get back to hob real sense and say "Yes, I think I'll invite him to lodge" for this is the real sense with regard to motives to human relations. It doesn't really make much difference whether we are talking about business ethics or such as moral values of Christian ethics or any other realm of human endeavor. In this month we are working on you and I are in this world, we are going to be faced with this problem.

This is not to say that we can only think about others with regard to our motives with people other than ourselves. For we also have a responsibility with regard to our own person, body and mind and soul. For they are with us as a trust as long as we are in this world and we are going to be held responsible for the way we have handled other than cared for them like more. Even if we were a Robinson Crusoe without a man Friday we would still have to examine our motives. Our bodies will perish our bodies will live on and perhaps values will be denied to the rich reality into what we will enter BUT WE CAN'T GET AWAY FROM THE IMPORTANCE OF MOTIVE

OF MANY THINGS

Some Goals For '61

There are several goals which Canada must aim for during 1961 if we are to maintain prosperity.

One of the most important is the [illegible] consumer spending. Consumer spending accounted for by exports, whenever the USA depends on export for only one-twentieth of it GNP.

We have a small domestic market to begin with On top of that headmugs we have loaded ourselves with expensive government in [illegible] Then costs find there way into the prices of our exported goods and we have priced ourselves out of high buyers Do not wish to pay for our social services and our power projects.

Another roadblock to exports and even selling in our own domestic market is the high cost of Canadian labor The high wages paid to those who are working are actually making it less likely that others can be employed Canadian labor in its own self-interest should wish to see productivity increase to the point where power can be lowered so that our products and services can be sold in competition with those of other countries now underselling us.

Another goal we must aim for is a balanced budget. So far as good, but what is needed is a massive reduction in all tax rates, and [illegible]

Canada's economic situation is much sounder than some of the gloomy economists would have us believe. The present government it must be acknowledged, inherited a great number of problems. The world situation is serious. Competition is stiffer than it has been for a long time. The days of easy money and of poor or consumer everything we produce are gone. Regardless of price the consumer now costs, increase productivity, and generally act like a team that believes it is playing in a tougher league.

A Crowded Globe

(By R. L. Street, in The Christian Science Monitor)

Back in the Stone Age the earth had some 10 million people. At the time of Jesus it is estimated there were 200-300 million. At the beginning of the present era (1850) the figure was 800 million. Today it is 2 000 million And at the rate population is now expanding (1.6 per cent a year, according to Frederick Osborn in a newly published Public Affairs pamphlet The Crowded World) the world population will be in mid-year AD 2000— A crowded globe with 6,300 million hanging on to it

What happens after AD 2000 is a little obscure Maybe somebody will put up the SAC) standing room only sign. If global growth still barrels ahead the technical problems of feeding food and even conditions at the start of the new millennium will as Mr Osborn puts it at some point threaten insurmountable. This is the climate for aggression and war

. . . .

Let's bring it closer home. Population in the United States is increasing by three million a year Longevity is gradually increasing There are 180 million people now and although city suburbs are astonishing compared to other lands, Americans are not at all crowded But how will they feel when there are 250 million people 300 million — 600 million? Mr. Osborn figures one billion at the present expansion rate in "four or five generations"

However that's a long way off — at least as the average individual sees it today Today there are only about 50 persons per square mile in Canada as against about 250 in Europe Canada's population is the lowest in the world. And the United States has strong views on birth control Its rate of increase is 2 per cent which means that 36 million Mexicans will be 120 million in 50 years Beyond only in Mexico currently are Caribbean and Central American countries Present Combined populations of 60 million there are projected as 200 million by AD 2000 It is not taking sides on the controversy to point out how real the issue is in Puerto Rico already where Roman Catholic authorities have clashed with the Government and political party over subjects that include birth control.

The Gideons To Present Bible to Grade Five Pupil

The Gideons International of Canada celebrate their 50th Anniversary this year (1961). To commemorate this important milestone each camp of local Gideons is presenting a beautiful gold-covered New Testament to a carefully selected grade V pupil in every one of the 162 areas throughout Canada.

The Stettler Camp of Gideons will make the presentation of an New Testament to a specially selected pupil during the Religious Education Week in February. The representatives of the Gideons will be in the various classrooms of the Stettler Schools during Religious Education Week and will select the pupil to receive the Gideon's gift.

Communities between 5,000 and 10,000 population have organized camps of Gideons and have started to distribute Bibles to grade five pupils. There are now 127 members of the Stettler Lodge. Similarly organized units in New Zealand and India have each 125 members and other 70 groups.

The non-profit work depends entirely upon donations. They call on no funds from the public. They ask no help to cover the cost of operation of the Gideons. Camps of many are supported by individuals, churches, service clubs and other groups.

The Bibles are purchased at cost. Each camp is responsible for its own budget of the gift. Canada has about 6,276,000 homes. Each camp is responsible for distributing the number of Bibles to the homes in its area. Stettler has a population of 3,000 and 1,000 homes. Each home is visited by a Gideon and a Bible presented to the pupil.

The continuing work of this organization is best summed up in the words of the General Secretary. Wherever there are people, we are seeking to make the Scriptures available

BASKETBALL
In Central Alberta League play the Benvee High girls extended their undefeated record by downing Ponoka 44 - 10. Top point scorers were Kathleen Carlitz 8, Heske Stabs 8, Gerald Falkenberg and Margo McKinney with 6 points each.

The Ponoka boys with Henry Smith back in action proved too much for the Stettler squad by winning the second game 62-27. Norm Denton and Dale Peters led the local attack with 9 points each while Jim Costigan played a strong game on defence.

The same teams will be travelling to Bentley on Friday evening for a league double header.

In fact, with a Fiat 600, everything goes a long way! Money, for instance (buys a great car, plus loads of extras as standard equipment). A gallon of gas goes a long way (50 miles or more). Parts go a long way (practically never wear out). Passengers can go a long way, too, (in four-seat, foam rubber comfort). Public Defenders Could Supply "Teeth" For Bill of Rights

Their job is to receive complaints from citizens about their treatment by government officials investigate these complaints and seek remedies wherever they find the complaints justified

Ombudsman of Rights

As watchdogs of citizens' rights these parliamentary appointees could prevent or rectify some amount of actual cases of illegal incarceration, government confiscation of property and other forms of injustice and high handedness, Rowat says.

He cites two famous Canadian incidents which he says might have been prevented by national or provincial officers functioning as Ombudsmen: the placing of B.C. Doukhobor children in "educational concentration camps" because their parents had refused to send them to regular schools, and the locking up of a white young man named Robert Sauve in a Montreal madhouse for three years.

Concerning Questions About Commercial Canned Foods:

1 Is it safe to have food in the open can?

Answer: Yes. A reformer of the United States Department of Agriculture states the facts in this manner: [illegible] It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can it comes in – if the can is cool and covered so that no rust can get in. It is better to remove the food from the can before it is opened or at least before the remainder of the food goes into the refrigerator – or of the perishable food behavior. The question keeps coming to the Bureau of Home Economics in letters from home makers.

A few of foods may discolor a little iron from the can but it is not harmful and dangerous to health. Cans and foods are stored – in the processing but the dish into which the food might be emptied a far from safe. In other words it is like it to have as it happens that canned food to spoil.

Whether – the original can or another container the principal precautions for keeping food are:

Keep it cool and keep it covered.

2 Why then do the labels or some brands of canned foods recommend that the can be emptied immediately.

Answer: Some canners believe that [illegible] – less attractive appearance, etc. – especially if transferred to a dish. Practically all canners have no reason [illegible] – [illegible] – [illegible] –

A MacDuff Ottawa Report
The Bearded Traders

OTTAWA—

Fidel Castro's much publicized trade mission to Canada has long since left our shores but the people [illegible] Fidel's crushed Legion of [illegible] wishful has a subtle attitude [illegible] Canadians on that of [illegible] trade with Cuba. The action [illegible] of those who would have [illegible] follow the lead of the U. [illegible] and slap an embargo on [illegible] trade with Castro's Communist [illegible] to that of those [illegible] would lead that [illegible] the American eagle.

There are valid reasons for [illegible] wishful thinking such [illegible] economic pressure [illegible] Castro. The decision was not [illegible] glib; it was a deliberate [illegible] based [illegible] on [illegible] government considers [illegible] would cost Canadians [illegible] export [illegible]

And Americans [illegible] on all the main [illegible] of Canada [illegible] politicians down through the years and since [illegible] Minister Diefenbaker has been [illegible] on a strict [illegible] of anti-U.S. feeling, much of it motivated by his ultra-nationalistic speeches.

The anti-American [illegible] played a [illegible] in the decision [illegible] But of more import was the government's [illegible] belief that there is an obligation on Canada to maintain trade with a friendly nation. And Cuba in terms of international diplomacy is a friendly nation. External Affairs Minister Richard Green, after hearing from our [illegible] posts at Latin America put the blanket on the decision when he reported that most of the Central and South American politicians were in sympathy with Castro on general terms.

The U.S. clamped on the embargo because Castro undertook arbitrary illegal and [illegible] measures against U.S. citizens and U.S. interests in Cuba. The reasons comprise a valid excuse for such an embargo. As Mr. Diefenbaker has patiently explained, "Canada could not justify an embargo or measure similar to those taken in the U.S. on this basis."

Why then all the fuss? First, because Canada is in a unique position in this dispute. The U.S. embargo covers all the spare parts and machines that Cuba's have been buying from the U.S. over the years. The only other source for them is in Canada. European and Communist bloc manufacturers don't make spare parts for U.S. automobiles and U.S. machinery. Canada is the Cuban's only hope.

The U.S. embargo can only be made effective with all-out Canadian support. And Canada has not been willing to prove de that support.

Even on that basis the Government could have expected Canadians to agree with its decision.

The Cubans sent a half-fledged trade mission to Ottawa, and it was then the controversy started. Trade Minister, George Hees, his political star rising rapidly, made his first major political error.

Instead of merely extending the usual courtesies to the Cubans, and letting them go on their merry way, Mr. Hees got a little excited. He praised the Cubans to the heavens, and said, "you wouldn't do business with better businessmen any where." Government officials talked optimistically of picking up $100,000,000 a year in Cuban trade that had been cut off by the U.S. There was a general atmosphere of gloating, and of boastful sneering at the U.S. That was the mistake, and a big mistake it was, got to be. Hall to Cuban Ministers [illegible] running afoul [illegible] against the United decision [illegible] building up to [illegible] anti-Americanism, and more and more Canadians are suddenly [illegible] to the real issues that the U.S. is not our best friend and [illegible] a troubled world.

A second and [illegible] has [illegible] Canadians [illegible] to [illegible] Cuba. Those [illegible] are [illegible] Communist [illegible] to [illegible] Castro [illegible] Communism [illegible] and [illegible] Cuba has been [illegible]

It's [illegible] to appeal to [illegible] Cubans don't have the money with which to purchase Canada's goods. Their trade [illegible] was [illegible] propaganda [illegible] designed to drive a deeper wedge between Canada and the U.S. And to a degree it worked.

Mr. Hees has already been slapped down for his role in the affair. He was to appear on a television show on the topic and at the last minute was ordered to [illegible] by Acting Prime Minister Howard Green. Government spokesmen are [illegible] up and for some days now there has been no further talk of increasing trade with Cuba at the expense of the U.S.

Some people in Ottawa believe the Cuban trade issue could prove to be something of a watershed a U.S.-Canadian re-

The graph of family life may have its ups and downs—its happy highs and occasional lows. This is the unpredictable nature of life. But the graph of family financial security, plotted wisely, need never show such an uncertain pattern. For family security can be guaranteed through Life Insurance. As so many men have found, wise investment in Life Insurance, more than any other investment, does safeguard their family's future welfare and [illegible]

To families who made this investment, Manufacturers Life paid out, in 1960, over [illegible] million.

These were important dollars for they were received when needed most, at a time when income ceased through death or retirement.

Each year, more and more men and women look to the Manufacturers Life for this financial security. If you, too, want guaranteed financial security for yourself and your family, why not call the Man from Manufacturers today.

WEDDING

WOOD — HUSEY

A very colorful wedding took place in the Bashaw United Church on Saturday, December 17, when Miss Doreen Beatrice Husey became the bride of Mr. Ronald Wood. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Husey of Bashaw. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wood of Bashaw. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hall. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Joyce Husey, as bridesmaid. Miss Husey wore a floor length gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of red carnations. The groom's cousin, Mr. Ken Wood, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Ronald Husey and Mr. Ken Husey. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Bashaw Community Hall. The bride's table was centered by a three-tier wedding cake and was decorated with red and white streamers. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Ken Husey and Miss Joyce Husey. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Husey chose a navy and white ensemble and corsage of red carnations. Mrs. Wood wore a navy and white dress with red accessories and corsage of red carnations. For their honeymoon trip to Banff and Jasper the bride wore a navy blue wool dress with white accessories. The couple will reside in Bashaw.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING MEMORIAL HALL MONDAY

Home & School Association Rally Held At Big Valley

On Tuesday January 30th a rally organized by the East Central Council of Home and School Associations was addressed by Mr Albridge of the Department of Education Edmonton. Mr Albridge is head of the Guidance branch of the Department and Big Valley acted as host so visitors from the other seven Home and School Associations in the Council. The total number attending was over hundred and twenty five.

The first part of the evening consisted of a variety of musical entertainment Stettler Young People's Choir directed by Mr Dan of Hughenden led the singing of 15 Can-do and the 3 song three pieces Faith of our Fathers. The Battle Hymn of the Republic and Save the Day is Over Mrs Mae McCurdy department

After the regular accompanist Mrs Stitt it was regretted that due to illness neither Mrs Stitt nor Mrs Pender of Stettler could take their scheduled part in the programme Mr Terry Wilson of Stettler played a medley of saxophone pieces and Mr Dan Lawson, organist with Donalda Kleinplatz board was the nerve inspirer.

The Rev Dave Dorbay of Dan ... suggested three features of worth which could be derived from local Home and School meetings. Since it is the only social outlet for many parents with young children it should be an atmosphere stimulating and fresh Conversely this brightness is created by the members themselves as they contribute from a background of knowledge great ... expanded by television and ... magazine reading Local Home and School with its concern for family life and community life operates on a basis wider than any one particular denomination of the Church so instead of local politics the membership is made up of every person in the community

Following the remarks by the President of the Council Mr Mac McCurdy of Stettler and two songs a Scottish number and My Little grey Home in the West

Mr Galen Norris MLA from Erskine introduced the speaker Mr Albridge was asking the place of the Honorable Mr Aberhart whose plate had been changed at the last minute thus preventing his attendance

In developing the theme "Future prospects in Education and Home and School" Mr Albridge began by demonstrating how increasingly hard it had become in the past ten years for unskilled people to secure continuous employment It was natural, he said, that this trend would continue, and that being so, the percentage of the population that ... should be reduced by every succeeding year

Since it is becoming more and more a matter of consumer responsibility to have higher competence in every level of employment, the Government, through the Department of Education is bending its resources and non-repayable grants for the use of any resident of the Province who has acquired the requisite educational round

A MacDUFF OWATTA REPORT

The Doubtful Draft

Ottawa—Saskatchewan's Tommy Douglas is one of the outstanding politicians in Canada today

He has had an eminently successful political career as the Premier of Saskatchewan and as the legislature at six Premiers he is respected and admired

And many people here in Ottawa believe he may be about to make his first major political mistake

Mr Douglas has clearly indicated he will not support a draft Douglas movement at the founding convention of the New Party scheduled for July 31-August 4 in Ottawa Cow Palace the Coliseum He is obviously reluctant to leave the security of Saskatchewan politics but just as obviously can't resist the temptations of Federal politics

There will of course be a draft Douglas movement The three men most responsible for bringing about the merger of the CCF Party and the Canadian Labour Congress Stanley Knowles David Lewis and Claude Jodoin have been plumping for Douglas for months with good reason He is a name politician head and he Canadian from coast to coast His speaking style has a resounding ring of statesmanship about it and he has a reputation for integrity and sincerity

Douglas a Factor

There is something else that will work against Mr Douglas in conversations with several Party members he has realized that his health is not all it should be In the rough and tumble business of a Federal campaign the track full by the tragedy and a man who is not in perfect health is not an asset to his country in an important political office

A third factor Mr Douglas is branded as a man from the prairie-farming West in the vital provinces of Ontario and Quebec where most Ministers are looked upon as grasping vultures who get down on their knees to beg for Federal subsidies Nevertheless they climb into their new cars for a holiday in Florida All the agrarian-reform parties that have sprung up in the West have battered themselves to death trying to storm the ramparts of Parliament Hill

Mr Douglas knows all this So do the New Party promoters who are pushing him into running In doing so they are exposing the biggest weakness of the New Party It just doesn't have leadership material

CCF leader Hazen Argue is going to make a fight out of the New Party leadership He is strong, and he's ambitious But he must know he has no hope of unearthing something that of of stature and here again he is being a man identified as a mixed farmer, a Western radical

However Hazen Argue would

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULES

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has taken to carrying a plain-clothes RCMP officer along with him on trips out of the country The RCMP got worried after watching TV clips of the PM pushing through crowds at the United Nations and felt They suggested it might be wise to have one man along just in case

Very backbenchers have a new diversion telling jokes about Mr Diefenbaker One of the toughest has been in delegation where he took his holiday being introduced as a native The native is unfamiliar with the name and asks "Diefenbaker" I've heard that name before Wasn't you born on a log cabin" The pleasantry knew the PM replying "No, that was Lincoln I was born in a manger"

Good Seed Pays

Some farmers who bring their seed to be cleaned at a seed cleaning plant may wonder at times if it necessary to take a high cost and a more vigorous crop. Experiments at the Lacombe experimental Farm with cereals of commercial plants from large seeds showed more and more vigorously than small plants from small seeds.

When a seed sample is screened and graded to a high standard of uniformity the advantage taken out can be taken note and fed. It is thereby saved and is useful whereas if it was seeded with the good seed the results would not have been as if only the smaller portion of good seed had been seeded

Ratepayers' Meeting

Attendance at recent annual meetings of Town of Stettler and Stettler School District has not been so bad although there is a great deal of room for improvement. This year's meeting will be held Monday night and it is to be hoped that the ratepayers come out in good numbers to discuss the 1952 estimates of their schools and town and to plan for the future.

We know of no contentious issues to attract great attendance but much there are items in the financial statements that could be usefully explained and the town's proposed expenditure of $150,000 on water supply extensions [illegible]

In common with all Alberta municipalities, there is general concern over high property taxes which are likely to advance in Stettler again this year in light of the 1952 deficit of $29,627 and new debt charges.

At this time in the history of Stettler the council and the school board would probably like some direction from the people it is striving to well to serve. They deserve this much courtesy.

The meeting will be held in Memorial Hall at 8:00 If you are a ratepayer it is your privilege to attend

Time For Eyesore To Go

A few of us have a sentimental attachment for old Log Hall, but in the cold, [illegible] we all [illegible] it stands in [illegible] as an eyesore to [illegible] and a [illegible] to [illegible] purpose it fought in [illegible] for a few months more. The council's age that will [illegible] much [illegible] when them, behind because they have not enough [illegible] to [illegible] it.

Most success stories in business and industry have one theme in common education. Those have the better chance you have of securing permanent employment in supervisory positions [illegible] dismantled While the ratepayers may not be ready to replace it with a modern [illegible] building, a practical path is [illegible] it would be more pleasing than the unsightly pile of [illegible] has.

More Education Needed

[illegible] What more can we praise for having our country free from the threat of gambling our [illegible] a gambling palace built out in the sea to the school of life. They feed their only reason for living in the thrill of speed or of any or of thrown's items feed the chief reason for living in large cash amounts or large cars or large speculative positions of prestige and the like Others look to gossip as the spice of life

On the other hand there are much more worthy reasons for living Let's go again into a crippled childrens hospital Let's watch while a therapeutic nurse works patiently and lovingly with a crippled child week in and week out trying to get the child to take that first step with the crutches and the braces Let's watch the beauty and compassion in her face as she faithfully carves out her duties not so much for her pay cheque as for the love of the child which is in her care She has a reason for living which is not at all selfish egotistic or ingrown

The point is really that a true and abiding reason for living cannot be found in one's self but must be sought outside of self and the opposites of self Perhaps the greatest thing of all, is to finding a task in life in which a real need can be met on the behalf of others There are many busy people in the world who are doing work which is in the order of unessential busyness For such people it is not easy for they are not really needed they fill no essential position WHAT IS YOUR REASON FOR LIVING

(By BILL SMILEY)

If there is one thing above all others that I loathe disagree detest and abhor it is household finance but this is wrong I know it as a weakness I know my lunch manager will winner when he reads that but I can't help it. I would rather read in a person her paupers than how anything to do with a budget

There is a reason for my strong feelings toward these harmless household bonnas Periodically my wife insists that we draw up a budget It happens about twice a year and around our house it always produces strained relations mounting tension and a rousing fight. in that order

During the year, I have a rough idea of where our dough financially And I keep it deliberately as rough as possible It doesn't take the sound of a magnate to figure out that five from four doesn't produce a plus sign All right, so I'm an amigist I have my head in the sand. And if there isn't any sand around, a bunker will do

I know the mortgage won't pad lost your the taxes are overdue we've had fivebills in a row from the dentist, and I've missed the discount on the hydro bill, which has been in my hip pocket for three weeks But then I really bother me too much It's when my wife gets on one of her financial-genius kicks that life becomes pretty ghastly around our place She invariably does it when she's in one of those early mornin in which she won't even take yes for no answer

She had one of those attacks this week They often come in midwinter when my resistance is low anyway She sits down with pencils and produces lots of paper and a pencil Then she compiles fantastic lists of stuff everything from bows to bullet paper, from oil to oranges puts a price on everything and adds it all up

The tales about two hours during which we discover how little insurance I have that I don't know how much the taxes are that I can't remember whether or not I've paid the interest on the mortgage and such like

Perhaps that's why I dread these sessions so much With a few strokes of the pencil I am transformed instead of the man I hadn't mention of the family the only one with both feet on the ground the rock on which the cruel waves of life are shattered. It's somewhat humbling

In common with all Alberta municipalities, there is general concern over high property taxes which are likely to advance in Stettler again this year in light of the 1952 deficit of $29,627 and new debt charges.

At this time in the history of Stettler the council and the school board would probably like some direction from the people it is striving to well to serve. They deserve this much courtesy.

The meeting will be held in Memorial Hall at 8:00 If you are a ratepayer it is your privilege to attend

Don't ask me how all this comes about in the mere drafting of a budget It's uncanny My wife sits there aswirl deepening as the evidence mounts. I squarm loose in my chair while trying to look keen interested and dedicated to balancing the time Every time she thinks of a new item for the "expenditures column she lights up like a pinball machine When she comes to the refreshment and tobacco departments, her eyes glitter like those of a snake about to hypnotize a hypnotized rabbit

After this week's ordeal she announced triumphantly that we were going in the red at the rate of $56 a month That seemed to make her feel better It made me feel a lot better too From the way she'd been acting, I figured they were about ready to send me off to a place for retarded children.

Then she went into the next part of the ritual which never varies Where were we going to cut down? I always suggest paring the food bill "Those kids would be a lot better off if they ate more porridge and chewy healthy stuff like that I always say. This recently leads to an outburst in which she claims that I have just accused her of being an extravagant and wasteful cook. This puts me on the defensive

And that's exactly where she wants me Now the pencil stabs the paper relentlessly and comes the inevitable question "Do you realize how much you spend on cigarettes!" And it turns out, as it always does, that if I stopped smoking, and gave up my predinner bottle of ale, the budget would balance and there would shine every day and my family would love respect and obey me So I promise to do it

Next day the Old Lady feels as good about having balanced the budget and reformed me that she buys a new dress So I reckon that if she can afford a new dress things aren't so tough, and I slip downtown and pick up a large deck of weeds and a small box of lawn And we're off for another happy budget-less six months

Red Ensign Good Enough

By Tom Gould

OTTAWA At last count there were something over 2,000 distinctive designs for a Canadian flag on file in various offices in Ottawa.

There are flags with standing beaks emblazoned on a gold and flags with Niagara Falls painted in one corner, checkered flags, maple leaf flags, beaver flags, flags with moose flags with deer, animal heads, vertical lines and diagonal ones. There are flags with stars, stripes and circles.

Well, intentioned Canadians have their particular flag printed on the backs of their shirts and sent off thousands of copies. Then there are committees busy writing and adding to the basis of Parliament.

Nothing seems to stir actively in the letters to the editor as much as one newspapers gets as much as a controversy over a Canadian flag.

Now a standing flag as most arousing interest is Canadian flag. The reason seems to be any thing arouses it and the batting here is that no one will.

And if they do shame on them.

Canada doesn't need a flag more distinctive than the grand old Red Ensign the Red Duster. But flies over all federal government offices that is viewed all over the world when a Canadian or a group of Canadians is being honored.

Every other nation knows the Red Ensign is our flag and it's about time we realized it.

It would have been different had we adopted a new flag at the time Canada was granted independence. But no suddenly such a flag one at a time when we are approaching our 100th anniversary smacks of immaturity.

A flag after all is meaningless unless it stands for something.

It doesn't take official recognition in the form of federal legislation to make the Red Ensign our flag. It's every bit as our flag. The events of years past have made it the Canadian flag.

A new gimmicky flag would not be a symbol of wealth, patriotism, but rather a symbol of the worst possible form of nationalism as though we needed to declare to the world after almost a century that we are an independent nation and have a distinctive flag to prove it.

The outburst was provoked by still another assertive private member's resolution in the House of Commons on the flag issue. This one called for a national referendum on the silent natives should we have the Red Ensign or a flag bearing a green maple leaf on a red and white field.

As usual MPs talked for hours so long in fact that there was no time left for a vote. No one was surprised it happens all the time. Everyone is in favor of a flag in the Commons but no one is willing to let the matter come to a vote.

If nothing else the debate was amusing.

The sponsor of the resolution Tory Laurier Regnier of St Boniface said that every time he sees the Red Ensign. I feel a deep humiliation because the piece of bunter belongs not to Canada but to another country. It shows Canada is subservient to another land.

Subservient to another land! If a member of Parliament does not realize the facts of Canadian independence what hope is left? The citizens of St Boniface are

New Federal Building Planned For Lacombe

1960 RESULTS OF COMINCO DEMONSTRATION FARMS ARE ANNOUNCED

During the past season, five Alberta farmers worked closely with Cominco Supervisors in carrying out field scale demonstration work with Elephant Brand fertilizers. The results of this demonstration work using recommended application rates on cereal, grassland and flax crops are summarized on this page.

CLYDE DEMONSTRATION FARM No. 1

Hugh Clyde

Six Barley on stubble land was fertilized with 30 lbs. of nitrogen and 15-30-0 per acre. The application here at Clyde yielded 41 bushels per acre over the unfertilized check area, resulting in a net profit of $8.11 more per acre after deducting the cost of fertilizer.

On the same farm a new established brome field was fertilized with 30 lbs. of nitrogen and 15 lbs. of phosphate per acre. Brand 27-14-0 was used. The yield increase resulted from 27 bushels per acre to 39.6 bushels per acre. Yield increase was 12.6 bushels per acre. The value of the extra 12.6 bushels was calculated at $1.00 per bushel. The cost of the fertilizer was $7.50 per acre.

E. H. Dawson

An old pasture of brome was fertilized with Elephant Brand 27-14-0 at the rate of 200 lbs. per acre. The application increased the yield by 1 ton. Visitors to the Vermilion Experimental Farm during the 1960 season were impressed with the heavy growth of this fertilized pasture.

Yield of a brome hay field fertilized with 150 lbs. of Elephant Brand 27-14-0 per acre was 2.5 tons per acre. This was increased by 0.5 tons per acre giving an extra return of $11.25 after accounting for the $5.63 cost of the fertilizer.

Grain seeded on second crop stubble gave an increased return of $6.75 per acre after paying for a fertilizer application of 120 lbs. of Elephant Brand 27-14-0 per acre. In this demonstration the field was raised from 27.7 bushels to 32.6 bushels per acre an increase of 20% bushels.

Rod Tull

At this demonstration farm spring grain on stubble land fertilized from an application of 30 lbs. of Nitrogen 0-0 15-30-0. The $1.87 per acre return on fertilizer returned grain worth $10.80, a higher profit of $8.93 per acre.

Also on this farm the yield from a brome pasture old brome field was raised from 1.5 tons to 2.5 tons per acre. The increased yield due to fertilizer was valued at $5.00, resulting in a profit of $3.25 per acre after deducting cost of fertilizer.

On this farm the fertilizing of barley grown on stubble land gave an increased return of $10.25 per acre. The treatment consisted of 30 lbs. of Elephant Brand 3-Nitrogen prior to seeding and 50 lbs. of Elephant Brand 11-44-0 at seeding time. Yield increase was from 28.5 to 36 bushels per acre. The value of the extra 10.5 bushels was calculated at $1.00 per bushel. The cost of the fertilizer was $7.63.

Application of 50 lbs. of Elephant Brand 27-14-0 per acre to an alkali-to-one soil area increased the yield by 3 tons. Visitors to the Bureau of Soils Alkali Area during the 1960 season were impressed with the heavy growth of this fertilized crop.

VULCAN DEMONSTRATION FARMS No. 5

R. G. "Pat" Walker

Despite damage due to hail Barley was fertilized with 30 lbs of Elephant Brand 18-20-0 per acre. Yield of 24 bushels per acre was fertilized. Yield was increased from 11.9 bushels to 14.6 bushels giving an extra grain due to fertilizer of 24.60 per acre after deducting the cost of fertilizer.

A three year old brome grass alfalfa mixture given fertilizer was fertilized with 15 lbs of Elephant Brand 27-14-0. The hay was cut from the fertilized acreage was 1.1 tons compared to 4 tons from the check strip. The increased yield due to fertilizer was valued at $14.00, resulting in a profit of $9.25 per acre after deducting cost of the fertilizer used.

ELEPHANT BRAND FERTILIZER PAID FOR THIS TRACTOR

This is how we illustrate a basic principle — It doesn't cost it pays to use fertilizer. Fertilizer can provide the money for those many things you need to make the job easier or your family living better.

You make more money in two different ways when you fertilize with Elephant Brand. You grow better grade crops which sell for higher prices; you get greater profit from each bushel because it has cost you less to produce each bushel.

GROWING WHEAT?

You can make extra profits of $9.75 per acre and even more by fertilizing your wheat crop.

Here is an example of how fertilizer increases profit from wheat.

Increased yield per acre with ELEPHANT BRAND	10 bus.
Value of increase (Wheat valued at $1.25 per bushel)	$12.50
Approximate cost of fertilizer (50 lbs. per acre of 11-48-0 on summerfallow)	$ 2.75
EXTRA PROFIT PER ACRE	$ 9.75

*Based on results when properly formulated and place exactly probable return.

Nature And Farming

Within a farmer takes up the land there are two distinct courses he pursues. On the one hand, that a merchant approaches his store. He puts up a better store and a better line and by his tactics, combining as well as a merchant enlarges his premises and equips his store for more efficient merchandising. On average farmer obtains the same room conveniences as his friend in town.

However life in the country and life in town are two different things. Nature lives in the country and wild always live there, while man has not done much of a job in developing the towns. The crowded slums of the city are in direct contrast to the well ordered homes of the farm. There is a difference between town and country that is due to the life and atmosphere of the latter.

Life goes on in the country whether men are there or not. Men come and go, they settle down for a while and then they move on to some other place but life goes on as usual. Only nature is of real importance in the world and man is only an incident.

This is not a new thought and it is one that has occurred to the farmer many times as he works in the spring time and harvest. Nature lives in the country but it does not seem to be there for only the workers of man. The life of nature goes on without regard to the farmer. All he is sure of in that spring and harvest will not fail although they are unpredictable.

All the farmer can do is to work with natural forces and was a place for himself by adding himself with nature. He figures that a boat will mature in a certain number of days so he must adjust his operations to that circumstance and get everything ready for the season of maturity. Hence he has invented the most modern farm machinery so that the crop can be more easily harvested before the advance of winter.

As the greatest world in the only real world, the farmer must put his intelligence against the forces of nature a very long time but his work is a constant struggle against the weather conditions and against insects and pests of all kinds. Some men give up the struggle but the majority hold on and they learn more each year. They learn more about scientific farming and more by the invention of better machinery. Most of them believe that farming is the most satisfactory existence of all but they must always appreciate "What will next year's weather bring."

Dreams Of Home

Oh, sang me a song of long ago
Speak to me of the things I know,
Sing me to sleep with a coyote's cry
Let the night breeze sang me a lullaby

As it did in the long ago

Sing of the prairie while with snow
Of shrieking winds as the blizzards blow

Sing with the voice of the warm Chinook
That comes from the South here with speed it took
To clear those fields of snow

Sing of stock that graze all day,
And give me a whiff of new-mown hay
I'll dream of fields of wheat that stood
As a golden sea, when years were good,

Let the tractors hum all day

But mostly sing of the dear old home
Of loved ones there whom I'm feeling lone
And your song will rise a melody
And forever dwell in the heart of me
Oh dear sweet dreams of home

Sugar and Spice

(By BILL SMILEY)

Something rather frightening is happening to the slowly reliable Canadian citizen. I don't know what's behind it but it's both unnerving and unsettling. He is beginning to enjoy the winter! Or, at least he pretends he is.

For generations Canadians approached the winter sensibly. When the first snowfall came they put on their long underwear, a gloomy look, and a languid sigh and stood around as close to the fire as possible. By the next six months Winter was something to be lived through and there was no sense about enjoying it.

But this easy and sweet outlook has been completely shattered within the last few years. Every week our thousands of people head out of cities with their skis and a couple of trucks. Motor clubs hold races through the blizzards over the icy roads. Curling rinks are crammed. People are spending weeks at the Laurentian tramping through huge rafts to get in to them.

The other day a friend told me he had taken his family out for a midwinter picnic on a Sunday. The temperature was almost 0 above! He had a thermos bottle of tea and heated some stew. The kids loved it, he said. No fuss. No dishes. And almost no fingers on the smallest boy, by the time they got him home.

But it's not only the young who are revelling in the elements these days. Everyone is infected. Staff members at our school have organized a hockey team. You should have them sitting around bragging. They may be short of wind on the ice but they're not when they don't have the skates on. Most of them haven't played hockey for more than 20 years. But they are as rabid as the local pee wees.

Elderly gentlemen who should be sitting at home with pop and slippers enjoying the peaceful twilight of their years may be found on any curling rink, dashing up and down as though the devil himself was after them, and swearing as though engine power were a tropical fruit.

Hitherto ladies who should be at home knitting booties for their grandchildren, may be seen hurtling down some near-precipitous slopes, bearing over every thing in their paths, from fellow-skiers to small trees.

Winter carnivals are spreading across the land with the speed of bubonic plague. At three a few good-looking young ladies are named Queen of the Carnival, and are never quite the same again, while thousands of young ladies who know they are equally good-looking are not named Queen and are never quite the same again.

Where is it all going to end? When are we Canadians going to stop running around with frozen pans pretending we just love our big white beautiful Winter? How soon will this hysterical summer collapse and let us revert to our old, happy misery?

I for one can't stand much more of this jolly, healthy new attitude. I'm all set to carry on with that frosty old hermaphrodite Madame de Winter who has been plaguing her icy feet in the small of our warm backs for a few more months.

Oh, it's easy enough to be trapped into this false delight in winter. Each of us has certain traits in our characters or moods or whatever it is that we like to call ourselves. A child who once wallowed in snow with the grunting pleasure of a small pig rolling in wet mud. And it's this buried memory of the joys of winter that gets us in trouble.

The other day for instance I was not well, you understand, but who was learning to ski. Quite gingerly, I'll admit, but on the steep slope. Let's see you do it Big Mouth, if it is so easy, he suggested. There was no way out I put on the skis, swallow and once I closed my eyes and pushed off on overcast flying out behind me. Seconds later without once having opened my eyes I found myself at the bottom still on my feet.

And this is how we are snared. Immediately I was ready to buy skiis, take lessons and start crying "schuss" or "slush" or whatever it is skiers cry as they skim the slopes. I was saved only by my iron will which always comes to my rescue when I decide I'll learn to play the tuba, or write a novel, or take up Russian. But some people, who don't have the same firm control of their fancies, are caught up in the artificial excitement of winter, and go charging about in the snow, uttering shrill little cries of simulated pleasure.

I have always maintained that Canada is a malevolent is fit only for jackrabbits, polar bears and chickens under twelve. And the sooner we get back to our age-old feud with Winter and forget this game of footsie we're trying to play with her, the sooner we'll regain our old, decent Canadian mid-

Lutherans Hold Annual Meeting, Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Peace Lutheran Church Brethren was held recently in the church with Pastor Mohr presiding. Following brief devotions he read the Pastoral Report which was followed by an oral report on the various facets of congregational life and activity. A keen steady growth statistically was indicated by the membership attendance, financial support and in organizations and auxiliaries activities. The program for the year was outlined with special emphasis being given the Jubilee Year and the anniversary herald.

The treasurer Mr. Lew Gates reported on the current account in Building Fund and the Mem... Fund. For the first time in ... the budget was ... and ... Continuing on Council are Edwin Bisser and Carl Weber.

Times of church services, both English and German were discussed as also the problem of ... attending in Rumsey. Attendance Bible School on the ... basis as last year was ... good upon and an emphasis ... the past Easter season would ... made a Family Fun Festival ... marked by the Sunday School. Delegates to District Convention would be elected at a later date ... the matter settled about ... and of this July.

Brief discussion centered on the budgets of the Evangelical Lutheran Church as well as The American Lutheran Church. It is hoped that the former are in Rumsey, the latter in Minneapolis.

Notes From The D. A.

By E. W. Walker,
District Agriculturist,
Stettler, Alberta.

Grass Seed Treatment Pays

Tests carried out between 1952 and 1957 on wheat in a number of locations in various part. of the province shows that seed treatment definitely does pay. Average yields of wheat in bushels per acre over five years were 29.8 for untreated seed and 32.3 for wheat treated with formaldehyde and 32.8 where an seed treatment was used.

The above seed treatments were fungicides for the control of smut and seed borne diseases. Where wireworms are a problem the use of an insecticide as an insecticide fungicide combination treatment will also pay off in higher yields.

Weeds Spraying Associations

Although proven control methods are available, weeding continue to be a serious cattle pest. Spraying in the fall with a 2% ester insecticide or in the spring with a ketonene weedicide mixture proven to be very successful whenever it is done on an extensive scale.

An interesting report comes from the M.D. of Bonny Plain where farmers have formed spraying associations. Each association has a president, a secretary and three directors. The equipment used is generally costing approximately $250.00. An operator is named and he receives part of the fee for each acre sprayed in his area. It is found that each unit will handle about 1500 cattle in an area where herds are small. In an area where herds are larger each unit would handle more than 1500 head of cattle.

Spraying in the fall until a very cold destroys both warbles and lice. Spraying spring with a systemic is also made will destroy warbles and with dairy cattle repeated spraying for only insecticide.

Fertilizer Tested

If recent article in a farm magazine has been carried out to determine the value of fertilizer application from Alberta farmers regarding this inquiry. Extensive testing of this fertilizer was discontinued by the Department of Farms and the University of Alberta because of low yield, difficulty of establishment and lack of winter hardiness. If any farmers do wish to try it for their satisfaction seed would likely still be brought from Ontario at relatively high cost.

For those who wish to see the plant growing in 1961 the members of the 4-H Crop Clubs at Stettler, Bullwark, Endiang and Spreamer have rows of it growing in their first year plots. As Mr. C. D. McCorkindale at Red Willow has a scattering of it in the grass around his building.

Puzzler

If a 30-foot fence has three equally spaced posts, how long will a 12-post fence be?

Ans. Nope — not 120 feet! Obviously a 30-foot fence with three posts would have 15 feet between posts. Similarly the space taken by the posts for a 12-foot fence would have eleven 12-foot intervals, and would be 132 feet long.

Can your truck pass this test?

The real test of a truck is not how much it can carry, but how little. Could you afford to deliver a hundred, twenty or even ten pounds? Or would operating costs eat up the profit?

The curious thing about Volkswagen Trucks is that they not only make larger loads practical, they make small loads profitable.

This is one reason why you're seeing so many Volkswagen Trucks around. Owners know a VW does its job at half the cost of standard half-tons. Half the gas, half the oil, half the tire wear. Even the smallest delivery makes sense.

Aren't most of your deliveries under full capacity? If they are, you ought to look into the VW operating story. But if you carry heavy loads over bad roads in all kinds of weather, there's something else you should know about Volkswagen. The new VW engine gives you 10% more acceleration and passing power. The rear heavy-duty transmission that will stand up to almost any abuse has even gear ratios selected to deliver every ounce of the extra engine power to the driving wheels. (You get better performance with the same gas economy.)

Whatever you're delivering it's easier to unload from the double side doors and rear door. And it's easier to park. The VW is three feet shorter than standard trucks.

If you like the idea of paying less for more deliveries, talk to your authorized Volkswagen dealer about it.

Finance and Administration committee reports on the final results of the Council efforts for the past year. The Chairman of each committee has already received a report on the work undertaken by his committee during the year. This report will try to show some of those actions on the part of Town Council.

Early in January a combined meeting of Council and committee members was held with the Inspector from the Alberta Municipal Affairs Department. Also in attendance was the Administrator from the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission. The purpose of the meeting was to review the Town's financial position for the past three years. The Chairman of each committee was asked to present a report on the activities of his committee during the past year. The Inspector noted and commented on the various reports and made suggestions where he felt improvements could be made.

The Inspector noted and commented on the various reports and made suggestions where he felt improvements could be made.

The Chairman of the Finance Committee presented a detailed statement of estimated revenues and expenditures for the year 1980. Each committee was asked to submit a detailed statement of expected revenues and expenditures for the year 1980. These statements were then combined into a statement of estimated revenues and expenditures for the Town as a whole. This statement was then presented to Council for approval. Council then made any changes they felt necessary and approved the statement as presented.

The Inspector noted that a mill rate was not approved for the Town of Stettler prior to the passing of the Tax Recovery Act. Under the provisions of this latter section, a mill rate must be passed by Council prior to the passing of the Budget. Council then passed a mill rate of 30 mills for the Town of Stettler. This mill rate was published in the Stettler Independent on March 19, 1980 and was subsequently approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs.

This mill rate was published in the Stettler Independent on March 19, 1980 and was subsequently approved by the Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Following the passing of the Budget, Council was informed that the Provincial Government would be making an unconditional grant to the Town of Stettler in the amount of $100,000.00. This grant was received in the month of December 1980. Council then passed a motion that this grant be placed in the Capital Reserve Fund. This motion was carried.

Evening has many people are looking for new and different recipes for main dishes. The most popular Cheese dishes require some new touches to make them a little different. A good casserole pattern for you is to make a recipe from your favorite meat, fish, fowl, Macaroni, Rice or vegetable general principles.

Principles: Most casseroles have three distinct parts. The first layer is a foundation usually cooked starch such as macaroni, rice, noodles etc. This foundation may require from one to three cups. The second part is the main ingredient and is often that which has the most nutritive value. The third part of the casserole is the sauce. This may be a sauce, a stewed soft fresh vegetable such as tomatoes, gravy, cheese or buttered crumbs. The purpose of the sauce is to

CHOCOLATE CUP CAKES

[illegible] cup sugar, one egg, one cup milk, one cup [illegible] cup shortening, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup chocolate chips. Cream shortening gradually, blend in brown sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together 3 times. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Stir in vanilla and chocolate chips. Fill greased muffin tins 2/3 full. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 12 to 15 cups.

Frosting: Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 1 cup brown sugar, 1/4 cup cream, boil 2 minutes, cool and beat until thick enough to spread. Add 1/2 cup chopped nuts.

can be proud. The park at 57th Street south of Highway 12 was also filled and levelled in preparation for spring planting

MUNICIPAL LIBRARY

The requisition of the Stettler Municipal Library for 1980 was $2,500.00 and you will note from the Financial Statement appearing on page 10 of your booklet that this amount is additional to the $75.00 from the Provincial Government and $250.00 from the [illegible] of Stettler. The library personnel as always, do their best to serve the people and they are well-regarded by many residents.

It is interesting to note that the twelve hundred and fifty members of the Library have about 6500 books from which to choose and last year they had in fact, taken out 16 700 books for reading. Thus, on the average each person has read three times and each member had taken out 14 books.

The Library is open six blocks days from 2 00 to 5 00 p.m. and 7 00 to 9 00 p.m. on Thursdays, from 2 00 to 5 00 p.m. and on Saturday from 1 00 to 5 00 p.m. for a total of 126 days in 1980. Elected Stettler should be proud of the fine library service provided by these volunteers who are giving freely of their time and particularly to Mr. Carol Isaacson who is acting as Secretary Treasurer and to Mrs. Howard Bowman who is doing such an excellent job as Librarian.

SEWER SYSTEM

The log turns in the Sewer Department for this year of course was the responsibility of the Superintendent of Public Works, Harold Lowe. This outside sewer line which is approximately three-quarters of a mile in length and the sewer lagoon was constructed to serve a population of 7 000 persons and cost the Town $2 000 00 more than the [illegible] The system [illegible] September 15th 1980 and has been operating satisfactorily to date. Since the system does not have any mechanical apparatus of any kind, [illegible] and operations [illegible] will be kept to a minimum. It can be estimated that the cost of operating the sewer lagoon will be $2,852.00 in salaries and $51.10 in maintenance and operation of the sewer mains, for [illegible] and the additional [illegible] until September 1st. You could also note on the records in section of your statement that the sewer charges which [illegible] per cent of the water bill brought in a revenue of $16 516 00 for the year. You will note that this revenue will cover the annual payments of $6 000 00 on the sewer [illegible] and leave over $7 000 00 to put [illegible] and maintaining the sewer system. This [illegible] is for the first time in the history of the Town is paying its way and is no longer a burden on the real property taxation.

SKATING RINK

The total expenditure of $2 450 80 on the [illegible] for 1980 was approximately $900 00 lower than the expenditure for the previous year and is made up of salaries $1 623 25 [illegible] repairs and upkeep, etc. $827 82. The revenue for the year was $1 794 14 made up of hockey receipts $447 32 and season ticket sales and general admissions $1 346 77. So far the major portion of the revenue was taken in in the months of January and February of 1980 before the Community Centre was put in operation. This revenue can be expected to drop considerably now.

We have had a few of several engineers make a study and report on the structural condition of the building. The engineers found the building in sound condition as is evidenced by the following excerpt from the report:

"The inspection of the old arena revealed that the entire structure is in good condition [illegible] is of concrete and masonry construction and the arena will serve for minor hockey and skating for many years to come."

COMMUNITY CENTRE

The cost of operations of the Community Centre for 1980 was $16 872.17 which can be broken down as follows: Salaries for manager, caretaker, assistants, etc. $6,508.41, power, light and heat $7 600 00 non-returning - a problem such as pool acts troopers, floaters, re-lettering for the ceiling to comply with the library inspector regulations etc. $2,307 60 and the balance of $1 210 00 for such operational expenses as our panel boards, records, light bulbs, etc. Revenue for the Community Centre for the year totalled $3 877 51 made up of $693 10 from general [illegible] advertisements $1 711 60 from rentals and $1 204 00 from vending machines.

You will note in the capital expenditure programme for 1980 and a further assistance from the Stettler Chamber of Commerce in the amount of $5 000 00. The contribution of $5 000 00 from the Recreation Board brings their total contributions to [illegible] which [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] Centre.

GARBAGE COLLECTION

The total expenditure for our [illegible] was $53 [illegible] which is a contract price except for $27 600 paid to Mr. Brown for this service. This provides a weekly pick-up in the residential area and daily collection in the high class commercial area. This contract was renewed for a further period of three years just before the year end of no change in price. We have received the occasional complaint on this subject but on the whole it has been very satisfactory.

In addition to this regular garbage collection the Town [illegible] with supporting publicity from the Board of Trade again undertook a spring and fall clean-up campaign.

There are Provincial regulations coming into effect in the Spring of 1981 which will require all lagoons in the Province to embark on a land fill garbage disposal program or some other type providing equivalent results. This means almost certainly that there will be an increase in these costs in this coming year

STREET LIGHTING

Street lighting cost the Town $[illegible] or [illegible] approximately $3500 00 more than the previous year. The first phase of the street light conversion program was completed this past fall, which [illegible] the [illegible] on 50 Avenue brought the number of [illegible] the most intensive of Town [illegible] Thats right up to Main Street and the [illegible] lights on the Truck route are [illegible] reported from 1st [illegible] Main Street to railroad tracks on the west Mercury [illegible] vapour type. These were all [illegible] This project could be extended to Phase 12.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The total expenditure for Public Relations for the year was $1,211 71. The major items were Christmas [illegible] etc. as detailed in the [illegible] Curling Championship $350 00 Printing of the 1979 Financial Statements and [illegible] $201 00 with the balance for such items as banquets, [illegible] appointments etc.

The operation of the Stettler Recreation Commission for the year cost the Town $41 [illegible] $6 000 00 which was [illegible]

The Home was opened on October 15 1980 and there are 25 residents at the present time [illegible] expected that it will be filled within a few months.

Mr. T. M. Stevenson was chairman of both the Board of Directors of the Foundation and the Board of Management who carry out the operation of the Home until his passing away. His presence certainly added strength to the Board and he will be sadly missed by all Board and staff members.

PUBLIC WORKS

The department spent a total of $[illegible] in 1980 which according to the statement was broken down as follows:

Streets	$21,457.01
Sidewalks	2,442.02
Workmen's Compensation Board	1,327.05
Operating & Repairs of Trucks	9,117.56
Tools & Equipment Repairs	6,380.20
Salaries	15,894.12

And numerous other items.

All of these expenditures I think are fairly self-explanatory with the exception of the street expenditure which could be broken down still further into such items as:

Purchase of Gravel	$7,042.00
Asphalt for duspreading	3,180.01
Sand Sealing Main Street	1,260 00

And the balance on such items as culverts, purchase of asphalt for repairing streets hiring of trucks for snow removal hauling gravel, fuel for the grader etc.

The Rosedale subdivision and that portion of the Town lying east of 66th Street was [illegible] provided this year for the first time along with the service road on the south side of Highway 12. It is hoped that this program can be continued and possibly extended in the coming year. At the present time approximately 60% of the streets in the Town

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fire protection services cost the Town $7 686 29 in 1980 and made up of the following:

Salaries to the Fire Chief & 15 members of the Brigade	$3,894 66
Hydrant rental paid to the Waterworks department	3,500 00
Phone and Light	300 13
Fire Hall	572 00
Fire Alarm Service	272 00
Purchase of new equipment	327 00
Miscellaneous items	380 34

It is a pleasure to be able to report that the fire losses in 1980 as in 1979 were practically nil. There was a total of 14 calls in the Town and 3 rural calls during the year. The rural calls of course are charged for at a rate that will reimburse the Town for the actual expenses incurred.

Mr. James Autry was appointed Fire Chief to the fall of 1980 to replace Mr. Forrest Chapman who had served as Chief for many years. Mr. Norman Pickell has been appointed Deputy Chief of the Brigade. Even though he may not be present, a special appreciation should be extended to Mr. Forrest Chapman for his long service to the Town in the capacity of Fire Chief and fireman.

Your Fire Department has a practise and instruction period regularly twice each month and have now become fairly familiar with the operation of the new equipment. During these practise periods they have developed and completely repair all of the old Fire pumping unit and have put it back into A 1 operating condition. They have also built themselves a lecture and meeting room in the Fire Hall.

Quarter Horse Stable In Hunna Sees New Arrivals

Quarters of the famous quarter horse are provided for all stable occupants are well above minimum standards and actual needs. Many of the stalls have paved floors and are provided with automatic waterers. Each stall is also provided with a window to allow plenty of fresh air and sunshine. Many of the stalls are also provided with a small exercise area.

The horses include Buckskin Wallow 10 years old in foal to Dobby's Ace Goldeneddie Bailey Boy five years old in foal to Dobby's Ace Squeaky Boots, bunch seven years old in foal to Bon Gobb's Ace Socks By Billy three years old Alan prior to Chex Wagon's son Jean brought back a second mare Dean's Flicka a bay running five years and now filly colts King's Ruth Bunn and Shoshky Brother to the former's son and the latter's second.

All horses are from well known blood lines in the United States and from a number of individual breeders. The lines of the Palomino are also well known for their calming influence. The entire get is quiet bred for work in the Horse Industry. Light muscle and attention to public appearance are also

You know of Taber, the smaller town community east of Lethbridge. Taber in Lethbridge, and the mountain soldiers. But do you know the meaning of the name of Elkan which is also pronounced the same as the lake.

Well, of Taber there is a place called Alkali. It is peculiar in that the streets are named after names of a small war or duel. Thus it has Boer Avenue, Sioux Avenue, Boulder and Tiffany Streets.

Some names were adopted after careful course. Others were taken from biblical terms or names. Some places were named after pathfinders, writers and scenaries. Indians or politicians. Some names reflect world history and even evolution.

Some names absolutely defy understanding. Alberta has a village called Nose named in 1911. It is not in person and goodness knows why.

Along one line or Alberta are the towns of Leyden, Chesterville, Victoria, Phoenix, Coronation and the coronation year of 1911.

They were named in a routine and I imagine you think it was named after a family named Leyden. It was so named because of the mountains near it. Right? Wrong. It was named after a locality in Holland where the Pilgrims fought and died. But since moved its seat to Leyden, but later I was there the post office moved to the east and the best town was to the west.

After 1918 there didn't become Freedom, for obvious reasons. But many changes are without the reason being apparent on its surface. Or maybe you know why Bulkley's was changed to Hathburg.

Some are surprising. And I think Make-peace named because Indians and whites came to terms on that area or for some similar reason. Actually it is named after the novelist William Makepeace Thackeray.

I can understand why a town would be named Chinook after our warm wind but what bright soul in the post office service named Harmonton after a hot dry wind that blows on the Atlantic coast of Africa.

And Morgarten was named after a friend of the chief of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway but after the chief clerk but a friend of the clerk.

A south country rancher named F. W. Godsal was a poetic soul and one evening while watching his cattle he was reminded of Gray's bowing herd wends slow o'er the lea. Thus we have Cowley.

Some names reflect ingenuity of a sort. Bleasby is descriptive of the shrubbery often found in peculiar the area with various self berries.

Some names, like Hope Valley, were based on optimism. Some names are simplicity in itself. When it came to naming Cremona in 1908 the citizens simply asked of a name from the British pound grade. They could have selected a wrong one.

Bezanker was named after Thomas L. Bezanker a banker from South Dakota who helped to populate the area with various self farmers.

We are happy to report good progress in the recovery of Mrs. Eleanor daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russel McCuish, who suffered a serious attack of polio more than a month ago. She hopes to go home before Mrs. Gilson, on an evening tour of Alberta's northern points, visited Northwest Industries, Consolidated Mining, Western Gypsum and Alberta Pet Products. Mrs. Gilson is the C.C. Unit's M.L.A. representative here and visited the unit during the afternoon session of the legislature recently.

Stettler's Water Expansion Program

Editor's Note: The foreman now asks the Town Manager for a series of articles on the proposed Waterworks Expansion Program and presents the first of those here. We invite comments of our readers for and against the proposal so that a full discussion can take place before the ratepayers vote on this important question.

The Town of Stettler is presently obtaining its water from two wells located at various areas of the Town. Six of these wells feed directly into the distribution system. There feed into a 200,000 gallon underground storage reservoir in Waterworks Park and one is an emergency that is one feed into either a 50,000 gallon underground storage reservoir east of the old skating rink or the 125,000 into the distribution system.

If the six wells which feed into the distribution system supply more water than is required at any given time the excess goes into the 50,000 gallon storage tank on top of the water tower. If the storage tank on top of the water tower becomes filled from the six wells and the ever more demand then sufficient water is available now that the tower does not overflow. If on the other hand there is a well or two not able to meet the demand the water flows out of the elevated tower and into the distribution system. When the water in the tower drops to a certain level it turns on a pump in the 200,000 gallon reservoir which pumps water from that reservoir through the distribution system and back to the tower. This reservoir is then refilled from the three wells that pump directly into it. The reservoir in the east end of town is operated manually and is used only in case of emergency. The well at that east end reservoir is for the most part pumping directly into the distribution system.

This briefly explains the operation of the present water system.

The two wells vary in capacity from 25 gallons per minute for the best well to about 5 gallons per minute for the poorest well and combined are capable of producing a maximum of 168.00 to 170 000 gallons per day. In July of 1960 for instance when all wells were operating at absolute capacity and still weren't able to meet the demand, they pumped 5 307 216 gallons or 172 000 gallons per day. The wells would not be capable of producing at this rate for more than a month or two. The average production over the summer of 1960 was 4 200 000 gallons per month or 102 580 per day. The average for October, November and December 1960 is 153 500 gallons per day. Thus it is apparent that not only are we short of water during the summer months, but if there is a 10% increase in consumption over a short period during the winter months we will be short then too. Water consumption in 1960 was 15% higher than the consumption in 1959.

The Town is recognizing the shortage that has been growing more acute each year but for the past four years been conducting a search of ground water conditions in the area to determine if it was feasible to get water from wells in an area adjacent to the Town rather than going to a surface supply like the Red Deer River or Buffalo Lake. With assistance from the Research Council of Alberta, we have determined that there is adequate ground water available to meet the Town needs. The Engineer's report says "The Research Council testing program has resulted in the discovery of ground water sufficient to supply the Town's needs until a population of 5,000 persons is reached. The future prospects for extending the well system are excellent and it appears that no great difficulty should be experienced in procuring sufficient ground water for the 50 year paving period system" — when the people of Town is expected to reach 7,000.

The new source of water is located about two miles west of the Town and the proposal to bring the water into Town is as follows

(a) Drill two wells in the area of the new water supply Tests show that each well will be capable of producing 60 gallons per minute without harming the area.

(b) Connecting these two wells to a 100 000 gallon storage reservoir located in the south west corner of Town.

(c) Connect this reservoir to the water system which is already extended to the south west corner of the subdivision grounds.

(d) The engineers also recommend some minor alterations in the existing system to make it serve better although this is adequate at the present time.

It should be pointed out that our present absolute maximum pumping capacity as determined by the July 1960 pumping period is 120 gallons per minute. During the month of July however, when we were pumping at capacity and when water restrictions were in effect there were still periods of 6 to 8 hours when some houses could not get water—not even enough to make tea or coffee for dinner much less enough for flushing toilets, bathing, watering lawns, etc. This happens not all over Town but only in the east and where the ground elevation is higher than elsewhere. Even when they could get some water it was badly mixed with air.

Such a situation is of course very serious and is quite intolerable. It must be corrected immediately and this is what the water expansion program is designed to do.

Wheat Interim Payment

OTTAWA — An interim payment of 12 cents per bushel on the 1959-60 wheat used was announced by Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton in the House of Commons recently

He said the payment recently decided by the Canadian Wheat Board will mean the distribution to producers of approximately $37 744 000 on some 377 438 000 bushels delivered to the board between August 1 1959 and July 31 1960

Mr Hamilton added that with the final payment of $2,852,322 on the 1958-59 crop and past a total of $41 000 000 will be going out to producers

Oat payments are now being made and will be immediately followed by the wheat payments

Of the total wheat payment, $23 670,000 will go to producers in Saskatchewan $9 713,000 to Alberta and British Columbia $4,594,000 to Manitoba and Ontario

The 1959-60 barley pool will be closed sooner than expected because of record sales. Consequently the Canadian Wheat Board will report to the Governments on the conclusion of the interim wheat payment in regard to a possible closing date for the 1959-60 barley account

Neighbour Helping Neighbour

Researchers have come up with the somewhat astounding fact that about 17,000 persons are involved to produce a simple can of peas on the table of the consumer.

This is a striking example of how interdependent members of our community have become since the days not too many generations ago when one's own existence upon self resourceful farm and true industrious hands.

Interdependence affects the rural and urban dweller alike as it extends not only to the numerous things we eat, drink, wear and use every day but to such matters as our health and the general well being of the community as a whole.

The free Blood Transfusion Service of the Canadian Red Cross is demonstrative of this interdependency. It was founded 14 years ago on the idea that we should give our blood freely as blood donors and receive blood freely when we or others need it.

It makes eminent good sense and is a concrete example of the tangible way in which neighbour can help neighbour following the basic Red Cross principle for all its services in the community the nation and the world.

As many thousands of grateful patients who have received "The Gift of Life" from their neighbours will testify, the free service of the Canadian Red Cross is an essential which we can ill afford to curtail. It is dependent for its continued success upon the half million and more Canadians who willingly give their blood every year to save the lives of others and the financial support of every citizen.

It should be apparent that it takes money as well as blood to carry out this vital function of your Red Cross for the benefit of all. It is a matter of record that nearly 60 cents of every campaign dollar contributed to the Canadian Red Cross in 1960 went to support the free blood transfusion service.

During March Red Cross Month in Canada, we are all asked to further this support when another neighbour — a Red Cross volunteer canvasser — calls at our door.

When the individual needs blood he is dependent upon the Red Cross free blood transfusion service, its faithful blood donors, its financial supporters who generously give their dollars to carry on this vital service.

Let us all help our Red Cross to continue its measure of mercy by giving to the best of our means.

An Answer Is Needed

We are not going to get into an argument about the town's financial standing with an authority on municipal finance like Mr Fred Buggs. However Mr Buggs letter demands an answer and it should be given by the council.

When the Independent said that the town is not in bad financial condition we were taking the Municipal Inspector's 1960 report at face value. It said "The Financial Condition of the town is satisfactory."

Sugar and Spice
(By BILL SMILEY)

It isn't that I'm scared of my wife. It's just that she makes me nervous. As I see my years does you. And yours you. For example: you and I had to make a trip to the city. Young Ken couldn't come. With some other pimply people she was making her radio debut on Saturday morning. Another family problem.

Both of us had to go, so we organized a baby sitter and left without small daughter. We planned to keep the conversation in the road, over the car radio. There was the usual confusion. Our car radio either goes off when we hit a bump, or suddenly emits a great blast of music when we don't even know it is switched on. We managed to get a bit calm to get the program. My wife skimmed. I remained. A familiar pattern.

The program came through loud and clear. Our elements started to cheer with that sick feeling, as the announcer introduced the children's numbers. Each played beautifully. Finally he stated, as calmly as anything, that Ken Beatty would now play an etude. We all turned and groaned triumphantly at each other.

Ken smiled into her piece played a couple of bars, then stopped abruptly. There was a silence of about three seconds, during which I could hear the pulse in my wife's temple, hammering over the roar of the car's engine. Then the child attacked the piano again, and finished the piece credibly enough. But it was too late.

The Old Lady was so mad and disappointed that she wouldn't speak, for forty miles. Just sat there like Lot's wife, glaring straight ahead, tears of rage coursing slowly down her stony countenance. Hugh and I nervously tried songs, junior funny stories, and pointing at the new lecture. Nothing doing.

I never related this incident merely to explain that you don't pull my boners around your house, and expect to have them laughed off. That's why I had a few terse words over the turkeys I gave them to her for Christmas. She's a classical music enthusiast, and our son is studying piano at the Conservatory, so, at considerable expense, I organized tickets for two outstanding concerts this winter. She was delighted with the gift.

After exclaiming over my thoughtfulness, she put them in her purse, six reserved seat tickets. "Sorry," I said in a blind, manly fashion, "I'd better let you keep those. You're liable to lose them." She's always leaving her purse in the movies, or at some lady's house, or in Toronto. So I put them in my hip pocket, where I carry all those things I don't want to lose.

Well, a rough of days later, I was changing my pants, and of course that entailed transferring the contents of my hip pocket. Yep. Six tickets. At first I was alarmed, but not unduly so. I searched my trousers carefully. I checked all the bureau drawers. I explored my wallet thoroughly. I began going through all the pockets of all my jackets.

I didn't have the nerve to say a word, of course. I checked with all the people we had visited. I searched our luggage. I combed the house from attic to cellar pretending I was the incubator or something. No tickets. Finally, I began to panic. The next few weeks were a whirlwind of thing-dummy calls, frantic letter-writing and middle-of-the-night soul-searching.

As the deadline neared, the pressure built up. My hair was clipped over the lining out of my clothes. I had turned my wallet inside out so often that I had found a number of important documents, intended for years. But no tickets.

On the day of the first concert arrived Hugh and his mum were making big plans. Drive to the city, have a nice dinner and drive home. 100 miles in sub-zero weather, but worth it. I agreed, with a sickly smile. I was praying I'd have a heart attack, or that the First Russian missile would fall that night. I got up, ate and all checked in the car. I tried to run a couple of types on the way home, but gave up. I dodged for dat after six weeks of mounting horror the moment of truth arrived.

She was tearing around the house, doing those last-minute things, and crying instructions to Ken and me. I slipped into the bathroom, took a big belt out of the medicinal bottle of brandy we keep on hand, put on my bumble book, and told her I had a terrible confession to make. She thought it was about a woman, so immediately sat down. I said:

"I've lost the tickets." I [illegible]
"What tickets?"
"The tickets for the concert tonight, and the other concert next month."
"What in the world are you talking about? They're in my purse. I took them out of your hip pocket the day after Christmas, because I knew you'd lose them."

I didn't know whether to sing her with the nearest blunt object, or run screaming to the frozen wastes outside. I compromised and took another big slug of brandy before I started to sob uncontrollably from sheer relief. As it was, it isn't that I'm scared of my wife. It's just that she makes me nervous.

Calling together his three children—aged 17, 15 and 13—the father made them this proposition. "If you promise not to smoke until you are of age, I will give each of you $100 on your 21st birthday."

The 17-year-old daughter readily agreed. The 15-year-old son hesitated at first. "Well, Dad, I don't know I'd have to give it some thought. Give hundred dollars, you said." Well, I guess so."

The 10-year old boy looked nonplussed. "Gee Pop, why didn't you tell me sooner?"

Dear Sir

Your Editorial covering Provincial Statements made The Town is not in bad finance and condition but its statement reflects the difficulties that all good sized urban municipalities in Alberta are experiencing.

Having undertakings in the amount of to 311.27 over and above all assets shows that the Town is not solvent and really is Broke

Regarding the difficulties experienced may say that Red Deer with much more growing power than Stettler has an investment of $2000 00 per head of population Lacombe has $800 00 and Drumheller has $915 00 whereas Stettler has $1400 00 and to top this off the Stettler mill rate is one of the highest in the Province thus showing that the home in Stettler are considerably higher than in other places

Besides the above immovable facts every man woman and child in Stettler has Debenture indebtedness per Capita of Hospital debentures with interest in the amount of $261 00

If all this is not bad financial conditions, I would suggest that it is deplorable and needs to be regulated

Yours truly,
Fred Elliott

WEEKLY MEDITATION

(By Rev H. K. Moyd)

Ecclesiastes 11:1 "Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days." So said the Preacher, and set the stage for the practice of great patience. In order to understand this passage as should take into account the Word of God to Adam in Genesis 3:19. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou earn thy bread . . . For at thy we are that thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." But the point is that my time's your loss and my gain is your gain. For in spite of the common sense of us to the great human family he's [illegible] No person can suffer but all will suffer. And rewards run great not what we all [illegible]

It shall return unto thee BIG loaves days. No man is not quite right. For we must be careful to never weigh the scriptures at hand, just we fall into error. For thou SHALT FIND IT after many days. Many men say until return unto us in days to come, we will have to look for the return of the bread. It will not be accidental that we simply happen upon it. Our bread may until return unto us in ways that are beyond our understanding. It may return unto us in disguise. It may return unto us in ways of discovery of unsavory brilliance of glory. Million or dollar bridge or of new understanding the ways of God

But return it will, of that one is sure. And when it returns, when we find it we will begin to realize the wonder of the ways of God, the value of patience and the precious nature of the true Bread of Life which is found to be JESUS CHRIST, OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR

(By Dorothy Barker)

As I would if I ran to the station

At the time I was wearing a cute little pickie dot hat atop a fresh bangs. Over this I tied one of those plastic affairs for protection I fastened up my comfortable and utilitarian hatchery. Me and my New York columnist friend had rubbished so bitterly pro-war', grabbed my purse one in one hand, an over-sized purse in the other and sprang out through the doors of the hotel into a whirlwind [illegible]

Before I could get my second wind the toe of the plastic hanket were struggling with my hair and I was in a position most unbecomin my head. For a while it was a tug war whether I, or Mother Nature would win the struggle against my mane. I looks that I would never reach the [illegible]

I did of course only to discover the train I was to board for the coast was somewhere down the track to the east, having its own argument with the rails. Minutes of people jammed the station, all clamoring very loudly about nothing. A conductor disappeared and so did the dusky porter. Finally I succeeded in getting my mother and into the tops of my plastic rain hats. I was immediately drenched, disheartened and discouraged and then I discovered the owner of the record someone had just severed a touch down'. The little transistor held in the palm of a crew-cut traveller warmed me with the strains of the playoff game. Listening the hour passed like lightning and I was soon in a dry, air-conditioned commuter with a notorious porter hanging up a dripping barberry and assuring me he would have my shoes dried and polished by morning.

Would I have the railroad has treasurers' Hardly for there have been other occasions too, when I have been treated, but I have enjoyed listening to someone else's radio.

Here will always be the protecting type who has forgotten to keep in step with the times in many respects I honestly don't blame them. Truth is truth whether set to music or captured in the literary covers of a dime-novel. Perhaps I am one of the lucky ones. I can mentally turn off my hearing and have pleasant things to think about even while reading the BIG of just I don't particularly like The same goes for the pornographic novel I don't have to read it.

And what of our young people, someone is probably skipping a few paragraphs now. Bless Brontis, Quebec or wherever this column is read. Don't they need to be protected against being exposed to such rot? How subtly corrupted a poor war frenzy of reasons into and salacious literature with no ill effects. Perhaps I am lucky that they inherited my hoopled ability to sift the good from the bad. I am sure most young people are capable of this I am also sure they are not going to be dogs by listening to a youth with a tuneless voice croon "Put your right hips a little closer to the piano."

Growing Early Vegetables

Since the use of polythene plastic has become popular for many purposes it has been found a great help in growing early vegetables. Tomato and cucumber plants are started in southern Alberta gardens when used in a built-up covering [illegible] a 4 by 6 foot frame [illegible] covered with polythene. The [illegible] Gabriel 16 to 18 days. This can be a very important advantage when growing crops such as sweet corn and tomatoes.

[illegible] is also extensively used for [illegible] cucumbers. The [illegible] the seed [illegible] to 12 days. This can be a very important advantage when growing crops such as sweet corn and tomatoes.

Vitamin A

[illegible] at the Veterinary Services Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, vitamin A deficiency continues to be a problem in cattle in Alberta. This deficiency is caused largely by a lack of vitamin A in the feed. In order to correct the deficiency several different methods are used. Some are listed below:

(1) Stabilized dry vitamin A. A number of good products are available. It is important to check the Vitamin A content as most contain about 3,500,000 International Units per pound while others contain 1,000,000 I.U. per pound. The daily requirements of a 1000 lb. cow must cow are about 30,000 I.U. This can be fed in different ways. One way is to mix it with salt. Only a few days supply should be mixed each time as dry Vitamin A is not stable in wet salt. Dry Vitamin A can be fed most successfully when mixed with chop or with a protein supplement.

(2) Good green hay may have adequate amounts of Vitamin A but this should be checked by analysis to be sure. Alfalfa or alfalfa and protein supplement pellets are available on the market.

(3) Injectable A. This method is useful in emergencies e.g. young calves but it should be followed by the use of a cheaper form.

When a man's gone before the water to lay its eggs it wraps a supply of ice in its wings before going under.

Waterworks Expansion

A good deal of discussion is taking place at the moment among the ratepayers of Stettler regarding the council's proposed expansion of the water works system, at an estimated cost of $189 000. It would seem that a number are convinced that a 3,000,000 gallon reservoir is unnecessary and some are even questioning the necessity of a transmission line with pipe as large as eight inches from the new prolific supply of ground water one and a half miles west of town.

Everyone realizes that the present system is no longer adequate to meet the demands placed on it, especially in the summer months. The question then is the ratepayers' mandate to date so far they should go in expanding their system to meet present and future needs. We urge them to keep their minds open during the next several weeks before they vote on this urgent act question. We also urge council to make every effort to place its case for the 500 000 gallon reservoir and eight-inch transmission line before the public at least two weeks ahead of the series of articles by the town manager in the Independent. Possibly six ones would be made stronger if the opinions of the consultant engineers were substantiated by some other authority. The ratepayers should also decide whether a public meeting attended by the ratepayers of Stettler regarding the consultant engineers and a representative of Alberta Research Council would be useful in helping them to vote intelligently.

A good supply of water is essential to communities large or small and its absence has been a block on the road of growth for many cities and towns in the province. Further is in an enviable position because the Alberta Research Council has found a ground water supply that could be called fabulous by many standards. It lies on our doorstep, only a mile or two from town and the Research Council believes it will look after our needs 25 years from now when our population is expected to be 7,000.

Regardless of the result of the vote on March 24 this new abundant supply of water must very soon be tapped. Basing these opinions on what they believe to be the best advice, at least the majority of our elected representatives believe that the expansion will give the town an ample supply of water until 1968 when the population should be around 5,000—they would deserve the strongest criticism if they did not plan at least this far ahead.

Hunting The Coyote

From time to time we read of the "good" results that are being obtained in the war on coyotes with the new poisons and strychnine traps. Supplemented with the usual hunting methods, and the unusual methods of the Fish and Game Association, they appear to be keeping the numbers of this crafty little wild dog within bounds. Yet would think that extraordinary pains that man takes to rid himself of the coyote would soon make it an extinct animal, but this does not seem likely, which is a blessing.

Coyotes have been hunted in this district ever since the country settled more in 1905 or even earlier. One of the first items on the Independent was that coyotes were bothering livestock and poultry. Bounties were put on and even the women were on the lookout for them. On Christmas morning, 1906, Mrs. Porter, of Gough Lake District, shot a coyote from her front door.

In fact the coyote has been hunted more than any other American animal. Every device and trick known to man has been used down the years to crush him, but still he thrives. Little wolf continues to hold his own. There must be 250,000 right now in Canada alone and it is said that there are 2,000,000 in the United States.

Sugar and Spice

(By BILL SMILEY)

Our daughter, Kim, was ten years old today. Nobody grows as quickly as children. It seems such a brief time since she was a baby, a beautiful, fluid thing I knew she'll be telling me she's going to have a baby.

It's good to have a daughter. When our second child was born that way, I'd never been happy with another son, but I've always been glad it turned out to be a girl. So girl crashing, you people who have only a family full of boys, and produce a small female.

Ours has cost us a lot of money, given us some tears, and inspired many a headache. And there's promise of plenty of the same. But for all that, she has also been a source of constant joy and pleasure to the family. She's an odd mixture—fiery and romantic one moment, realistic and unyielding the next. I guess that's the answer to her.

The soft, little dumpling who used to cuddle comfortably in my arms is all but packed up, bagged and kissed, has vanished, slick Kim, whose body reminds me of an embryo. It's like being attached by a young dynamo. Between cuddles my young lass leaps and gamuses like seems to have four legs and several arms.

On the credit side, our daughter has beautiful auburn hair; huge brown eyes and a fabulous grin that lights up a whole room when she turns it on. She does well at school. She can skate and swim. She plays the piano and the recorder. She has a joyous regard for most conventional school life.

But we must be honest. While good-natured on the whole, she has inherited from her mother a roaring Irish temper, and some day she's going to set fire to the house or murder her brother with an accidental flame-thrower seen to glare from her eyes while in this mood. The fellow who marries her without ever having seen her in a rage will get a surprise that I'd love to be there to see.

There's another thing. She's what her mother calls a "dag". Her hair is never in the same coat like the rest of us, even on outside through a cranny and come out looking like Little Lord Fauntleroy. But no Kim. She could be placed, all cleaned up, in a horticultural exhibit chamber of highly polished glass and emerge in twenty minutes looking as though she'd been working in the night shift in a coal mine. It's instinct, and it almost drives her mother insane.

If she wears bobsocks, they are wrinkled and baggy. She loses approximately one button a day from her clothing. She smells her new shoes. She falls in the mud in her new coat. She spills gravy on it and does not get to water colors all over her fresh blouse. And she does it all with the most unbelievable grin.

Along with this goes another feature that I'm told all girls have—an unconscious ability to make others feel like worms. She starts down a daughter, making something to do, and she ends up crushing

Sun Life Increases Dividends; Had Good Year In Stettler

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada will increase dividends to policyholders in 1961 for the 12th consecutive year, Mr. H. R. Scott, Unit Supervisor of the Sun Life Unit in Stettler announced Feb. 14, following the company's annual meeting in Montreal.

Mr. H. R. Scott said Sun Life had no outstanding year in 1960 for in all its operations the company sold $2,694 million of life insurance, a 5 per cent increase, the company of $9,913 million. This is 7.1 per cent more than the amount at the end of 1959. Group Life insurance accounts for $2,615 million and new group life insurance sold in 1960 was $202 million.

Mutual premiums on group medical and sickness contracts increased and amounted to $6,622 million. Payments in respect of claims amounting under policies and group certificates which have been in force for less than five years amounted to $10 million.

Assets increased during the year by $52 millions to $2,339 million. Mr. H. R. Scott, Unit Supervisor said the Sun Life commitments in the policy during the year of investing funds in community projects and particularly in residential and commercial mortgages which now amount to $980 million.

Income from all sources was $274 million. The net rate of interest earned on Sun Life assets was 4.97 per cent, as against 4.88 per cent in 1959.

At the company's annual meeting in Montreal, President George W. Taylor devoted the major part of his address to Canada's economic prospects. He reminded the shareholders of Canadian secondary industry and some words of caution to say on Canadian-U.S. relations.

Canadians and Americans would do well to remember at all times that private prejudices are the key to those relations with one another he said. Canada owes much of its present standard of living to the U.S. and depends on the U.S. for export markets, capital and technical knowledge. The U.S. depends on Canada for its largest single export market and supply of many raw materials.

Over preoccupation with the problem of Canada's dependence on foreign capital has dangers, Mr. Bourke said. We must be aware but international investors discouraged and puzzled by the confusions in Canadian attitudes should lose interest in Canada. Canada's foreign trade need not be a back ... but ... potentially huge ... more or ... [illegible]

Check Sprayers Regulary For Efficient Operation

A random check on weed sprayers throughout the province last year showed that their equipment was in shockingly neglected condition. Many sprayers were not giving even spray and some were delivering as much as the volume of water in a given time.

The sprayer has now become a essential piece of farm machinery and like all equipment it must be properly maintained to do effective work. W. Lobay Alberta's Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control, reports an estimated 18,500 field sprayers sprayed over 7 million acres of cereal and flax crops in 1959. This represents 69 per cent of the acreage in these crops.

The cost of some of the new chemicals and the need for very close application make it imperative to have sprayers in perfect working condition. Aviation and Turbyne used for wild oat control will do an excellent job if properly applied. An overdose of either however will not only result in the end of the herbicide but may injure the crop. An underdose on the other hand will not get the desired results.

It is not too early to check your sprayer now. If the nozzles and screens have not been checked recently replacements will probably be necessary. Boom tips are relatively inexpensive and replacements of these that are worn will make the difference between a successful spraying operation and a failure. Many retail herbicide dealers carry new tips and other essential parts.

Mr. Lobay advises farmers to consult their district agriculture aids or field supervisors on how to make the best use of their sprayers. An efficient sprayer will kill the maximum number of weeds at the lowest cost.

Scientist Study Bloat In Cattle

Although no animal of the cattle kind is entirely bloat resistant there is a wide difference in the reaction of individuals. Just what that difference is, scientists in several parts of the world are trying to decide.

Particularly active is this field are the dairy men of the University of Alberta where Dr. Vic Bentley is also very active. The University of Alberta thought it also being given to the problem. Not so much from the succulent legumes as from the feedlot angle will the studies here proceed. Interested in these studies is Dr. V. E. Mirosh of the Department of Animal Science.

Dr. Mirosh arrived at the University of Alberta last October from the University of California, where he was closely associated with bloat research. Among other duties, he now intends to delve into the bloat problem as it appears in the feedlot areas of the province. There is a feeling among some feeders that stilbs may may be responsible for bloat and because of this a research fund is often neglected. In the supervisor of Dr. Mirosh only in very few cases could the stilbs be shown to predispose to stilbs.

Most research in the past has been largely concerned with the plants fed, and only recently has the contribution of the animal received attention. Both must now be considered. One point that seems to have agreement of recent workers is salivation of the animal as a factor. There is disagreement, however, as to whether the greater flow of saliva ... [illegible] or reduces bloat.

From the Calcherain studies of Dr. Mirosh the latter would seem true. Animals with the greater secretions of saliva would seem to be those less likely to bloat. The non-bloaters secreted about 30 per cent more saliva than did the bloaters.

Bloat is the concentration of gases in the rumen in a way ... [illegible] The second is ... [illegible] or ... [illegible] the gases and ... [illegible] the pressure subsides, trouble results. It is a matter of degree says Dr. Mirosh. When the ... [illegible] breaks down the bloat begins to appear and the animal becomes frothy, but subsidence of bloat varies with individuals.

The scientist, measuring pressure in the rumen, is better able to determine the severity of bloat than is the farmer by direct observation. Different animals possess body walls of different thickness and greater or sensitive fluid zone. Farmers usually exhibit a great deal of distention with only moderate ... [illegible] pressure. Others, with small amounts of slack and thick body walls, will show only moderate distention although the inter-rumen pressure may be ... [illegible]

1961 Weed Control Recommendations

A recently published report from the Canada Department of Agriculture outlines weed control recommendations.

Some of the recommendations are outlined below:

1. Couch Grass.

On a field under cultivation a method using perennial control measures. Summerfallow begin to the fall and to re-assert in the spring after 2 inches of top growth has emerged. Cultivations must be repeated whenever re-growth becomes noticeable.

For larger patches the use of 2,4-D or dalapon is quite successful especially when combined with cultivation. Repeat spots may be completely eradicated with these chemicals.

2. Thistles.

Both Canada and sow thistles are increased in several years. These weeds can be controlled. A combination of MCP and 2,4-D ester mixture achieves the results of 1 lb or 2 lb 2,4-D ester and 1/2 lb of MCP ester per acre. Applications late growth successful. Thistles should also be treated in a certain stage to prevent re-seeding. This can be done by applying the mixture of 2 lb 2,4-D and 1/2 lb of the mentioned ester to the summerfallow for the crop in the spring. Weeds are found. Usually appearing must be done.

and chemical methods and is used and under good conditions. However the best weed control methods will not be successful unless clean, adequate

Miss Dorothy Bredahl and Miss Edna Bredahl were the weekend visitors this week.

Mr. Art Holt returned home last week from Fort St. John where he has employed during the winter months.

Green members were given at the March meeting of the Evangelical Free Church Women's Missionary Society. The opening work period of mending and quilting was done. The meeting opened with prayer followed by roll call with each one giving a Bible verse. The chairman Dorothy Bowyer, then had the group divide into six groups and each took up topics to discuss relating to the responsibility of Christian mothers or parents, to their daughters in training, young and problem conducting people, department of young people. After discussion of the four groups of prayer for missionaries, a short business meeting followed and then lunch served by the hostess.

The Monday March 27th Mrs. Ethel Hutchinson will be hostess to the Erskine girls guide. At both the morning and evening meetings of the Evangelical Free Church of Erskine Miss Dorothy will be leaving soon for Japan for a period of two years study and then proceed to Brazil as a missionary with the Evangelical Church of Perth Missouri to work among the many Japanese people in South Brazil. Her words and messages were very challenging to both young and old.

Thirteen members of the Pure Gospel Tabernacle of Stettler and Cubs met recently in Erskine School. Mr. Ken Jones, the Cubmaster, was in charge of the meeting. Games were played and then lunch served by the hostess.

A MacDuff Ottawa Report

High Cost of Drugs

Drug prices in Canada have been a live issue since the Kefauver Committee in the United States made its sensational disclosures and the practices of drug manufacturers. In the House of Commons at the last session Frank Howard the C.C.F. member for Skeena moved that if documents submitted to the Kefauver Committee could be relied upon it would appear that Canadians paid the highest prices for drugs of any people in the world.

He said that the average cost of a prescription had increased by over 100 per cent between 1948 and 1958 and claimed that this was an exorbitant figure when compared with the rise in cost of living. Mr. Howard was moved by his leader Hazen Argue in calling for a committee of the House of Commons to make a study and investigation of drug prices.

Later speaking on the estimates of the Department of Health and Welfare Dr. Hugh-Jones (PC member for Jasper-Edson) agreed with the NDP that the question needed investigation. But he cautioned that the inquiry should be so conducted that the Canadian Pharmaceutical Industry was not hampered in its medical research programs and so that there would be no holdups in getting drugs to the patients who required them.

Dr. Horner according to all reports was rebuking sentiments that have been more freely voiced by members on the Government side lobbied closed doors in the Caucus Room.

A return brought down in the House of Commons at the last session in response to a query from Mr. Howard showed that the public pays a price for its drugs far in excess of that paid by the Federal Government. The Government he found had refused to pay any more prices for many brands.

To bring the information up-to-date Mr. Howard has again placed a question on the order paper at the current session of Parliament. He wants the Department of Defence Production and the Department of Veterans Affairs to provide data on its purchases of certain wonder drugs from January 1 1960.

The replies will augment information he already has obtained. So far the answers reveal that purchases of drugs by generic name rather than brand names are saving the Canadian taxpayer many thousands of dollars.

One solution suggested by the

CAPITAL HILL CUTBACK

Recently Members of Parliament noted that the parliamentary cafeteria had blossomed forth with some new stainless steel furniture. But when they removed the forks and spoons on which to lunch was stamped "Property of C.N.R." Mr. Speaker Roland Michener explained that there had been a mistake in the Department of Public Works which purchased stainless Steel Public Works cutlery would be new knives forks and spoons Made in Canada.

An Argus for sooner officer and staff has been set up in Ottawa to support of Hazen Argue. He is now national leader of the C.C.F. and has thrown his hat into the ring for the leadership of the New Party. Surprising in the amount of mail coming in Ottawa that favors his candidature It appears that his chief opponent will be Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan who has been dragged reluctantly into the fray.

The next Federal budget will

Congratulations Legion Midgets

The Independent joins the community in congratulating the Stettler Legion Midgets who have become the provincial hockey title this year. They showed much skill and determination in winning the Alberta B Championship and we are all proud of them, including Coach Clark Buringham and his assistants.

Looking back on the hockey season, it should be pointed out that three other teams reached Northern Alberta finals Recreation Bantams, Elks Juveniles and Imperial-Oilers. All were better than average teams especially the Bantams who thrilled their small following on many occassions with their flashy play.

Only one thing was lacking — fan support. This as a little hard to understand when one considers that the competition was excellent and the facilities at Community Centre are as good as any in Central Alberta.

Sugar and Spice

(By BILL SHELLEY)

How do you like the teaching game? So many people have asked me this question in the past few weeks that I thought I'd try to answer it here. My usual reply is what I hope is an eloquent "Ugh".

One reason I left the newspaper business for teaching was that I thought it would give me more time with my family. As a weekly editor I was out night after night covering everything from council meetings to the like. The only time I had with the kids was on the weekend.

As a teacher I spend a lot more time at home. And I am now free all day Sunday. I'm looked sorry in the smoke-filled little room on the second floor two nights a week and most of Saturday and Sunday. I see as little of the kids that there are times when I can't quite remember their first names.

Another reason for embarking on a teaching career was all those holidays. Two months in the summer. A week at Christmas and another at Easter. Of course last summer I had to go to summer school and work like a dog for two months. And this year I have to do the same. And at Christ mas I spent exactly 67½ hours, during my holiday week marking papers and it will be the same at Easter. And then, at the end of another year, when I am qualified as a teacher, I have to go back to summer school for yet another eight months. Ah, the joys of teacherdom. But just think, in 1966 I'll have the whole summer off. That's certainly better than the one miserable week I used to take in the seven paper business.

And then, of course, the money is good. My take-home pay is better than that of many truck drivers—almost as good as that of a welder or a bricklayer. Unlike them, I don't drive around and think of the next party. All I have to do is teach for 25 years, and I get the full pension. Am I ever going to raise hell around the town bowling club when I get on that pension! Wheelchair or no wheelchair.

But all these things are mere adjuncts to teaching. After all, we're not just interested in money and security, are we? Well, ARE WE? Of course we're not. Money is no more important than, say, breathing. So, what we are concerned with in life is the development of the human mind and when one can equate the water requirements of a municipality with the mental requirements of its inhabitants, then we'll start getting somewhere. Our Independent Water Board is a practical road to health — a practical road to health — which can be attained during the next year of lower consumption to meet the need of increased consumption in succeeding years. The time for talking is past. It is time for action. We should rather not build at the risk of not having enough water.

The Independent Water Board is composed of citizens who are willing to do something about the water problem. They are willing to do something about it. They are willing to do something about it. They are willing to do something about it

Objective Likely To Be Surpassed

Alberta's 41 goal clinging gifts are expected to equal and probably surpass the objective of eight million bushels of grain during this campaign, it was announced by Premier Manning at the provincial conference of Canadian Save the Children Fund.

The amount of grain needed for this purpose has been set at [illegible] bushels.

Harold E. [illegible] regional meetings, attended by Directors, managers and district agricultural representatives of the province, under the chairmanship of Premier Manning, were held in Edmonton, Lethbridge, Calgary, Drumheller, Wainwright, Peace River, Grande Prairie, Fort Vermilion, Fort Macleod, Medicine Hat, Vegreville, Vermilion, Camrose, Wetaskiwin, Red Deer, Stettler, Hanna, Provost, Lloydminster, Athabasca, Grande Prairie, Peace River

The federal-provincial programs of Old Age Assistance, Blind Persons Allowances and Disabled Persons Allowances will remain unchanged.

In addition the Minister noted its effect on child welfare. It is apparent that more children have been apprehended or neglected who have reached this point. A part of least through physical need in the parental home. The new program should thus have a favorable effect in reducing the number of children coming to care. They will be kept in their family environment and do so with less expenditure of public funds.

Details of the program have been worked out with the co-operation of the Federal Department of National Health and Welfare who will be sharing the costs under the Unemployment Assistance Act.

These in receipt of assistance from the Department and who will be affected by the amendment will be visited by a worker from their Regional Office to explain the change. They should not be concerned here as they are assured there will be no obligations for them to change from their present programs with its present benefits

Notes From The D. A.

By E. W. Walker, District Agricultural Representative, Stettler

Weeds Control

It is surprising that many farmers in the Stettler area have not realized the heavy losses which they suffer because of weeds. This is the time of year when grain in the banks of our [illegible] are [illegible] the lower of weeds or high than your Lentos due to weeds can be [illegible] following:

1. Lodged land — weeds in lodged cereals. This means [illegible] less value to the packer and the [illegible] is passed back to the producer in a reduced price for [illegible] during the weeds months of March, April and May.

2. Holes where are rented for another during the [illegible] months. The weeds holes [illegible] but the hide is weakened by [illegible] the areas of weeds [illegible].

3. Combing — Steel fires on the adult varieties and they cause cattle to stand in shade or water during the hot [illegible] months of the year besides running off [illegible] that we try to go out on pasture.

4. Poor winter gains due to the discomfort and other effects of weeds burns losing inside the cattle during the fall and early winter.

The losses due to the effects of weeds noted above estimated at many times what the cost control would be. Control can be carried out in one of several ways listed before:

1. Spraying or swathing with a weeds mash made from [illegible] preparations. This needs to be done about every three weeks in the spring as long as weeds appear. Summer preparations are safe for all classes of cattle.

2. The use of sprayers in the fall of the year. Spraying before the advantage of killing both [illegible] and weeds is the opposition [illegible] are not safe for dairy cattle or cattle to be slaughtered immediately. Spraying [illegible] may be applied by

a. Spraying with a high pressure sprayer

b. Pail or can concentrates for [illegible] work pursed in the fall

c. Administered in bolus or [illegible]

d. Other forms being tested e.g. ointments

Spraying appears to be a safe and reliable method especially since it helps to promote weeds [illegible] among all the farms of a district. Spraying associations formed by groups of farmers in each locality are successful in many parts of the Stettler area. A good example of what can be done is the R.D. of Bonny Plain where seventeen spraying associations are operating. A concentrated effort to control weeds [illegible] would pay big dividends.

EASTER — 1961

By Lillian A. Stroeder Strome

How again the seasons go and come have brought to us Spring and Easter. Spring the season of Hope and Promise and Easter the holy spring of Hope and Promise as well as the fulfillment.

What do Spring and Easter mean to you and to me. Surely all that they mean can be summed up in the words renewal and renewal a coming back to life.

Spring brings Hope. It is more than six months since the first bees were in the district and there has come with short periods between the land has been frostbound. Then or at less than six months for all the processes that lead to the budding of the grass. And think of the obedience to be surmounted in that brief space of time. Is there a man who would dare venture to guess if he had not hope?

Discouraging proves a crisis crops or none at all inability to pay one's way or to provide for the needs of one's family there leave the things that made men's hearts fail for fear at the end of last year's activities, but there has been a period of rest the chance to get a further perspective a broader outlook and now that the sun is melting the snow and filling the ditches and the rain is green is showing and the birds are building their nests and singing as they build. Hope very deep springs in the breast and all the true farmer wants is to get on to the land and sow the precious seed.

And Spring means Joy. We feel it good to be alive. We do not richly the sight and smell of the brown earth the warmth of the sun all the young things of life these bring to us a sense of something deeper than happiness most exulting than mere pleasure. Joy. The grace we say to God as Jean Ingelow tells it

Spring has months Strength that bushes have become soft and clustered in the morning and lower's feeding of the water. We are soft. We have to go to meetings gradually to the duties of the spring and for a time we are easily tired. But the longest week changes all that. Physical strength comes to us as we exert the strength we have and soon we can do a long and hard day's work with ease and keep at it as long as necessary.

Still another gift to the hearts of Spring is Beauty. Then are not a few words awakening we show not respond to the sight of the first blossoms the small of the field mouse and wild rose, the picture made by the tender green of the first leaves of the poplar mirrored in the smallest slough or pond. We are so surrounded by these things that we are in danger of not seeing them at all, but they are there for each one.

Helen Keller says that people do not use their eyes, and that if she had the faculty of sight for even a day she would look at it forever intelligently and at the beauty of a dog's eyes, and at the color of the eyes of her friends. We who have had physical sight for many years would find it difficult to describe the flower, or the dog's eyes, or even tell the color of the eyes of those we live with.

So all these things, Hope and Joy and Strength and Beauty with all that believe in their truth, create a coming back to life renewal. They speak to all creation activity in every phase of the actual and physical world. In a word they mean Spring.

He has the coming of Easter brought Hope. Before the dread days of the Cross the lambs have been in the pasture, grass of greed and rapacity and whatever. Great clouds have been hanging over the world but the Sun is above them. They are being dissolved and even now are beginning to lose the atmosphere by making less smoke that hangs north horn clouds.

From all sides we are hearing of them, will soon be a revival in religion. I prefer to think that there is being a revival of religious which is working like the leaven, silently but effective.

And the heaven is so power- ful as that less spectacular than the mustard tree. In the quiet and field what we have to do is to get on the land and sow the seed in sure and certain Hope of the harvest. And we have Hope because

And Easter brings Joy. The men that the disciples had when they realized that their loved Friend had risen is duplicated in our lives as we realize be- cause deeply subsidiary truth. The fact that their faith had not been misplaced, that their Friend had really proved that He was God and a Conqueror was to them something to rejoice over, and it prevailed and in the same manners on again we

In all believers.

In His memorable talk with his followers shortly before His death Jesus spoke many times of joy. There are full of He promises them 'I will see you, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy is given all things—all things—to you.'

Easter means a privilege already. The disciples who went to the tomb were the same men and women who returned from the tomb and not born different men their spirit. St. Matthew tells us that the two Marys de- parted quickly from the empty after with fear and great joy and ran to bring His disciples word. The certainty that Jesus was alive had given to them new strength and vigor.

And Easter opens out upon us the beauty of a religion of Love and of Service. In the Easter spirit we see the dreams so many men we find imagines in every hearts as the running brooks streams in stones and Good in everything. We hear the gospel of the day and see the knowledge shown from sight to sight in all the handiwork of God

Above all things Easter speaks of Life: resurrection life, immortal life continued life everlasting. Without it, would be a sad world of this life was all it

Education For Success

Edmonton has many experts lay as well as professional. It is looked upon as being something like politics on which one is supposed to have an an[illegible] knowledge. Therefore stemmed on all levels from the class-room to the ministry of education. Even kinder garten pupils have opinions concerning their curriculum.

[illegible] the many papers we regarded by readers as a source of incorrect merriment but there is nothing amusing about any theory that encourages young people to be satisfied with anything less than an education that is the most complete and well rounded available to them.

Many a youth has been lured from school with only a part education. In some of [illegible] false to the importance of getting prompt [illegible] on a payroll seemed compelling.

After a few months the youth learn ed that his was a dead-end job, making useful only one skill without much [illegible] its labor has no real [illegible]. His knowledge [illegible] short or [illegible] was useless [illegible] career [illegible] learned with some shock that no escape route has so far been found from the [illegible] discipline of education.

What Education Is Needed!

An eminent business man may not be able to put into capsule form the secret of his progress. He may say that it is his over-energetic operation of a gland or his energetic spirit or some sort of second sight or sixth sense. But all that speculation there is one fact readily seen and understood by [illegible] things when his knowledge was needed.

Even to get a decent start in business a youth needs a good basic education. A survey in Canada a few years ago showed that boys and girls who dropped out of school early had more difficulty than graduates in finding jobs. They took work of lower grade and they received less pay. Officials of the National Employment Service in Montreal announced recently that two out of every three unemployed people looking for work have had an education which stopped at grade eight. Even among boys looking for white collar jobs, the average grade level reached only 8.7.

Evidence of the need for education makes itself felt more strongly in the succeeding years. Every thought for the development of humans and for improvement in it methods has its origin [illegible] the thirst of knowledge.

During the past half century there have been great changes in the availability of knowledge and the amount of mechanical energy to develop them. Methods of production have been revolutionized.

In the shadow of such changes it is futile to argue that the era of the narrow expert has arrived with [illegible] of the scholar has gone. Every product process and job must be related to the whole picture. The tanning of paint engineers of the fabrication of a ban there require an intimate understanding of the state of our national economy within its world wide setting.

Keep Learning

Are there any short cuts? Is there any substitute for sound training in mathematics, in natural science in grammar and composition, in languages and history?

Easy methods seem to be a dogma in this continent but the budding business man cannot reduce the principles of commerce to a game at cards or the problems of management to puzzles and riddles. There is no way of cramming a lesson on a pill that gives wisdom by swallowing it.

Education is not for people who re sent the thought of scholarship. It is a process stretching over years of dili gent effort. It cannot possibly result from cutting up study outlines to pass examinations, or gorging digests of books so as to write essays.

Because business needs creative people with broad knowledge and capacity for independent thinking, its appren tices need not only to progress from where they were on leaving school but to make up what they left school with out having learned. The difference be tween the college success of enterprises is in the qualities of the people who work for them. Those qualities do not come by inheritance or by chance but by continued study.

No one will learn all he needs to know or become all he wishes to be, merely by reading the twenty-six vol umes of the Alexander Hamilton Insti tute Modern Business Library, or taking a course in business administration, but he will have a better chance to learn and become than the man who does not read or study. — Royal Bank News Letter

(By BILL SHELBY)

This is the fag-end of the year. Winter has retreated as valiantly as a rattlesnake with an army. Summer is in command in heaven. And the citizens of Canada are at the end of the tether.

In most northern countries, winter is the bad time. The Finns and the Swedes and the Russians do most of their business in the melancholy of the long, dark months. But Canadians? We are less hardy. We are going to meetings and watching the hockey games on television.

So, we get through the winter famously. It's around the end of March that Canadians begin to break. As we look at ourselves, to eye each other darkly. About this time of year though the weather is worst we never suspect it. most Canadians are as mad as March hares.

What's behind it all? First, it must be remembered that we have just come through a five-months siege by a fierce, determined and implacable enemy. We have fought gallantly and well, but our nerves are frayed, our bodies rachitic, and our galoshes holed. Second, through the seige is raised, and the enemy has moved off, the relief column is at least a month away. Our starving souls must feed on something, and there's nothing around to eat but people.

There are terrible stories in our homes, as men and women chew at each other and children snap at their parents in offices, leagues snarl and secretaries weep. In schools, teachers run amok and hurl themselves head-first at blackboards.

The March madness takes many forms. Honest, upstanding citizens spread bears crossings over morning tea. Some go in for gambling the Government. Elderly ladies stumble around their back yards in rubber boots, peering wildly at the ruins of last year's herbaceous border.

Other men drive far into the country and sit alone on a little bridge, bitterly watching rainbow trout leaping up a little waterfall. Other women die their hair puce, or start frantically painting their kitchens.

There's nothing unusual about all this. It's simply that the residents of this country have entered that miserable, wet, cold, frustrating dismal season that delights in the name of Spring, gladsome Spring. We might as well be honest about it. Spring in this country is a hideous nightmare that may last from the end of March to the middle of May.

Because we are a people used to Doing, rather than Thinking, we find spring an unprovoked attack. There's nothing to DO! Curling is about shot, and it's too early for boating gardening, golfing or fishing. It's too wet for anything practical, but everybody is so irritable it's rather a mess.

In other springs the waiting period, the spell of goodness, has resulted in enterprises around our place I have seen myself pick up a real shovel and batter a handsome old furnace with it until I dropped from exhaustion. I have seen my wife furnished with homicidal interest at catching me chipping pieces of coal with my nine iron when I was supposed to be cleaning up the basement.

In some countries spring may be a season for light hearts, for love, for song and laughter and dancing. But in the true northern spring evening it's a gay time of waiting, of despair of the March manic

You can't have a light heart when you have a heavy fuel bill. I defy anybody to wait in love in Canada in March. Your song can't be heard above the howl of the wind. The only people who are laughing are young lovers over by the bays in the white coats. And it's pretty awkward dancing when you've got to be down in mud.

• • • •

Oh, I'm all right. I haven't snapped yet. But my wife and kids are looking rather sinister these days and some of my neighbors are beginning to act mighty peculiar. And don't tell me that old lady who tried to push me in front of a moving cart at the store the other day was completely sane in the spring everyone in this country except the most slightly mad, mad, I tell you. mad Ho! Ho! Ho!

Farm Tanks Not Complete Answer

Milk with a superior keeping quality can be expected only with the use of refrigeration in conjunction with sanitary equipment and production methods says Dr. J. B. Lawrence, who is associated with the Alberta Dairy Branch. With the change-over to an every-other-day farm bulk tank pick-up service, milk is often a week old before it reaches the consumer.

Since the dairy industry began on a small scale, milk has been looked upon as a normal development when milk has been kept for any length of time. It was interpreted as an indication that the usefulness of the product for many purposes had come to an end.

With the introduction of the farm bulking tank, however the picture changed. Milk kept under these conditions and at a temperature below 40 degrees F. is better and more uniform in flavor and of the utmost importance that milk contamination on the farm be kept to the minimum.

Minimum contamination can only be achieved by thoroughly and regularly cleaning milking machines, milk pipelines and milk tanks. Modern dairy cleaners are designed to maintain the high standard of sanitation demanded by the dairy industry of today.

Ten Ways to Get the Best Trouble-Free Driving

WINDSOR (CANADIAN) — You ought to get the best in trouble-free driving out of your car now supported by Chrysler of Canada engineers. Here is how they suggest you can get along with your car.

1. — Don't make a habit of pampering the accelerator, especially when starting in the morning.

Pampering causes waste of gas and vital lubricant to be washed from the cylinder walls. Over a period of time, absence of lubricant causes scuffing, scoring and wear of pressure rings and piston.

2. — Don't overwork your battery.

Frequent short stops over-work your battery. Allow it enough time to recharge.

3. — Don't overwork your battery.

Frequent short stops over-work your battery. Allow it enough time to recharge.

4. — Don't drive short distances repeatedly.

The short-run habit of many car users helps to keep the engine from reaching its proper operating temperature. Moisture condenses in the engine and dilutes the oil. Fuel vapors also condense on the cylinder walls and dilute the oil. Over a period of time, dilution of lubricant causes scuffing, scoring and wear of pressure rings and piston.

5. — Don't make a practice of jamming on the brakes.

Few drivers realize it but repeated hard stops can wear out brake lining in as little as 10 000 miles of driving. Also, such stops pile heavy scuffs on brake drums. The pattern of repeated hard stopping on a date becomes so brake life up to 75 per cent.

6. — Don't repeatedly bump the curb while parking.

It endangers front wheel alignment.

In city driving wheel alignment is especially important because 90 percent of the time you are making turns if only slight ones.

Bumping the curb over and over — with resultant wheel alignment problems — causes undue tire wear and actually can make a tire almost bald within 2 500 miles of driving. And alignment also gives [illegible]

Testing Program Becoming Popular

The 50 per cent increase in the number of Alberta entries in the Federal-Provincial Performance Testing program indicates its growing popularity in this province. Here in its second year of operation, the program has 60 herds entered on test and 1,810 calves were weighed but last says Alberta's Live Stock Supervisor J. S. Law.

A recent report, prepared by the Livestock Division of the Canada Department of Agriculture showed that 2,382 head of cattle completed the Performance Testing program in Canada, last year. Over 65 per cent of these animals were from Alberta Entries included Aberdeen Angus Herefords and Shorthorns from the three prairie provinces, Ontario, Columbia and New Brunswick. The top third of the animals gained a half a pound a day faster than the bottom third which is quite a significant amount over a long feeding period.

Following is a list of the numbers of cattle, by breeds, at present under test in Alberta.

United Church Session Opposes License at Golf Club

Maintaining that they were not expressing opposition to moderate drinking but were opposing to both distilleries and moderate drinkers to consider the serious implications which would be involved in the event a license to sell beer should be granted to a spa-ite club, the Elders of the Session of Stettler United Church Monday night accepted and approved an 11-point statement registering disapproval for granting the proposed beer license to Stettler Golf and Country Club Association.

(Editor's note: The statement referred to above was handed to the Editor by Rev. A. G. A. McCurdy on Tuesday morning with the request that it be published in Stettler Independent. Lack of space at the late date made it impossible to include the statement in this week's edition, however, it will appear next Wednesday, April 25th.)

The tea room was decorated in the various colors of the world theme with posters from various countries and also a very attractive display of costumes. Each table depicted a country and as the guests arrived they purchased a passport to the country of their choice. They were served by the girls dressed in colorful costumes. These costumes were very colorful and appropriate and added much to the illusion

A combined meeting of the boards of the eastern Alberta health units was held at Red Deer on June 1st. Chairman Mr Glen Anderson represented Members of this meeting and our entire township. The annual meeting of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Villages will be held in Edmonton in September of 1961. This will be the first time in 1961 that many meetings are of value to the boards concerned.

Mr Glen Anderson represented us on the board for the City of Camrose. This re-elected chairman and Mr T M Robinson represented us for the County of Stettler, who re-elected vice-chairman of our board.

In her absence, Miss A Barbara Taylor took over Mrs Grevett's duties at Bashaw.

At the time of writing the report the unit is fully staffed and no other changes in personnel were incurred.

The car for people who like boats

A Volkswagen will cost you a thousand dollars less than most conventional cars, and half as much to run. You'll save enough to buy a boat and trailer. Or a trip to Europe. Or the best part of a back yard pool.

The car you'll get to go with it is designed and built to meet the needs and fit the pocket of the average family. Big enough for two adults, three growing kids and luggage. Small enough to park where other cars can't.

Because we don't believe in costly style changes, we can build more quality into the car. A VW doesn't date and it doesn't depreciate. It just keeps running, season after season, looking up to the minute as the days in the showroom.

You can expect to get 30 miles from a gallon of gas under normal driving conditions. You'll never need anti-freeze. Ever.

You can cruise all day in the sun, or dawdle for hours in a jam. The Volkswagen can't heat over because its engine is air cooled. It's far from unusual for a Volkswagen to go 40,000 miles without a major repair.

If you'd like to buy a boat for anything else for a thousand dollars, see your Volkswagen dealer. He'll show you the car that will raise your standard of living.

VOLKSWAGEN CANADA LTD.

This is your nearest Volkswagen dealer. He is part of a network of 150 efficient VW service stations right across Canada.

Trade between Europe & a fork-way event. Most Volkswagens sold in the country have Canada as their primary home. Over 90% of all Germany from the car then goes.

I shall never forget where I heard that cry. It was a high pitched and exhilarating gradual ly increasing to crescendo as more and more voices mixed with the brief while the rotary valley was filled with the sound of it. I have heard it many times since then but I am accustomed to it now and I no longer stand entranced and enjoy it. But the people's expression of over whelming grief at the loss of a loved one cannot fail to touch a heart.
And the drums. They can be heard for miles throbbing rich mously on the still night air. At first I could hear them all night long but I seldom hear them now and if I do it seems to come from a great distance. But they are still there, pulsating in her many with pagan hearts speak

Agriculture Research Branch To Control Irrigation, Drainage

OTTAWA A recent step in the implementation of the Canada Department of Agriculture Act for flood prevention and fertilizer said in brought about April 1 when a key member of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration organization and drainage division will be turned over to the department's Research Branch in Lethbridge, Alberta.

The new branch, coupled with the building of some 30 dams on the subject of irrigation by the reclamation experts on the Red Deer project as a guide for an extensive program of irrigation and drainage research and development in the province.

A significant contribution made by the division toward a more sound and permanent basis for irrigation on the prairies has been the development of a division in its work on the Bassano Experimental Farm near Brooks. Planning and the first stage of construction of the Bassano project was carried out by the PFRA. Following its organization with other government agencies, the division since 1956 has pushed an ambitious program of research and assessing all information on the subject of irrigation. Using actual experiences on the Red Deer project as a guide, the division gathered has been used into a compact package that can be used in assessing matters of future irrigation problems.

This system based on the Red Deer project was used by the drainage division has become more

Its Elsewhere

On the PFRA project to end the staff assisted in the survey of more than 600,000 acres of land in Manitoba they helped survey 120,000 acres of land in the southern part of the province.

The survey work required both the testing of over 30,000 soil samples at the Vermilion lab and the engineering done on the project to organize plans for the two provinces.

The Golfers' Corner

By Bert Spencer

[illegible] week is about to [illegible] the golfers on the 9th hole. The president and host [illegible] extra nice array of a Battery [illegible] on Saturday. I don't know of this is a gold or [illegible] balls either or not.

Speaking of clubs, I see that Curtis Rabel's score of seventy-two are on the job working on his [illegible] and Pool says that it should be open for business by the month end. Another word of warning to the wise and that is to get your [illegible] in early. To quote the powers that be, I thought that a $2.00 a year charge will be levied on this and when all entertainments have been met through this medium, that it would then be a members free privilege in the future.

The catch of paid up members is still creeping up and Shelley reports that new members are coming in almost daily. The new Amerada Oil crowd may spoil the ranks a little and are ready in the form of one Bill Brace we have a modest hungry customer. As a matter of fact and to the best of my knowledge Brace has honours for the week go to Bill who carded a 38. Some of Ted's misery got him piled up in that deal. I also see by the score cards that we have a teenager Sam Russell coming up. Pat Harrison turned in a very neat card including four 3's another Congratulations Pat and keep up the good work.

President Ted also has served a few novelty club competitions and all members are asked to keep posted on these by [illegible] of the bulletin board in the [illegible] room. Wally's outfit is getting better every week and I see that he made a golfing acquaintance last week-end up [illegible] I believe also that Wally is working on obtaining a couple of sets of both left and right handed clubs that he has plans for coming. There is also some talk of a golf ball recovery scheme in the offing. By means of a name suggesting itself any balls found will be turned in to the Club House and resold to the person to whom they belong for something like 10 cents each. The success of this venture of course depends on the members turning in the balls they find that are so printed and with someone else's name on them. Remember it may be one of your own that is turned in and paying 10 cents is a lot better than buying a new ball at $1.25 each.

DiCola and Cooley will be glad to see that the dough on ice and crown is drying up and this will solve the "bunker" problem there. After last week's column we still have not heard any news of a social in the near future. I was sure too that we [illegible] would start there thinking along those lines.

Oh yes, must tell you about the chap who stepped at a drive ring range one day and saw a gorilla pounding out 300 yard drives. Well he arranged a match with the local shark on which he bet very heavily. The gorilla stepped up and when 300 yards down to middle to within four inches of the cup. The local yokel of course took an usual four to get up where certain putting distance where-upon the gorilla stepped up for his four inch putt and when 300 yards down the next fairway.

Well that's surely enough for this week.

Prairie Grove W.A.

The Prairie Grove W A April meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. Simmons with [illegible] members and two guests present.

Mrs. Marion Stevens called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Stevens also in charge of devotional chose "Survey of Faith" as the theme. This was very interesting.

Plans were made for a Mothers Day Tea and Bake Sale.

The Census Of 1967

A census is a count of the number of people in a country or district, usually with details of their ages, occupations, etc. [illegible] census is taken every ten years, in the years ending in 1. The last census was taken in 1961, and the next one will be taken this year, 1967.

[illegible] census is taken by sending a census taker to call at every home in the country. He asks a number of questions, and writes down the answers. The questions are printed on a census form, which the census taker fills in.

The census is a count of the people in the country at a certain moment. The moment chosen for the census is midnight between two certain days. For the census of 1961, the moment was midnight between June 1 and June 2. The census taker asks questions about the people who were living in the house at that moment.

The census is taken by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which is a department of the federal government. The bureau has a staff of about 1,000 people, and during the year of a census it employs about 6,000 census takers.

The census is taken for many reasons. One reason is to find out how many people there are in Canada. Another reason is to find out how many people there are in each province, city, town, village, and district. Another reason is to find out how many people there are in each age group, such as how many children there are under five years old, how many children there are between five and nine years old, how many children there are between ten and fourteen years old, and so on. Another reason is to find out how many people there are in each occupation, such as how many farmers there are, how many lawyers there are, how many doctors there are, how many teachers there are, and so on. Another reason is to find out how many people there are in each religion, such as how many Roman Catholics there are, how many United Church members there are, how many Anglicans there are, how many Presbyterians there are, how many Baptists there are, how many Lutherans there are, how many Jews there are, how many Mormons there are, how many Jehovah's Witnesses there are, how many Christian Scientists there are, how many Salvation Army members there are, how many Quakers there are, how many Mennonites there are, how many Hutterites there are, how many Doukhobors there are, how many Greek Orthodox there are, how many Ukrainian Orthodox there are, how many Russian Orthodox there are, how many Eastern Orthodox there are, how many Coptic Orthodox there are, how many Armenian Orthodox there are, how many Syrian Orthodox there are, how many Ethiopian Orthodox there are, how many Indian Orthodox there are, how many Chinese Orthodox there are, how many Japanese Orthodox there are, how many Korean Orthodox there are, how many Vietnamese Orthodox there are, how many Thai Orthodox there are, how many Burmese Orthodox there are, how many Cambodian Orthodox there are, how many Laotian Orthodox there are, how many Malaysian Orthodox there are, how many Indonesian Orthodox there are, how many Filipino Orthodox there are, how many Australian Orthodox there are, how many New Zealand Orthodox there are, how many South African Orthodox there are, how many Rhodesian Orthodox there are, how many Kenyan Orthodox there are, how many Ugandan Orthodox there are, how many Tanzanian Orthodox there are, how many Zambian Orthodox there are, how many Malawian Orthodox there are, how many Mozambican Orthodox there are, how many Angolan Orthodox there are, how many Namibian Orthodox there are, how many Botswanan Orthodox there are, how many Lesotho Orthodox there are, how many Swazi Orthodox there are, how many Mauritian Orthodox there are, how many Seychellois Orthodox there are, how many Comorian Orthodox there are, how many Malagasy Orthodox there are, how many Reunionese Orthodox there are, how many Mayotte Orthodox there are, how many Djibouti Orthodox there are, how many Somali Orthodox there are, how many Ethiopian Orthodox there are, how many Eritrean Orthodox there are, how many Sudanese Orthodox there are, how many Egyptian Orthodox there are, how many Libyan Orthodox there are, how many Tunisian Orthodox there are, how many Algerian Orthodox there are, how many Moroccan Orthodox there are, how many Mauritanian Orthodox there are, how many Senegalese Orthodox there are, how many Gambian Orthodox there are, how many Guinean Orthodox there are, how many Sierra Leonean Orthodox there are, how many Liberian Orthodox there are, how many Ivorian Orthodox there are, how many Ghanaian Orthodox there are, how many Togolese Orthodox there are, how many Beninese Orthodox there are, how many Nigerian Orthodox there are, how many Cameroonian Orthodox there are, how many Equatorial Guinean Orthodox there are, how many Gabonese Orthodox there are, how many Congolese Orthodox there are, how many Zairean Orthodox there are, how many Central African Orthodox there are, how many Chadian

From Oven To Freezer

Those of you with freezers may want to take advantage of the lower spring power rates and do some baking during the summer. Are you familiar with how foods panel freezing baked goods.

Cakes and Tarts—

Most cakes (even cupcakes) and the recommended storage time is six months. Bake fruit cakes that most quickly when thawed they should be packaged in amounts to use at one time. Frostings made with confectioners' sugar and liquid as well. Candy-type frostings such as fudge should be made will never soften enough to spread nicely. Also minute type frostings break down in storage. Cream fillings do not always freeze well.

Cookies—

There is little difference between freshly baked cookies those baked before freezing and those baked from frozen dough. Most cookies can be frozen baked or unbaked. Baked cookies thaw quickly but require more freezer space than unbaked dough. Wax paper cartons make good containers for storing frozen cookies. The cartons should be lined with saran wrap or a aluminum foil to prevent cookies from drying out.

Pies and Tarts—

Fruit pies freeze very well. Pies may be frozen in the unbaked state, then baked without thawing. Pie frozen unbaked pies do not cut terms until baking time. In berry pies extra thickening may be required since freezing seems to demand that. Fruits which may darken or if apples, peaches should be steamed for two minutes or dipped in a solution of one teaspoon ascorbic acid to one pint of water. Wrapping is easier if done after the pie has been frozen.

Butter tarts thaw quickly at room temperature but fruit and mincemeat tarts taste fresher if thawed in a 375 F. oven.

Your Freezer—

Freeze your bread and rolls as you have room in your freezer. There will never be a good time to use twelve months. Try to however how quickly. Be sure before time is not possible.

Cakes and Tarts—

Fruit berries can be frozen satisfactorily. If the recipe calls for fresh or orange rind (or down the amount as freezing seems to intensify the flavour.

VITAMIN A- 1,000 Units Per Bag

In recent years livestock producers have become concerned about the losses they have experienced as a result of Vitamin A deficiencies. Vitamin A deficient rations fed to breeding stock will result in weak or blind pups and weak or blind calves. The young animals are readily susceptible to scours and although they may survive they are usually so stunted reduced to as "runts". They make poor gains and are sensitive to disease. used by rough coats and a listless condition. In severe cases of Vitamin A deficiency, the young may be born dead or even aborted. Penalties exists with a Vitamin A deficiency may show watery eyes or even blindness, or where all opposers normal poor gains and severe coats of Vitamin A deficiency under prolonged feeding (180 300 days).

Any roughage which lacks green color or which has been stored for over a year should be suspected of being low in A (carotene) content. The Vitamin A level in plants decreases with the maturity of the plant so that roughages cut in normal shows maximum relatively little carotene. The only manner of being certain of carotene content is to arrange for an analysis.

This is the time of year when sales personnel of doubtful reputation become really active in rural areas of Alberta's Extension Engineer J. L. Boyd reports that a number of requests over a year ago for water softener and water pumps for which extensive claims have been made have already been reviewed by his department. The farmers said that the water softening equipment and the pumps had not performed in the manner claimed by the salesmen. The overzealous of guarantee had proved to be worthless.

When contemplating buying water softening equipment you should know the approximate amount of water that will be used, have hard your water is and what chemicals are present. Your local health unit will upon request, collect a water sample and get it analyzed by the provincial analyst. With the analysis a report and the knowledge of the amount of water used, you will be able to see whether a softener is necessary and if it is, the capacity of the equipment required. Mr Boyd advises to take the information to a reputable dealer in your locality.

If you are planning to install a new pump in your well, the same advice applies. The type and type of pump depends upon the volume of water required, the depth of the well and several other factors. When in possession of this information, discuss your requirements with a reliable dealer.

Information and publications on water treatment, sewage disposal and pumps can be obtained from your local district agricultural or from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Quebec Social Crediters Promising $100 Monthly

The Big Question

One of the big questions being asked here is when is Premier Peter Lougheed going to call a provincial election.

Again that date seems to be May 25.

The usual rhetoric is that the funds are coming from B.C. and Alberta premier. The B.C. premier is undoubtedly well-heeled by Premier Bennett and Premier Lougheed who is not to be outdone by the Social Credit government in Alberta is well-heeled right now because of the high price of oil.

Gets Morning Report

Surprising enough, it was Premier Manning who gave the Quebec Premier Duplessis his only broadcast time on radio to counsel. The B.C. Premier had Mike Hawthorn and Jack Davis broadcast a special Credit M.A. report over all radio stations in Alberta one morning at 7:30 a.m.

Premier Manning was on the 630 radio station in Edmonton and Premier Bennett was on the Calgary station.

Premier Manning has been in Ottawa for the meeting and is a member of cabinet. He says he was in the Ottawa chamber when a chairperson in the Red Deer district said to board members of the Alberta cabinet as a backdrop to his remarks. However his remarks were appropriate, because Credit unions were not packed with Social Credit supporters. What is of concern to the Premier is the big number of people who have deserted the once beloved Social Credit party.

To March In Ottawa Parade

Bonnie Hammond, 10, Stettler, will march with other members of the Stettler Minor Baseball Association in ongoing activities in preparation for the Canada Baseball Hall of Fame induction weekend.

The children will be marching in the first annual National Baseball Week parade, which features Prime Minister Trudeau as honorary chairman. Bonnie's club will be in the Peace Tower to take the salute.

The affair is sponsored by the Canadian Automobile Association.

250 New Specimens For Display At The Calgary Aquarium

A recent expedition in the Pacific Ocean Elmer Taylor curator of the Calgary Aquarium and Pete Berringer a commercial fisherman netted nearly 250 specimens of marine life for display at the Calgary Aquarium. Among the new additions are dozens of all their town subscribers Neither Lacombe nor Stettler had this additional information provided.

We have no quarrel with the fact that Rod Deer and Drumheller both have additional information provided. Both of these centers are classified as cities, but we find it hard to understand why Hanna and Ponoka should be blessed, and Lacombe and Stettler ignored.

Only look at flowers one way or speak to a many ways as the many occasions but there's a card. Choose it from the many we have and when you buy there's no time to fit your occasion by choosing them. You'll be time to drop in at Dorothy, where you have all flowers on display, but buddies, and all but a lot of flowers. So, don't do "flowers by phone" but go to your florist shop because the card is left for your pick and send by him.

The Curfew Bylaw

What [illegible] why has the town council established a curfew bylaw, or rather [illegible] Stettler is the only town in Alberta to have a curfew bylaw. It might not be such a bad idea if it were [illegible] but it is not. It is directed against a small group of teenagers, well behaved youngsters and hooligans. If there are some that are making nuisances or committing petty crimes at night let the police force get them off the streets and out of public places and forget about a curfew.

What right has the council to tell young people of 14 and 15 years that they can't go into a restaurant or moving picture or go roller skating after 9:30 at night. That is a decision to be made by the parents. It might not be such a bad idea if [illegible] but it is not. It is directed against a small group of teenagers, well behaved youngsters and hooligans. Doesn't The A.G.T. Like Us

Lacombe Globe:

The new telephone books are out for central Alberta and as we opened ours last week we were disappointed. Lacombe phone numbers are listed as usual but no addresses of town telephone subscribers are given.

Checking through the new book we note that both Ponoka and Hanna telephone subscribers have listed the addresses of all their town subscribers Neither Lacombe nor Stettler had this additional information provided.

We have no quarrel with the fact that Red Deer and Drumheller both have addresses of subscribers listed. Both of these centers are classified as cities, but we find it hard to understand why Hanna and Ponoka should be blessed, and Lacombe and Stettler ignored.

The advantages of having addresses listed are obvious. Such information provides the business of a person as well as his telephone number. Town authorities and towns people generally have gone to considerable expense in the past in having house numbers clearly marked and street signs printed at intersections. Use of these numbers when listing telephone subscribers would be a public service of great value.

We had been led to understand that individual addresses of town subscribers were gathered by local telephone employees, and that such information would be included in the directories of the new directory. But here the directory is out, and the information not published. Doesn't the A.G.T. like Lacombe?

More Canadian Investment

(From The Victoria Daily Times)

Mr Coyne has many critics but probably no one disagrees with him to the extent that more Canadian money is needed in the nation's industry. The problem is to attract more risk capital from Canadian investors who, it is said, [illegible]

But as the Montreal Gazette observes, we are going about that problem in a queer way. "The fact," says The Gazette, "is that the present structure of the country has been devised to discourage the accumulation, rather than to offer encouragement to it. The result has been that Canadians, deprived of their own capital, has become increasingly dependent upon foreign capital. For there is no substitute for capital. If the laws hinder its accumulation at home, it will have to be brought in from abroad."

At present our national tax policy discourages Canadian investment in business by levying a double penalty on the same [illegible]

Our Beginning

Our store has grown and has had many progresses during the last 20 years. It was in 1941 that the local people decided to do something about their needs of services. At that time due to economic ills they decided to pool their resources and raised enough capital to start a businness to give themselves services at cost. The first meeting was held at the Schreyer store which is now owned and enlarged by the Co-op membership. This venture had a humble beginning, but lots of faith and hope. The Co-op movement started with a membership of 85 and capital of $1,200. To date the membership has grown to over 600 and last year's sales of goods amounted to $398,000. Our services have been extended to groceries, lockers, meats, meat processing, feeds, fertiliser and farm supplies.

Too old to buy insurance?

Being over 65 is no barrier to the purchase of new life insurance. And for many people in their sixties or seventies it can be a very wise "buy."

Here's an example. A man age 75, has a substantial number of investments. At death, estate taxes will have to be paid. To raise the cash, income-producing assets have to be sold, often with severe losses to the beneficiaries. Life insurance can prevent this loss by providing the necessary cash.

Manufacturers Life has a sound reputation for its liberal approach to insuring older people for the purpose of estate conservation or for guaranteeing the continuity of a business. Our representatives are qualified to provide competent counsel to help our senior citizens meet these special needs.

ROYAL YORK STORES PUTS GUESTS TO WORK

Workers of the Edmonton Royal York hotel in Toronto made up extra staff for the hotel's banquet department. Hotel Manager Harold Radley hailed customers' operations as a "first-yearers" term with guests making their own beds, and cleaning their own rooms anyone. The hotel has brought workers from out of town and has hired two part-time employees. Above guests are shown making up beds and running the elevators.

BANQUET OR DINNER?

This is an excellent time to climb aboard entertaining bandwagon. First thing you need is [illegible] and you don't have to [illegible] Mother's Day is [illegible] suppose we should give the graduating class for a man [illegible] is confused.

Sit down and do a little quiet thinking before the rush starts. Then put your thinking into the form of lists.

RULE 1 –

Do not serve foods with the festively pronounced flavours as [illegible] you know the guests will like them. I am thinking of such foods especially those people the [illegible] trials of every day [illegible] Therefore avoid strong flavoured and different foods

RULE 2 –

Do not repeat the same foods you usual. If you have [illegible] pizza for the first course don't have [illegible] tomatoes in a vegetable or sliced tomatoes for salad. Don't use pineapple in the salad and repeat it in the dessert.

RULE 3 –

Plan foods which will not be [illegible] by standing. Do not [illegible] now carefully you plan it, there is almost inevitable A meal [illegible] for 6 o'clock seldom gets underway before six thirty. Some people are just naturally [illegible]

RULE 4 –

Do not serve foods with delicate [illegible] sauces. For instance, fruit cup [illegible] pineapple [illegible] flavors are all made up of foods which have been and into small pieces. It becomes a [illegible] up meal.

RULE 5 –

Don't try to follow class eaters when preparing a meal for a graduating class. Women and girls may look fine on a slim [illegible] but they are unappetizing when you see them in food. Blue foods are never attractive to either.

RULE 6 –

Be cautious in the use of the word banquet. A meal with [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Only One Horse To Every Farm

Look there's a horse

In this age that is a thirty out of urbanization on passing one of those noble animals in the country.

Recent estimates by Canada Departments of Agriculture or statistics show there is now a lot of one horse to a farm in Canada where, for years ago the ratio was five to a farm.

The number of horses fell from a peak of 3 640,000 in 1921 to about 470,000 in 1960. That is also about the number of tractors on farms.

As the tractor was displaced by the tractor the farmer's chores decreased and grains and pasture became available for other livestock.

It has been estimated that the acreage of oats and hays harvested by the decline in horse populations over the last 30 years is 67 millions and if pasture is included, the land made available in this way for other uses amounts to 10 million hundred acres.

The Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects concluded that between 1941 and 1955 some five million acres of land were freed for other uses through the increased efficiency by tractors, but added that in the next 25 years the more than two million acres of improved hay land could be freed in this way.

Despite a 2% million drop in the number of horses between 20 and 30, there was an increase of 11.5 per cent in total animal units in that period. Grain consuming animals were up 12.7 per cent but hay consuming dropped 1.5 per cent. The larger number of cattle on farms has not entirely absorbed the forage production formerly consumed by greater numbers of horses and sheep.

Horse numbers first climbed over the three million mark in 1915. In 1921 they dropped below three million. In 1941 below two million and in 1954 below one million. In 1959 the number of horses on farms was mainly in the prairies — 282,000 South central provinces 166,000, Atlantic provinces 16,000, and British Columbia 25,000.

The 1956 census reported 1,000 horses elsewhere than on farms, which would include racing stock and officials think that this figure has not declined. The annual thousand will have a lot to ponder in January and February.

Western Agriculture Facing Drier Planting Season

Total precipitation was below normal for most of Canada's farming areas during the last seven months of 1961.

The Peace River area in northern British Columbia and Alberta and the Great Clay Belt in northern Ontario were about normal and some areas such as southwestern British Columbia had much above normal precipitation early in 1961.

In many regions the dry weather continued into the first three months of 1961.

Except in the province of Ontario, where soil moisture is generally adequate, soil moisture is rarely adequate according to Canada Department of Agriculture meteorologists G D V Williams of Ottawa. This year although the topsoil is moist the water table is well below the surface in many areas. Shallow wells are very dry over the winter particularly in Ontario.

All the precipitation that falls on the prairies is needed to keep the soil moist.

Rain by Areas

In southern Alberta from the Red Deer area south, summer and autumn rainfall was subnormal to southern Saskatchewan precipitation was generally well below normal during the summer months and winter at least in early February in the areas along the north of the South Saskatchewan River in the west and from the Qu'Appelle River north in the Saskatchewan River in the east. It was similarly dry along the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border. In the area within 50 miles of Yorkton the summer and the autumn rainfall were each less than half the normal and winter precipitation was also below normal. Elsewhere in southern Saskatchewan there was drought either in the summer of in the autumn.

South-eastern Manitoba from Lake Manitoba west to the Saskatchewan border and south to the U.S. border, had less than half the normal rainfall in the late summer and fall was near normal.

Most parts of the prairies had adequate moisture in the soil at the beginning of the 1960 crop year, and where this was preserved by summer-fallow the soil moisture conditions are generally fair.

However the attention is now on the stubble land since the summer was wet up by the 1960 crop and has not been replaced in sufficient quantities by fall and winter precipitation.

Tips On Checking A Weed Sprayer

Farmers are urged to check that the air can escape a little from sprayer tanks to make sure pressure does not build up to dangerous levels, Weed Control Inspectors for the Alberta Department of Agriculture point out.

Failure to provide for this escape of air can cause the tank to explode, or the safety valve to blow off, thus spilling valuable spray material.

Inspectors also caution farmers to check their sprayers for leaks before starting to spray. Leaks can cause serious waste of spray material, and may also result in poor weed control.

200,000 Cattle Tested In Brucellosis Control Program

The campaign to combat brucellosis in cattle in the Alberta Brucellosis Control area has now passed the half-way mark, with approximately 200,000 cattle tested to date.

Dr. W. F. Rushton, Superintendent of Brucellosis Control says that Alberta cattlemen should be commended for their co-operation and efforts towards the control of this disease.

All districts in the Provincial Brucellosis Restricted Area, with the exception of three have been established as Federal Brucellosis Control Areas.

The Alberta Department of Agriculture's Brucellosis Control Area plan which stipulates computer vaccination of herds calving within a designated area once every eleven months ago. After five to seven years of calfhood vaccination the program provided for blood testing of all cattle in the district so that the province could eventually be declared free of the disease.

The Health of Animals Division of the Federal Department of Agriculture have now undertaken the blood testing. This phase of the program is progressing rapidly in the Eltham Federal Control Area, and already under way in several districts.

There is some doubt that blood vaccination has played an important part in reducing brucellosis throughout Alberta. According to Dr. Rushton some authorities have expressed the opinion that vaccination should be continued after an area has been certified as free of the disease, in order to prevent brucellosis from getting a foothold again and to help speed up the eventual province wide eradication of the disease.

The GOLFERS' CORNER

By Bob Spicer

Golfing for the early birds on Sunday last was wonderful. I am afraid that those gals and guys starting out in the evening may have got a little wet though. All in all, we were greeted with another lovely day for washing the fairways. I see where Blaney took advantage of it and came in with low score for the week with 35 strokes. Following him were Bob Brant 36th Reader and Tom Ramsay with 36's.

The second two-ball competition went over with a bang too and ended in a four way tie by Cy Coates with Jean Peterson, Paul Peterson with Audrey Reader, Bill Bruce with Del DiCola and Ted Keats with Flo Armstrong shared the honors. When it finally came down to a draw Del DiCola and Audrey Reader were presented with the prize golf balls. I understand Bob Reader and Marion Magee received the booby prize but I think the lost ball about tops — the letter. The women's low for the week went to Mary Gaul and Kay Page with 67's. Nice going gals. I have seen Tommy when he couldn't buy a 67.

I see where the fellows have went up the golfing honors and the first season is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday. Some of you beginners that haven't signed up yet please don't be bashful and let Wally know that you are interested. There is still room for more.

By the way those of you planning on taking on the Drumheller Tournament over the week-end give Ted a buzz on the phone and he will see that your entry gets in. Otherwise don't forget that you must draw at the course in Drumheller no later than 9:00 a.m. on the Sunday.

Well we can't let an editorial get away without a mention of the dues. Where we have been full of praise for the way they have been coming in previously the time has come where we must start insisting that they be in by June 1st. If you cannot make it at once tell your story to Wally and I am sure that some arrangement can be made.

The course is getting in better shape every day and what with the [illegible] of Jerry [illegible] have a [illegible] course now in a little [illegible] and I think the harmony will be on as good a shape as it ever have been [illegible] course are for [illegible] looking for a few more entries for the president's challenge cup. This is also to the board. Another two ball ended Sunday will be held on June 18th so pack your partners and come out and enjoy yourselves. Don't forget Ladies Day is held every Tuesday afternoon rain or shine.

Notice Re Golf Lessons —

We have several names turned in for lessons so the first class will be held at the Club on Wednesday May 17 starting at 7 p.m. This is open to any beginner or golfer ready or [illegible] owner or junior. The club is sponsoring and paying for these group lessons so come on out and take advantage of them.

Caterpillar Outbreak Expected This Year

Scourge of the Canadian poplar, the forest tent caterpillar is on the move again in northcentral Alberta.

This is alarming news to those who know of previous visits. First recorded outbreak was in 1927 when great numbers were reported throughout Canada. In 1923 caterpillars were so abundant that piles of these hairy tents covered the ground to depths of eighteen inches in Edmonton. Outbreaks occurred again from 1929 to 1937 and 1947 to [illegible].

C. E. Bowers of the Calgary forest biology laboratory said the native insect has been responsible for [illegible] in Alberta since earliest settlement by the white man.

The current outbreak began in 1957 in the Elk Point district, east of Edmonton. It has gradually grown, and in 1960, caterpillars were defoliating thousands of acres of poplar trees east of Edmonton and in the Peace River region. They can be expected to be abundant over a large area of northeastern Alberta in late summer, conditions during the winter and spring of 1960-61 are believed ideal for hatching eggs and the subsequent development of larvae.

The caterpillars are a serious nuisance around resort areas where they are numerous enough to strip trees completely in heavy infestations the caterpillars travel in search of food and may completely cover the ground and invade camp grounds, beach areas and home sites.

Although this insect prefers poplar, it feeds also on fruit trees and many shrubs. Favorite food source early in spring is the leaf buds of poplar, but when these are exhausted the caterpillars will feed on the leaves of many species of trees and shrubs.

The full-grown caterpillars are bright blue along the sides and have a row of keyhole-shaped, white markings along the back. The rest of the body is black and is covered with long, reddish brown hairs.

The last caterpillar stage leaves from the trees in early summer but the trees produce a new crop of leaves in July, enabling the trees to recover partially from the defoliation. Four to six years of complete defoliation will kill the trees but in Alberta infestations have seldom lasted this long and few trees have been killed.

The leafroller caterpillar and how he spends it's time in the early morning and afternoon. At the head caterpillar shed skin.

Shopping for a new car? Be sure you slip into this one before you put your money down.

It's the new VW Custom Model. The best value ever offered, even by Volkswagen.

What's new about it? The engine for one thing. It's got more power to push you up hills, and past those big trucks, too. But it doesn't use a drop more gas than the old one.

The transmission too. Now all four gears are synchronized. You slip into first without stopping the car.

You'll notice these improvements as soon as you drive. But there are others of equal significance. The greatly enlarged luggage space, for example! Your VW dealer will get a big kick out of showing them to you, one by one.

And while you're at it, he'll oil to get the price as low? Nothing.

You still get a spare wheel and tire, heater/defroster, hood lock, park, windshield washer, two padded sun visors, directional signals, bumper over riders, big 15" wheels and oversize tires.

See your Volkswagen dealer and drive the complete car with a lot missing from its price tag.

*Manufacturer's suggested delivered price, P.O.E. Windsor, Ontario. Subject to change without notice. Optional extra.

President,
Stettler & District Board of Trade
Dear Ray:

On behalf of all members of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce who participated in our Friendship Train, please accept our sincere appreciation for the [illegible] and hospitality that was extended to us in Stettler.

We are sorry that of necessity our visit was rather brief. Even in the short time at our disposal all of us were tremendously impressed with your fine community and you certainly lived up to your tradition of being most generous hosts. I know that Hon. Mr. Patrick derived a real thrill out of driving the old model Ford at the head of the parade which was so well organized and which we all enjoyed so much.

Sincerely yours
F. T. Jenner,
President

OUR WHOLE FAMILY KNOWS

the difference between shopping and "CO-OP Shopping"

Like thousands of other Co-op families, we found out for ourselves – Co-ops are different. There's a warm, friendly atmosphere about Co-ops, the kind of feeling you get when you're with neighbors— the satisfaction of working together and of sharing together. We can save in every department—on every purchase, all year 'round. We can all participate in the satisfying rewards of "Co-op Shopping." There is a difference!

CO-OP

The business premises of the Stettler Co-operative store soon became inadequate for the merchandise volume required to supply the needs of its increased membership. So in 1946 steps were taken to purchase the old Safeway Building and Locker Plant for $22,000.00, the money being supplied by the members and by a loan from Treasury Branch. The business progressed and flourished and a new expansion was necessary in 1950-51. The store was enlarged to the south by 13 ft the back part extended and lockers added.

After this expansion, critical times faced the Stettler Co-operative Association as a business reverse occurred due to many causes. But the co-operative members, understanding co-operative principles, supported their store by continued patronage, and weathered this storm gallantly and came out with success and stronger than ever.

By 1960 their store building, inventory and Co-op Parking Lot was owned 100 by the members. The Stettler Co-operative Association is in a position to redeem a percentage of its member savings every year. The new renovation begun in 1960 and completed in 1961 is paid by deferred patronage loans and by debentures issued by the Association and bought by members. The Stettler Co-op Store is in a strong financial position.

The Stettler Co-operative Association is a member of the Co-operative Wholesale and receives the savings through it at the wholesale level. By October 1961 Alberta Co-operative Wholesale will have completed amalgamation with Federated Co-operative, and this will place Stettler Co-operative Store in a position to receive savings at the manufacturing level too. Federated Co-operative is also in the happy position to redeem a percentage of its member savings in cash each year.

YOU can afford to be friendly for over $70,000,000 a year

All Albertans benefit from the tourist trade. This year tourists will spend over $70,000,000 in our Province, a very material contribution to Alberta's economy.

Put tourism on a friendship basis in your community, and increase your share of welcome visitors. Treat our guests with respect and courtesy . . . be fair in all your dealings.

TOURIST PURCHASES and tourist taxes add to Provincial income without entering into competition with our labor.

EVERYONE supplying goods or services benefits; food processing plants, factories, distributors, retailers, to mention only a few.

COURTESY PAYS dividends. Visitors enjoying the warmth of friendly hospitality overlook many inconveniences.

ENCOURAGE our visitors to stay a day or two longer. Suggest things to see and do. Invite them back again.

THE BOARD OF STETTLER MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL IS CONCERNED ABOUT CHILDREN PLAYING ON THE MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL GROUNDS

But only does this expose the grounds and snow AIDS IS IN FACT A THREAT and the Board is concerned also lest any of the children might suffer injury while playing there.

The Hospital Board does not accept any responsibility if such an injury should take place and hereby gives public notice in that effect.

EFFECTIVE JUNE 4th For Alberta Government Telephone Subscribers

NEW 7-FIGURE TELEPHONE NUMBERS

WILL APPLY ON ALL NEW TELEPHONES, MOVES, AND CHANGES OF LISTING

In preparation for DDD—Direct Distance Dialing—and the coming of inter-continental dialing . . . it is necessary to change your telephone number from 2 letters and 5 numbers to the new 7-number system. For your maximum convenience, the change will be a gradual one. In future, all new numbers, moves, and changes of listing will be to the new 7-number system.

The 7-figure numbers will be grouped in an easy-to-remember 3-4 system. Example: 324-6181 rather than the old GArden 4-6181. As the first two numbers in the 7-number system correspond to the letters GA in the old number . . . stationery, signs and existing advertising material will not have to be changed immediately.

These new numbers are a necessary step in Your Telephone Company's continuing program to keep pace with world-wide telephone development.

United Nations Theme Needs Work

We find that the host theme for a delegate to the Wild West theme It is a colorful exciting and entirely suited to the occasion It is especially fascinating when the delegates' host is a locale that was once on the extreme of the Wild West This city has had decades of experience handling conventions and visitors from the south, from the east and from Indiana The host is has long been until fairly recent years However we feel the Wild West must be used on the following grounds 1000 to the Chilli Pepper parade 1000 on a Stampede pin Sharon Clermont Lynn Hammond Donna Clermont and Nancy Hill for the purpose

This is not to say that we don't like the theme of United Nations where are Stampede Committee of the Legion has selected for this year's event It has to adaptable and colorful and quite apt because of so many nationalities especially from Europe make up our society

The theme is interesting enough to arouse enthusiasm on the part of everyone. To be effective every business will have to adopt the national dress and manner of some country and this is a little more difficult than picking up some stetsons chaps and the other cowboy accessories of everything from some where This will take some time and all are urged to get on the job now The United Nations theme also demands something a little out of the ordinary for the parade plans for floats and decorated cars won't wait until the last minute this time

The theme can attract much attention to Stettler but it will require imagination and work to be really effective

Daylight Saving Time

Another summer season is upon us This being Alberta we can almost gaze entire it will be a good one with sunshine and showers but one thing will be lacking The long evenings will soon get too short Our summers are all too few and short at that and they could be improved with daylight saving time

For some reason the Government of Alberta is opposed to the measure We suspect the real reason is the opposition of the Farmers' Union However we can imagine what a fine thing it would be if the local supporters of the FUA could enjoy the benefits of our summer evenings for just another hour The sun wouldn't care the livestock would not object and the wheat would go on growing as usual Perhaps they use all the daylight there is but there are many other men who can't do that They are tied up in offices and shops and the only daylight that they can enjoy is after six o'clock

When God said "Let there be Light" he wanted men to use and enjoy that light and although daylight saving is not mentioned in the bible the reason has been found in scripture! In fact I can't see any logical reason why there was no complete industrial development But when the dark fell and the evenings arrive those living in urban centres realize that they have lost an hour of daylight per day by not having the simple arrangement of day light saving in operation during the long summer evenings

Of course any town or village in agricultural Alberta could institute day light saving by opening the business places an hour earlier but it is not easy to change the habit of shopping hours

Sugar and Spice

(By BILL SMILEY)

It's not exactly a doll world we live in, with its wars and rumors of wars, its rockets and bombs. In between movies and development children, its constant threat of annihilation. So, you couldn't exactly call it a doll world.

But lately you've mostly become heartily sick of stories about the trouble in Laos and the trouble in Adenn and the trouble in Cuba. Then you pick a table story of the never-ending stream of pronouncements from the Americans and the Russians, every one sounding exactly like the last one.

Don't you get a little fed up with the endless flow of orthodox adult opinion? Don't you sometimes wish you could just turn Eichmann over, or turn him loose, and be done with it? And don't you wish that there was a whole group playing "hunting in the Congo"?

Sometimes I become so bored with the monotony of our daily fare of science, murder, violence and how it is driven to vending machine and our ads and the real estate ads, for some light entertainment.

It isn't the fault of our newspaper people and our television newscasters. I guess. They do a commendable job on the whole, and make a desperate effort to extract some sense from the round and fury that goes on our world.

But they simply can't keep the shell continually alive and vital for us. We've had too much of it. We're saturated. After a week of watching the greatest comedy in the world, we'd be yawning until the tears ran.

Few of us could listen to even such great talents as Elvis Presley for more than 10 or 12 hours at a stretch. People who are interested in bird-watching don't necessarily want pigeon pie for every meal.

And that's what is wrong with the ordinary Gus or Gert. That's why our basic intelligent Canadian housewives read the slightly vicious columns by young women who offer advice to the lovelorn, rather than the latest from Laos. That's why the system of our Canadian democracy can be found with its head buried in the comics or sports page, rather than the editorial page.

We all know we should be concerned over China, riled about Russia, upset with the U.S. hreasted off with Britain, vexed with Venezuela and having conniptions over Cuba.

But we can't do it. We're pulverized with world editors, after two decades of war, hot and cold, bombs, atom and hydrogen, and wried, mostly hot. Even the first story about a landing on the moon will likely elicit no more than a bored "And about time too." from us.

This was the frame of mind I was get ting when home and I had occasion to see the daily paper for anything more than the comics and evening garbage.

But I was saved by a couple of stories in the newspapers that revived my faith in human nature, and in the world as a interesting place to live not merely a grim and gloomy asylum whirling about in the dust of man's destiny.

The first story contained a statement from a Mr Samuel Silverstein, secretary of the Flin Flon Security Inc and daily that there is transients—Gangsters of Boston and Chicago of the U.S.—could not get into Flin Flon once threre is no cash there

If Gangsters thought the earth was round, during his satellite trip, said Mr Shenton, he was simply repeating an opinion which has been existing for more Columbus He added "Humanity has been brain-washed scientists into the round earth theory."

Well all I can say is "That's telling them Mr Shenton" More power to you and the Flin Flon Security For years, we've been swallowing everything the scientists tell us, without a question

I've never been convinced, myself, of that theory about the earth being round, and I'm glad to see some healthy scepticism about it. And if the earth is warmed by the sun how come it's so cold in winter" And what be came of the Garden of Eden" And why are women so hard to get along with"

You see" The scientists have been telling us a lot of stuff about light rays and neutrons, but they shy away from the important things

The second story to cheer me up was the one about the bum-again at Blind River An they pulled away from a service station the attendant saw a man sitting and sticking out of the trunk of the car He shoved police and they threw up their hands and all over the place

They subdued the young man, but meanwhile had the body The lads were fined for creating a public nuisance That must indeed be tough I'm not here on practical basis

Then I thought of the day a friend and I were out fishing recently We stood, up to our breast-bones in ice water, in the middle of a vast swamp created by a beaver dam We couldn't kill whether we were fishing in the stream, or just in flooded fields And we were happy to pigs, calling quietly to each other that "this is the life."

As long as people are still able to deny that the earth is round to pretend that they have a body in the trunk of the car, and to delude themselves into fishing where no trout has ever trod, there's hope for the old worn-weary world.

WEEKLY MEDITATION

(By Rev Randolph R Mohr)

Greetings in the Name of the Risen and Ascended Lord Jesus all great event era of the Christian Year which we celebrate as we remember those who would become disciples of Jesus Christ

Is it possible for a man to drop from calendars? I suppose it is. Just as you think no one is left in the world DEMING Jones has found an exception! In fact I can't even get him to remember Mother's Day, Fathers Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, and all the other days which would have found no remembrance!

But I'm glad to say that I've found at least one person remembers Easter. Who remembers? Why the first Easter Bunny of course! Remember the one that came just ten days earlier kept His promise and sent the gift of the Holy Spirit upon His disciples who were assembled in Jerusalem!

We read of Christ's promise to send the Holy Spirit in John 15 26 We read of His ascension into heaven forty days after His resurrection in Acts 1 4-11 And we read of His sending the Holy Spirit from heaven in Acts 2 1-13 These are historical FACTS which the Christian Church commemorates It these FACTS have become rather long memories of the hope of time then perhaps it would be wise to re-read those Bible portions once again

Then we'll join you next week some time some place to discuss with you the significance of Pentecost today! Until then may God bless and keep you in His enduring love

Stettler Paper
Stettler, Alberta

Editor Sir:

There cheers to the town council on their passing a curfew law How many times have we gone out to the local cafe and paid hell only to find many young misses (some of them in the teens) in the group wanting their time smoking and making a general nuisance of themselves If the parent cannot cope with the problem then let us be thankful we have someone who can and will if they are allowed to do so Personally too these children would by some stretch of our imagination be responsible for being compelled Now that we have a curfew law for brevity's sake let us keep it and we have it It is certainly a step in the right direction Congratulations council on your fine work in this respect Now if we could only do as well with the dog population in the town

Have You Considered ?

(By S P Freeman)

We have become a nation of hitchers and gadgets. Our homes are cluttered with them Our cars are festooned with them We are ever scouring them You, we are almost becoming a nation that cannot get along without them

While we try to attune ourselves to ever increasing pace of living, we have not yet become adjusted to the strain and toughness We have become soft I fancy that even the devil's work in charge of the human souls he feeds on What took our ancestors to bear we shelter from Whence it has forearmed grocery?

And what can we do about it? Do does not even have to fight for his bread as our ancestors He just has to gather them in with various gadgets with the pay which we subsidizers and expect! All we have to do is wear the carpet of our stomachs and we don't to his subsidizer

I'll tell you something that we can learn to do about it We can learn to say no to ourselves for a change We can discipline ourselves to be content with what we have instead of trying to get more and get on the merry treadmill We can say to our physical desires NO We can begin to rule our bodies and our cause and bring them into subjection

What do we have needs for? To rule our bodies What do we have needs for? To love God and our neighbors As long as we continue to be controlled by our physical appetites we are a physical people, a nation a generation on the way out

The time is late Much later than we think We cannot be satisfied with enough We will always want more of the material side of life—the gadgets

The thing we all must do to change our habits, our minds and thought is to rid of life our possess If we do not our possessions will possess us, and that very shortly WHAT ABOUT YOUR GRAVE?

DIARY OF A VAGABOND

(By Dorothy Barker)

The CNR coffee shop car was filled with cheerful morning travelers all perched on stools and staring into space Usually a coffee shop is a hive astir on the good train for that is one service I and dozens of commuters types ruling between Canada's two largest cities really appreciate But the night I came to be different I parked my room mate at her food and perched at the counter with the rest of the travelers

I don't know why I even looked at the menu, because my selection was always the usual coffee clear please" Getting beside me was a well built, dark haired girl who wore no make up and looked as if she had been dragged up over her pretty head in a hurry and pressed. I noticed her hands particularly because they were unusually large for a working girl which I presumed she was Long tapering fingers ended in colorless, yet beautifully groomed nails

Perhaps one could you tell me what waffles are" she asked in a voice and manner that sounded like a spoiled child requesting over the needy bed of a broken mother I had never before realized how much from a mother pressed over a bit even appears on that squeezed them into a pretty face Sometimes I think we express pangs of holding soft butter and sweet syrup, her English reserve took on into a friendly smile

"NO maple syrup, that is truly Canadian isn't it" She was so enthusiastic about the idea that before I realized it I was telling her about waffles and maple syrup

Newspaper people never can leave well enough alone they always have to ask questions and then they are never sure such as "Why do you think of Canada" Perhaps I never should have asked

Her reply wasn't exactly eloquent but it was sincere "There was great excitement of our population from her two countries have been overcrowded of not too flattering in her opinions our men and boys are rude undemocratic, devoid of courtesy ill mannered, virile handsome completely uncommercial and most obvious of differences Our children are born, little bellbens have been the table manners and don't know what the word "obey" means Canadian women are beautiful, slaves to convention, too thin or too fat, have—in the majority of cases—dreadful taste in clothes and their hair—Oh! Coffee regime is thoroughly organized but sadly the average Canadian man is a total loss I imagine he makes at home is a hunting and fishing lodge or on a rugby field, than as a guest at a formal dinner

The all sounds as though I don't like Canadians I do In fact I envy them in many ways They are unashamed by centuries of racial association, if they are artists at least you know how you measure up to their expectations like or not working men on their own level, recognizing their ability without resentful prejudice Well, anyway she ended the maple syrup and the waffles

The last I saw of this frank young lady was the back of her well tailored suit as she made her way to the south section of the night train to Montreal Another criticism she had made of Canadians — They do not take advantage of the country's excellent travel facilities Every weekend we are cooped up and rather spend my money of farce than on holidays

She made a clean I could not dispute her and she was ready to wager that she and "those" were known to the enormous net spenders of western Canada then any Canadian male or female of her age and income

On this same trip I had another revealing conversation I was sitting in the lobby of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal waiting for some friends for my return journey when a frail young man sidled surprisingly "You are not American" She rose brown eyes were twinkling and I found myself looking into an immaculate white linen handkerchief He said he was from Iran, an educator who had been establishing a new business in New York City Confused and disillusioned by the hurly-burly and heartlessness of that great metropolis he had traveled to Montreal to find rest for himself of all human existence as the part of the North American continent was a haven and, as his European mind reasoned

For Be Too Small

After three days we had fallen in love with Montreal and Canadians "Your cousins are so like Europeans" he said are too flamboyant in their style sense. The obvious in their sex appeal. You have time here for leisurely pleasure in New York you even count the minutes it takes to eat a meal Your businessmen are courteous they do not make you feel that you are wasting their valuable time There is perhaps too much drinking Why cocktails before luncheon' Your coffee is awful but your tea satisfies your population too small but your hearts are so big Canada is a most beautiful country you should be very proud to live here

Both argue from remote parts of the world with totally different backgrounds had combined up with combined their opinion of Canada and native Canadians

I don't remind of them but since the last war Canada like the United States because of emigration has become a veritable kaleidoscope of nationalities Though the government has promised that there is such a thing as a Canadian for census purposes the really young man hardly knows what the show to countries and probably the child' mother would be of almost any national background

A Sordid Tale of Greed

It's a sordid tale of selfishness and greed the McClellan subcommittee has been unfolding in its hearings on mis-

Those lanes add up to one of the largest and most intricate and most amazing construction jobs in history They are also one of the most pressingly urgent without hesse. the measles might as well not be built and the nation's sinks in those measles needs no re-emphasis here

Testimony about actual weekly pay at construction sites has put the lone lane-dough in dramatic focus 2013 to $274 a week for electricians, plumbers—with taxpayers footing the bill That included overtime at up to four times base pay

Lawn Weed Control

Effective control of clustered and white Dutch clover is known as controlled from weed studies conducted by the Department of Plant Science at the University of Alberta. Lawnsmen and fairways users in Edmonton and Banff are now using the recommended methods with very satisfactory results.

The potential chemical weed problem is 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T and Silvex. Silvex is not used but has effected control of clover in many tests. It is a complex chemical and is not likely to be commercially available for some time.

Carried forward in the tests, 2,4-D is the chemical which is currently used on a commercial basis. Silvex is expected to be available next year.

With effect of these chemicals the objective can be achieved in the greenhouse and lawns, 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T are combined with 2-4-D to Dicamba which has been generally used as a dual-purpose spray for clover and broadleaved weeds like dandelion and plantain. In these greenhouse experiments with Silvex and Cide grass was controlled.

Also reported are comparisons between the three. Silvex is the most problem. Silvex will be slightly better if the idea is to kill both clover and the broad leaved weeds. Dicamba Compound or Dicamba may be used. THESE SUGGESTIONS ARE NOT WHERE WE LIMITED ONLY. Dr Cicero continues. There are many combinations of these two chemicals that might be used, the assessment of which must await experimentation.

Would your life insurance pass this test?

Financial security for the family depends on how well these five basic needs are provided for. Will your life insurance and other resources

1. meet the heavy expenses that will occur at your death
2. cancel all family debts including mortgages on your home and estate loans
3. furnish a living income for the family while children are dependent
4. provide enough money to carry out your plans for their higher education
5. and give your wife a worry free income if death after the children are on their own

If you are in doubt on any of these points, call the Man from Manufacturers. He has a practical reassuring device, the Security Graph, that will help you determine whether there are any gaps in your family's financial security.

Canada's Missing Housing

The members of Canada's nation housing dwelling units will be solved by the June census.

Latest estimates places the number of Canadian dwelling units at something over 4 billion. But if past experience holds true — and expectations are that it will. That estimate falls below the actual level.

Census Mortgages and House say the data, to be of long range benefit, must be the number of old dwellings to go out with adequate for old houses torn down or burnt down the CMHC, is able to estimate the number of Canadian homes built by months.

But a census provides the accurate number of new dwellings built or under-construction as well as remodelling rating. Following the 1951 and 1956 censuses CMHC released its estimates upwards. The same process of increase is expected to begin again this autumn after preliminary counts of dwelling already available.

Canada isn't the only country under the long march of its new housing needs. Federal and the United Nations Housing Institute of the U.S. in 1950 have been constructing figures were found somewhat around 15 per cent from the early Era. of that 8% added had been on other than year to year but from 1 million actually been built.

Please any member or personally the committee, Mrs. Mohr, Mrs. Getzel, Mrs. Filipek, Mrs. Mrs. Robinson and [illegible] them. You can phone Elvred [illegible] and we will gladly pick up the clothing you have ready for us, to add to the big pile the people of the community will be bringing to the hour of worship next Sunday. Or maybe you just want to give it to a member of our church, and he'll be glad to bring it along. You'll find members of the [illegible] Church all over town, and glad to be of service.

Liberals Rapped For Apathy

Alberta Liberals were rapped today by their provincial president Emil Hastings of Calgary for apathy and lack of interest in the welfare of provincial and constituency organizations.

The Alberta president said Liberal constituencies must elect officers for an unusual lack of criticism and confidence in the part their candidates were not current provincial membership going to be elected if back and forth. The membership in Liberals continue to sit on this area to increase provincial membership to 5,000 new members by 1963 and to take 10% of the ob- pertain to a national Liberal action had been reached. Members and the provincial executive simply had to be good and authorized him to ask for enough the resignation of officers not fulfilling their responsibility and this would be done early in June, if progress did not materialize.

He told the Stettler Independent that the operation of a certain and local constituency association is a costly undertaking and every Alberta Liberal must assume his share of the subscription with membership fees and contributions.

The Alberta president said Liberal supporters must be convinced and appreciate the fact that candidates were not

WEITZ — HIRINGER

The Stettler United Church rang on Saturday, May 8 at 2:30 p.m. when Rev. McCurdy performed the ceremony of Lorna Ann Hiringer, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hiringer of Botha and Harold Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Weitz of Stettler.

The bride was beautifully dressed in a floor length gown of white peau-de-soie. Her shoulder length veil was held in place with a band of sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink delight roses.

They were identical street length gowns of light blue organza over taffeta and matching head pieces with shoulder length veils. Their accessories were white nylon gloves and white shoes. They carried identical nosegay bouquets of white carnations and pinks. Their drop pearl necklaces were gifts of the bride.

Attending the groom were Mr. Clarence Weitz of Stettler and Mr. Charles Weitz, brother of the groom of Peace River.

The ushers were Mr. Richard Hiringer, cousin of the bride and Mr. Douglas Hunt of Drayton Valley.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Vivienne Gerkol sang, "The Wedding Prayer".

The mother of the bride chose a blue silk floral sheath with matching accessories with white accessories. Her corsage consisted of pink roses. The mother of the groom chose a beige floral sheath with corsage accessories with blue accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremonies a reception for 125 guests was held in the Stettler Memorial Hall. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake decorated by Mrs. Charles Watson. The table was flanked by tall white candles and baskets with bouquets of pink carnations and white mums.

Mr. Fred Winters acted as toastmaster. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Peter Chilowsky, was ably responded to by the groom. Telegrams of congratulations were read by Mr. Fred Winters.
